Mitchell Named Labor Secretary

GOP Businessman To Succeed Durkin

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower today picked a Republican businessman, genial, 52-year old James P. Mitchell, as his new secretary of labor.

The former New York City department store executive will take his oath of office tomorrow morning in Eisenhower's office and then attend his first Cabinet meeting.

Eisenhower told his news conference that Mitchell is a man of extraordinary ability and great character with long experience in labor relations problems. His home is in Spring Lake, N. J.

Reuther Satisfied

Mitchell's selection was greeted with varying comment. Some Democrats and union leaders expressed disappointment that a man from union ranks was not chosen. But the appointment was generally hailed as a good one, even by CIO President Walter Reuther.

Mitchell an assistant secretary of the Army, with a decade of experience in government jobs, declined for the present to express any opinions on the hot Taft-Hartley law controversy. He told reporters he intends to do "the best possible job for the people of the United States."

Succeeds Durkin

Mitchell will succeed Martin P. Durkin, Democrat and president of the AFL Plumbers Union, who quit Sept. 10 with a charge that the White House reneged on an agreement to recommend to Congress a series of amendments to the T-H law, many of them favorable to unions.

Eisenhower later denied he had ever knowingly broken his word to anyone. He has promised to send Congress suggestions in January for correcting "a number of defects" in the T-H law, a statute the President says is essentially sound.

Eisenhower Acts To Stop "Loose Talk"

President Indicates Soviets Have H-Bomb Or Its Forerunner

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today Soviet Russia now has "the capability of atomic attack on us" and commands "a weapon or the forerunner of a weapon of power far in excess of the conventional types."

The President made the statement at his news conference in an effort to clarify seemingly conflicting statements by various officials on the potentialities of Soviet atom bomb and hydrogen bomb developments.

Eisenhower also announced that he has asked all members of his administration "to refrain from comment on Soviet nuclear capabilities unless they first check their statements with the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission."

The President's statement—both as to Soviet H-bomb progress and silencing official tongues—drew mixed comment from members of Congress.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass) said Congress "must not be stampeded into spending vast sums" for national defense in the light of the new analysis of Soviet weapons.

"Another Way To Ruin"

"That's another way to ruin, too," Martin said. "It could wreck the fiscal situation of the country. We must keep our perspective and not get too excited until we have all the facts."

Asked whether Eisenhower's statement might change the tax picture when Congress returns in January, Martin told newsmen:

"Security, of course, comes first. But for anything I know, we can have security and still fulfill our promise for expiration of the excess profits tax and reduction of the individual income tax next January."

At his news conference, Eisenhower read swiftly from a prepared statement, reviewing the facts of Soviet progress in thermonuclear armament, and declared:

"We, therefore, conclude that the Soviets now have the capability of atomic attack on us, and such capability will increase with the passage of time."

U. S. Arsenal Increasing

As for this country's strength, Eisenhower gave assurance that the arsenal of U. S. atomic weapons is "large and increasing steadily."

"It is my hope, my earnest prayer, that this country will never again be engaged in war," he said.

At the same conference Eisenhower announced the appointment of Assistant Secretary of the Army James P. Mitchell, 52, of Spring Lake, N. J., as secretary of labor, succeeding Martin P. Durkin.

Eisenhower's statement on Soviet H-bomb progress came after Democratic senators charged that administration spokesmen were spreading confusion by conflicting statements on the danger and imminence of Russian assault with new weapons of mass destruction.

POW Explanation Centers Will Be Rushed By Allies

PANMUNJOM, Friday, Oct. 9 (AP)—The U.N. Command said today a building speed-up may make it possible to start "explanations" to balky prisoners of war on Monday.

Brig. Gen. A. L. Hemblen, Allied commander for prisoner affairs, wrote the Neutral Nations Repatriations Commission that the Allies with the help of India guard troops can cut from seven to five days, the time required for building a temporary shelter in which Communists will give their "explanations" to 22,500 Chinese and North Korean POWS refusing to go home.

The commission yesterday indirectly accused the U. N. Command of stalling Red explanation efforts. It asked the Command to build an explanation center within four days or let the Communists do it. Hamblen turned down that proposal, and also an offer of Communist help.

"Your offer of assistance from the Communists has been considered," Hamblen wrote Indian Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, chairman of the five-nation repatriation commission. "The proposal cannot be accepted."

But Hamblen did agree to put construction work on the temporary shelter on a 24-hour basis and accepted "your kind offer of assistance from troops of the (Indian) custodial force" which guards the POWs in the neutral zone.

On this basis, he said, the building should be completed by Sunday, and talks with the prisoners could start the next day.

British Troops Land In Guiana

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Oct. 8 (AP)—Gov. Sir Alfred Savage got military backing today for his campaign against what the British Colonial Office calls a Red plot possibly aimed at putting this South American colony under Communist rule.

While small groups of persons watched quietly, several companies of Royal Welsh Fusiliers landed from British warships in the harbor of Georgetown, the capital, a city of 75,000 marked by wide, tree-lined streets and many canals.

Some troops mounted guard at government headquarters here. Others were assigned to patrol the big sugar plantations, a source of vast revenue and recent labor trouble, on the irrigated plains outside the city. Police guarded the homes of government ministers and prominent citizens.

Though the show of force was denounced by Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan of the leftist People's Progressive Party (PPP), the situation appeared calm. Jagan was blocked yesterday by Speaker Sir Eustace Woolford, a government appointee, from presenting a motion in the House of Assembly declaring the presence of the British warships and troops was an act of intimidation likely to provoke incidents and demanding that they be withdrawn immediately.

Vincent Astor Weds

BARHARBOR, Me., Oct. 8 (AP)—Vincent Astor, retired Navy reserve captain, and Mrs. Charles H. Marshall were married today at the residence here of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer.

Astor and Mrs. Marshall, daughter of a former Marine Corps commandant, were married by the Rev. James Lancaster, minister of the Bar Harbor Congregational church.

Actor Nigel Bruce Dies Of Heart Ailment

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Oct. 8 (AP)—Nigel Bruce, the Dr. Watson of "Sherlock Holmes" movie and radio serials, died today of a heart ailment.

His physician said the 58-year-old actor was stricken with coronary thrombosis last Sunday and was taken to St. John's Hospital. He had been troubled with a heart ailment about a year ago.

Bruce, who was equipped with a thorough British accent, played a variety of roles on the stage and in movies, radio and television. Films in which he appeared included Clarlie Chaplin's "Limelight" and Arch Oboler's "Bwanna Devil," one of the first 3-D films to be given general distribution.

Dewey Moves To Clean Up Harness Racing Scandals

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey moved today to clean up scandals in New York's 250 million dollar a year harness racing operations by appointing an investigating commission to "turn harness racing upside down."

The three-man commission is charged primarily with probing into stock ownership and other financial interests of every trotting association in the state.

Dewey said the commissioners will try to learn whether any public officials obtained stock free or at "inadequate" prices and whether gangsters hold any financial interest in the associations.

They will study hiring practices and the possibility of kickbacks, extortion and coercion being involved.

Dewey said racing dates for harness tracks next year would not be assigned until the commission "has thoroughly investigated, turned harness racing upside down and made its report."

The harness racing scandals, involving payoffs and kickbacks, but not the conduct of races, sprouted from the Aug. 28 slaying of Thomas Lewis, leader of an AFL union local that has a closed shop contract with Yonkers Raceway.

The former convicts questioned in the slaying were found to have been employed at the Yonkers oval.

This led to disclosures that the Yonkers operators had paid almost $200,000 in less than four years to "trouble shooters" to avoid strikes or other labor strife, and that 35 of its employes chosen from union lists had criminal records.

Then came allegations that employes at Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island were forced to kick back $345,000 to union officials to hold their jobs.

Classmates Pray For Bobby Greenlease

Classmates of little 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease, slain kidnap victim, kneel in the chapel at the French Institute of Notre Dame de Sion in Kansas City, Mo., during a mass said yesterday for the parents and soul of the slain boy. The child was taken from the school Sept. 28 by Bonnie Heady, one of the two kidnap suspects held in St. Louis.

Truman Worried About Republican "Stand Stillers"

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman tonight expressed concern over the Eisenhower administration's policies toward counteracting a depression.

Here to receive the $1,000 annual Sidney Hillman Foundation Public Service Award, Truman said in a speech prepared for a dinner in his honor the "Old Guard of reactionaries" has gained new strength and is striving mightily to overturn many constructive achievements of recent years.

"We should resist their efforts with all our might," he said, "because our country today is too strong, too full of opportunity and hope, to let it be ruined by a set of dismal blockheads who want to return to the days of McKinley."

"Stand Stillers" Hit

Truman said he doesn't think such an attitude will prevail and that he is much more worried about those in government who want to "stand still."

"The greatest danger springs from the attitude of those who reluctantly, and 20 years late, accept the reforms we have made, and then refuse to go forward to meet the new problems we face," Truman said.

The Democrat who left the White House in January, in receiving the award, was cited for his leadership of the nation "through eight of the most critical years in our history."

The award was established in memory of the late Sidney Hillman, who was president of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. The presentation was made by Jacob S. Potofsky, Hillman's successor.

GOP "Timid" Toward Act

Truman was critical of the Republican administration's use of the Employment Act of 1946, requiring the government to develop specific plans for economic expansion.

"The present administration has approached its responsibilities under that act in a very gingerly and timid fashion," he said. "What its policy is actually going to be, nobody knows."

Truman said the American standard of living, already the highest on record, should be at least 30 per cent higher by 1960.

Hagerstown Must Up Dikes In Water Battle

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Hagerstown, in a battle for more water, is going to have to put up its dikes.

City officials got word from the Army Engineers today that the Savage River Dam above Cumberland won't do much to protect the Hagerstown pumping station near Williamsport.

Hagerstown officials said a new study will get underway on the problem of raising the dikes which protect the pumping station. The station has become more vital than ever lately because dry weather has cut sharply the mountain water supply. Currently the city is getting its water from the Potomac River—site of the pumping station.

Be Like Dodgers, Nations Seeking U. S. Aid Advised

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—Brooklyn's "indomitable Dodgers" were held up in the U.N. today as an example to countries seeking aid.

Filipino Delegate Narciso G. Rayes was deploring the fact that less and less money is becoming available for international aid projects. There is no point, he told the assembly's 60-nation Social Welfare Committee, in pressing a resolution on extending social welfare projects. A majority would vote for the resolution, he said, but not furnish the money.

And he added:

"We shall, like the indomitable Dodgers of Brooklyn, wait until next year when we hope conditions will be more propitious .... Then we may even consult with the U.S. delegation."

Liquid Oxygen Blast Kills Two

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Oct. 8 (AP)—A huge tank of liquid oxygen exploded today at a General Electric Co. plant here, killing two workers and injuring four, one critically.

The dead are Robert I. Dirks, 41, of Avalon, and Robert A. Thunnell, 41, of West View, both Pittsburgh suburbs.

Percival Dager of Hartsville, Pa., suffered deep shock and multiple burns and is in critical condition. The other injured are Michael Wojko, about 24, of Brookline, near Pittsburgh, and Paul Perschel, 18, and Harry Ginther, 49, both of McKees Rocks, Pa.

The blast occurred at GE's conduit plant, within a few blocks of the main business district. A fire which followed the explosion was extinguished quickly.

New Kinsington is 25 miles northeast of Pittsburgh.

Gruenther Confident Russia Won't Attack

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther said tonight a surprise Russian attack against Western Europe is all but impossible of success.

The supreme Allied commander in Europe, in a speech prepared for an Alfred E. Smith Memorial Dinner here, said:

"I can assure you that today the NATO forces are of such a strength that the Soviets probably do not have sufficient power in occupied Europe to launch an attack with any reasonable certainty of success."

"Weeks" Proclaimed

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin has called on Marylanders to observe two different "weeks" at once, beginning Oct. 18.

The Statehouse today announced two proclamations, officially labeling Oct 18-24 as Cleaner Air Week and Oct. 19-25 as Bible Week.

U.S. Prods Reds For Yes Or No On Conference

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—The United States called on Communist China and North Korea today to say quickly whether they intend to take part in a Korean peace conference and when they will be ready.

"Our side is prepared to negotiate in all reasonableness and good faith," a U. S. note said. "If your side has any intention of carrying out the recommendation contained in the armistice agreement and to participate in a Korean political conference looking toward a peaceful settlement of the Korean question and the withdrawal of foreign forces from Korea, etc., there can be no reason for your side to refuse to get on with the conference."

Early Answer Requested

The United States concluded with a request that the Reds give an early answer. The Reds ignored three previous notes from the U. S. trying to get the conference on the way before the Oct. 28 deadline recommended in the Korean armistice agreement.

Today's note informed the Reds officially that the U. N. Assembly resolution of Aug. 28 limiting the peace conference to the belligerents, plus Russia if invited by the Communists, stands without change despite efforts to over turn it.

Communists Reminded

It reminded the Communists that the U. N. side (the United States is acting as its spokesman) had offered to send a representative to San Francisco, Honolulu or Geneva to meet Communist representatives and agree on a time and other details for a conference. The United States said the Communists could raise other matters at the conference itself at an appropriate time. This was a reminder that Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. delegate to the U. N. had stated last month that the question of adding neutrals to the conference, rejected by the Assembly could be discussed and decided upon by the conference itself.

Angry Belgrade Mobs Stone U.S., British Buildings

Protest Turnover Of Zone A To Italy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The United States and Great Britain said today they intend to allow Italy to occupy the city of Trieste, a decision which the Yugoslav government declared bitterly it will refuse to accept.

In announcing the imminent withdrawal of Anglo-American occupation forces, the State Department expressed hope the move would lead to "a final peaceful solution" of the long quarrel between Italy and Yugoslavia over the Free Territory of Trieste.

Its immediate result, however, was serious rioting in Belgrade. Yugoslavs poured into the streets by the thousands, shouting "We will give up our lives, but not Trieste!"

Embassies Stoned

The American, British and Italian embassies were stoned and many windows broken. An American Marine was slightly injured in the rioting.

Official Italy, on the other hand, hailed the impending transfer of authority with jubilation. Yugoslavia now occupies Zone B of the disputed territory, while the British and Americans administer Zone A, which includes the city of Trieste.

Yugoslavia's stand in the face of the new developments was broadcast by Vice President Edvard Kardelj, who said "We cannot leave to the mercy of the Italians tens of thousands of Slovenes still living in Trieste."

Kardelj said the Anglo-American move would be appealed to the United Nations, and it was reported that Yugoslavia would file formal protests with the Western powers before the day is out.

Concern Expressed

State Department officials here expressed concern over the violent Yugoslav reaction. But they indicated that neither Yugoslav nor Italian protests would cause Britain and the United States to change their minds.

"It is the firm belief of the two governments," the State Department said, "that this step will contribute to the stabilization of a situation which has disturbed Italo-Yugoslav relations in recent years."

Authoritative Western sources in Rome added that the move was an effort to equalize Italy's position in Zone A with Yugoslavia's in Zone B so that the two countries could begin direct negotiations for a settlement.

Eight Planes Start In 12,000-Mile Race

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Five Canberra jet bombers and three fast passenger airliners streaked off for New Zealand today on the world's longest international air race—12,000 miles. The pilots were warned to steer clear of Britain's atomic bomb testing site in Central Australia.

Racing halfway around the world from London to Christchurch, New Zealand by varying routes, the planes are competing for prizes totaling $79,800. Storm clouds had cut visibility to half a mile at London Airport at take-off time and fog was predicted along the first part of the long race.

Former Trucker Is Sought In Slayings On Pa. Turnpike

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8 (INS) — Cleveland and Pennsylvania police began ballistics tests today as the search continued for a 24-year-old suspect wanted in connection with the slaying of two truck drivers on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Sgt. Theodore Carlson of the Cleveland Homicide Squad sent test shots from a German-made gun, reportedly belonging to John Wesley Wable, the suspect, to the Pennsylvania State Police at Harrisburg today to check them with slugs taken from the bodies of two murdered truckers.

The gun was turned over to police by a 22-year-old girl friend of Wable's who said that he gave it to her. She was picked up for questioning after a watch belonging to a third driver, who was seriously wounded, was indirectly traced to her from a pawn shop.

Sgt. Carlson said that the gun is the same size as the one used to kill Harry Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, W. Va., and Lester Woodward, 30, of Harrisburg, and to wound John Shepard, 34, of Wheeling, W. Va.

Meanwhile, detectives sent out a state-wide alarm and notified all states east of the Mississippi to be on the lookout for Wable, a former truck driver who allegedly knew the turnpike route well. He was described as about six feet tall, weighing about 155 pounds and driving a car with Pennsylvania license plates.

Warrant Out For Accused Killer Of Boy

FBI Delays Its Usual Nationwide Alert Due To "Discrepancies"

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8 (AP)—The government geared tonight for a nationwide hunt for mystery man Thomas Marsh in the Bobby Greenlease kidnap-slaying but delayed final action.

Official explanation was that although Marsh has been formally charged with murder of the 6-year-old child at St. Joseph, Mo., the FBI has not resolved discrepancies in statements by Carl Austin Hall.

Hall, 34, is the confessed mastermind of the $600,000 ransom plot that led to death for the little son of multi-millionaire Robert C. Greenlease and to capture of Hall and a woman companion, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, 41.

Serious doubt was expressed by some authorities that Hall and Mrs. Heady had an accomplice.

But the FBI in Kansas City late today filed information with U. S. Commissioner Charles A. Thompson that Marsh has fled across state lines to avoid prosecution on the Missouri murder charge and Thompson issued a warrant for Marsh's arrest.

Usual Alert Held Up

In Washington, the FBI emphasized that despite this action, it is holding up the usual nationwide alert for such a fugitive.

Hall blamed Marsh for Bobby's death. But the questions the FBI wants answered apparently are: Did Hall invent the story of Marsh's alleged participating in the kidnap-killing, or did Marsh actually have some hand in it, and —possibly—is Marsh now dead?

In view of these circumstances, the FBI said it is not advising local police authorities throughout the nation of the federal complaint filed against Marsh, nor is it issuing at this time the coast-to-coast "wanted" circulars which usually accompany a nationwide manhunt.

The unlawful flight complaint filed here, however, lays the groundwork for a national search, if subsequent developments warrant this.

Two Held On $100,000 Bonds

Hall and Mrs. Heady are held in St. Louis on $100,000 bonds on federal charges of extortion, but the government said today it would turn them over to Missouri authorities for prosecution, either for murder at St. Joseph or for kidnaping at Kansas City. Both cities are seeking their custody.

Death in the gas chamber is a maximum penalty under Missouri law for either crime.

The government added another link in the case by putting the finger on Mrs. Heady as a principal in collecting the fabulous ransom.

Woman's Prints On Notes

The FBI said it had found the woman's fingerprints on ransom extortion papers, showing that she had handled them.

Hall has insisted Mrs. Heady was duped into taking part in the abduction, contending she was unaware of it at the start.

Even as the Hall's story came under close scrutiny, Atty. Gen. Brownell announced at Washington the couple would be turned over to the state for prosecution.

Charges of extortion have been filed by federal authorities. The state has filed first degree murder charges at St. Joseph, Mo., where the boy's body was unearthed from a shallow grave. State kidnaping charges are pending here against the couple.

Brownell's announcement indicates the FBI has failed to establish the abductors crossed any state lines. Extortion carries only a maximum sentence of 20 years imprisonment, a $5,000 fine or both.

Bobby's body was dug from a lime-filled grave in the backyard of Mrs. Heady's home in St. Joseph, yesterday.

Hall's Story Questioned

Hall accused Marsh of killing the boy soon after he was kidnaped by Mrs. Heady from a private Catholic school here Sept. 28.

In St. Louis, Police Board President I. A. Long said police there were not at all sure the couple had an accomplice.

The speculation was increased by disclosure of the St. Louis police that Mrs. Heady mentioned seeing a "large bundle" in Hall's station wagon when they drove in to St. Joseph soon after the kidnaping. She said the bundle was covered with a plastic blanket. The boy's body was found in the grave wrapped in a plastic cover.

Mrs. Heady has admitted taking the boy from the school but she says she thought he was Hall's son by a former wife, who had custody of him. She obtained the boy posing as his aunt.

Hall's Story Questioned

Hall accused Marsh of killing the boy soon after he was kidnaped by Mrs. Heady from a private Catholic school here Sept. 28.

In St. Louis, Police Board President I. A. Long said police there were not at all sure the couple had an accomplice.

The speculation was increased by disclosure of the St. Louis police that Mrs. Heady mentioned seeing a "large bundle" in Hall's station wagon when they drove in to St. Joseph soon after the kidnaping. She said the bundle was covered with a plastic blanket. The boy's body was found in the grave wrapped in a plastic cover.

Mrs. Heady has admitted taking the boy from the school but she says she thought he was Hall's son by a former wife, who had custody of him. She obtained the boy posing as his aunt.

POW Explanation Centers Will Be Rushed By Allies

PANMUNJOM, Friday, Oct. 9 (AP)—The U.N. Command said today a building speed-up may make it possible to start "explanations" to balky prisoners of war on Monday.

Brig. Gen. A. L. Hemblen, Allied commander for prisoner affairs, wrote the Neutral Nations Repatriations Commission that the Allies with the help of India guard troops can cut from seven to five days, the time required for building a temporary shelter in which Communists will give their "explanations" to 22,500 Chinese and North Korean POWS refusing to go home.

The commission yesterday indirectly accused the U. N. Command of stalling Red explanation efforts. It asked the Command to build an explanation center within four days or let the Communists do it. Hamblen turned down that proposal, and also an offer of Communist help.

"Your offer of assistance from the Communists has been considered," Hamblen wrote Indian Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, chairman of the five-nation repatriation commission. "The proposal cannot be accepted."

But Hamblen did agree to put construction work on the temporary shelter on a 24-hour basis and accepted "your kind offer of assistance from troops of the (Indian) custodial force" which guards the POWs in the neutral zone.

On this basis, he said, the building should be completed by Sunday, and talks with the prisoners could start the next day.

Truman Worried About Republican "Stand Stillers"

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman tonight expressed concern over the Eisenhower administration's policies toward counteracting a depression.

Here to receive the $1,000 annual Sidney Hillman Foundation Public Service Award, Truman said in a speech prepared for a dinner in his honor the "Old Guard of reactionaries" has gained new strength and is striving mightily to overturn many constructive achievements of recent years.

"We should resist their efforts with all our might," he said, "because our country today is too strong, too full of opportunity and hope, to let it be ruined by a set of dismal blockheads who want to return to the days of McKinley."

"Stand Stillers" Hit

Truman said he doesn't think such an attitude will prevail and that he is much more worried about those in government who want to "stand still."

"The greatest danger springs from the attitude of those who reluctantly, and 20 years late, accept the reforms we have made, and then refuse to go forward to meet the new problems we face," Truman said.

The Democrat who left the White House in January, in receiving the award, was cited for his leadership of the nation "through eight of the most critical years in our history."

The award was established in memory of the late Sidney Hillman, who was president of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. The presentation was made by Jacob S. Potofsky, Hillman's successor.

GOP "Timid" Toward Act

Truman was critical of the Republican administration's use of the Employment Act of 1946, requiring the government to develop specific plans for economic expansion.

"The present administration has approached its responsibilities under that act in a very gingerly and timid fashion," he said. "What its policy is actually going to be, nobody knows."

Truman said the American standard of living, already the highest on record, should be at least 30 per cent higher by 1960.

Be Like Dodgers, Nations Seeking U. S. Aid Advised

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—Brooklyn's "indomitable Dodgers" were held up in the U.N. today as an example to countries seeking aid.

Filipino Delegate Narciso G. Rayes was deploring the fact that less and less money is becoming available for international aid projects. There is no point, he told the assembly's 60-nation Social Welfare Committee, in pressing a resolution on extending social welfare projects. A majority would vote for the resolution, he said, but not furnish the money.

And he added:

"We shall, like the indomitable Dodgers of Brooklyn, wait until next year when we hope conditions will be more propitious .... Then we may even consult with the U.S. delegation."

U.S. Prods Reds For Yes Or No On Conference

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—The United States called on Communist China and North Korea today to say quickly whether they intend to take part in a Korean peace conference and when they will be ready.

"Our side is prepared to negotiate in all reasonableness and good faith," a U. S. note said. "If your side has any intention of carrying out the recommendation contained in the armistice agreement and to participate in a Korean political conference looking toward a peaceful settlement of the Korean question and the withdrawal of foreign forces from Korea, etc., there can be no reason for your side to refuse to get on with the conference."

Early Answer Requested

The United States concluded with a request that the Reds give an early answer. The Reds ignored three previous notes from the U. S. trying to get the conference on the way before the Oct. 28 deadline recommended in the Korean armistice agreement.

Today's note informed the Reds officially that the U. N. Assembly resolution of Aug. 28 limiting the peace conference to the belligerents, plus Russia if invited by the Communists, stands without change despite efforts to over turn it.

Communists Reminded

It reminded the Communists that the U. N. side (the United States is acting as its spokesman) had offered to send a representative to San Francisco, Honolulu or Geneva to meet Communist representatives and agree on a time and other details for a conference. The United States said the Communists could raise other matters at the conference itself at an appropriate time. This was a reminder that Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. delegate to the U. N. had stated last month that the question of adding neutrals to the conference, rejected by the Assembly could be discussed and decided upon by the conference itself.

Liquid Oxygen Blast Kills Two

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Oct. 8 (AP)—A huge tank of liquid oxygen exploded today at a General Electric Co. plant here, killing two workers and injuring four, one critically.

The dead are Robert I. Dirks, 41, of Avalon, and Robert A. Thunnell, 41, of West View, both Pittsburgh suburbs.

Percival Dager of Hartsville, Pa., suffered deep shock and multiple burns and is in critical condition. The other injured are Michael Wojko, about 24, of Brookline, near Pittsburgh, and Paul Perschel, 18, and Harry Ginther, 49, both of McKees Rocks, Pa.

The blast occurred at GE's conduit plant, within a few blocks of the main business district. A fire which followed the explosion was extinguished quickly.

New Kinsington is 25 miles northeast of Pittsburgh.

Gruenther Confident Russia Won't Attack

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther said tonight a surprise Russian attack against Western Europe is all but impossible of success.

The supreme Allied commander in Europe, in a speech prepared for an Alfred E. Smith Memorial Dinner here, said:

"I can assure you that today the NATO forces are of such a strength that the Soviets probably do not have sufficient power in occupied Europe to launch an attack with any reasonable certainty of success."

"Weeks" Proclaimed

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin has called on Marylanders to observe two different "weeks" at once, beginning Oct. 18.

The Statehouse today announced two proclamations, officially labeling Oct 18-24 as Cleaner Air Week and Oct. 19-25 as Bible Week.

Eight Planes Start In 12,000-Mile Race

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Five Cranberra jet bombers and three fast passenger airliners streaked off for New Zealand today on the world's longest international air race—12,000 miles. The pilots were warned to steer clear of Britain's atomic bomb testing site in Central Australia.

Racing halfway around the world from London to Christchurch, New Zealand by varying routes, the planes are competing for prizes totaling $79,800. Storm clouds had cut visibility to half a mile at London Airport at takeoff time and fog was predicted along the first part of the long race.

Vincent Astor Weds

BARHARBOR, Me., Oct. 8 (AP)—Vincent Astor, retired Navy reserve captain, and Mrs. Charles H. Marshall were married today at the residence here of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer.

Astor and Mrs. Marshall, daughter of a former Marine Corps commandant, were married by the Rev. James Lancaster, minister of the Bar Harbor Congregational church.

Wirewalker Dies

BOULDER, Colo., Oct. 8 (AP)—Ivy Baldwin, 87, famed trapese artist, parachutist and wirewalker, died today in a cottage he occupied alone at Eldorado Springs, south of here.

British Troops Land In Guiana

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Oct. 8 (AP)—Gov. Sir Alfred Savage got military backing today for his campaign against what the British Colonial Office calls a Red plot possibly aimed at putting this South American colony under Communist rule.

While small groups of persons watched quietly, several companies of Royal Welsh Fusiliers landed from British warships in the harbor of Georgetown, the capital, a city of 75,000 marked by wide, tree-lined streets and many canals.

Some troops mounted guard at government headquarters here. Others were assigned to patrol the big sugar plantations, a source of vast revenue and recent labor trouble, on the irrigated plains outside the city. Police guarded the homes of government ministers and prominent citizens.

Though the show of force was denounced by Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan of the leftist People's Progressive Party (PPP), the situation appeared calm. Jagan was blocked yesterday by Speaker Sir Eustace Woolford, a government appointee, from presenting a motion in the House of Assembly declaring the presence of the British warships and troops was an act of intimidation likely to provoke incidents and demanding that they be withdrawn immediately.

Actor Nigel Bruce Dies Of Heart Ailment

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Oct. 8 (AP)—Nigel Bruce, the Dr. Watson of "Sherlock Holmes" movie and radio serials, died today of a heart ailment.

His physician said the 58-year-old actor was stricken with coronary thrombosis last Sunday and was taken to St. John's Hospital. He had been troubled with a heart ailment about a year ago.

Bruce, who was equipped with a thorough British accent, played a variety of roles on the stage and in movies, radio and television. Films in which he appeared included Charlie Chaplin's "Limelight" and Arch Oboler's "Bwanna Devil," one of the first 3-D films to be given general distribution.

Dewey Moves To Clean Up Harness Racing Scandals

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey moved today to clean up scandals in New York's 250 million dollar a year harness racing operations by appointing an investigating commission to "turn harness racing upside down."

The three-man commission is charged primarily with probing into stock ownership and other financial interests of every trotting association in the state.

Dewey said the commissioners will try to learn whether any public officials obtained stock free or at "inadequate" prices and whether gangsters hold any financial interest in the associations.

They will study hiring practices and the possibility of kickbacks, extortion and coercion being involved.

Dewey said racing dates for harness tracks next year would not be assigned until the commission "has thoroughly investigated, turned harness racing upside down and made its report."

The harness racing scandals, involving payoffs and kickbacks, but not the conduct of races, sprouted from the Aug. 28 slaying of Thomas Lewis, leader of an AFL union local that has a closed shop contract with Yonkers Raceway.

The former convicts questioned in the slaying were found to have been employed at the Yonkers oval.

This led to disclosures that the Yonkers operators had paid almost $200,000 in less than four years to "trouble shooters" to avoid strikes or other labor strife, and that 35 of its employes chosen from union lists had criminal records.

Then came allegations that employes at Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island were forced to kick back $345,000 to union officials to hold their jobs.

Hagerstown Must Up Dikes In Water Battle

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Hagerstown, in a battle for more water, is going to have to put up its dikes.

City officials got word from the Army Engineers today that the Savage River Dam above Cumberland won't do much to protect the Hagerstown pumping station near Williamsport.

Hagerstown officials said a new study will get underway on the problem of raising the dikes which protect the pumping station. The station has become more vital than ever lately because dry weather has cut sharply the mountain water supply. Currently the city is getting its water from the Potomac River—site of the pumping station.

Former Trucker Is Sought In Slayings On Pa. Turnpike

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8 (INS) — Cleveland and Pennsylvania police began ballistics tests today as the search continued for a 24-year-old suspect wanted in connection with the slaying of two truck drivers on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Sgt. Theodore Carlson of the Cleveland Homicide Squad sent test shots from a German-made gun, reportedly belonging to John Wesley Wable, the suspect, to the Pennsylvania State Police at Harrisburg today to check them with slugs taken from the bodies of two murdered truckers.

The gun was turned over to police by a 22-year-old girl friend of Wable's who said that he gave it to her. She was picked up for questioning after a watch belonging to a third driver, who was seriously wounded, was indirectly traced to her from a pawn shop.

Sgt. Carlson said that the gun is the same size as the one used to kill Harry Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, W. Va., and Lester Woodward, 30, of Harrisburg, and to wound John Shepard, 34, of Wheeling, W. Va.

Meanwhile, detectives sent out a state-wide alarm and notified all states east of the Mississippi to be on the lookout for Wable, a former truck driver who allegedly knew the turnpike route well. He was described as about six feet tall, weighing about 155 pounds and driving a car with Pennsylvania license plates.

Guarantees To Soviet Planned, Eden Reports

MARGATE, England, Oct. 8 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said today the West plans a new approach to Russia for world peace based on guarantees against aggression.

"I think something can be worked out," Eden told a Conservative party conference here.

He also offered Russia Big Four talks on any level in the hope of easing the cold war stalemate.

He suggested that Britons keep clearly in mind that Russia's negative attitude rather than American policies have blocked the way to big power talks.

Returning to the direction of British foreign affairs after an illness and enforced absence since April, Eden made this significant reference to the West's diplomatic plans:

"Our policy has not changed, I am glad to restate it here. Our first aim is to maintain the unity and strength of the Western alliance, which have been mainly responsible for any softening there may have been in Soviet intransigence.

"Secondly, we are determined to keep our alliance defensive in character, to indulge in no provocation and to take advantage of any and every opportunity which may arise for settling difficulties and solving disputes.

"That is our policy. There is room in it for any meeting or conference which seems to be practicable or profitable. There is certainly room in it for assurances to the Soviets that we do not threaten their security. We are working on that, to see in what form such assurances might be given. I think something can be worked out."

Thus Eden revived Prime Minister Churchill's proposal May 11 for some Locarno-type arrangement in which East and West would exchange promises to refrain from aggression.

The original Locarno Treaty, entered into after the first World War, contained non-agression pledges between the enemies of that war.

Churchill, Cabinet Meet

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill summoned his Cabinet to an unusual hour-long session tonight.

Both Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Lord Salisbury, who filled in for Eden during the latter's recent illness, attended the meeting at No. 10 Downing St. There was no official announcement afterward.

Hope Fading For Missing Yanks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Defense Department said today most of the military personnel now classified as missing in action in Korea "must eventually be presumed dead."

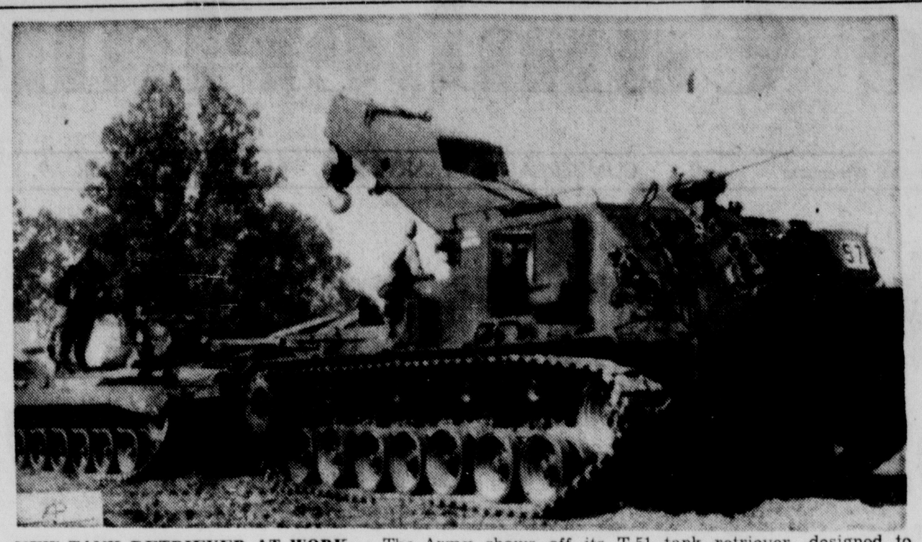
It reported that after the Sept. 6 prisoner exchange there remained in the "missing" category 6,713 members of the Army, 78 Navy personnel, 671 airmen and 493 Marines.

"In the light of casualty reporting experience in Korea," the department said, "it is now the considered opinion of the Department of Defense that most of these men must eventually be presumed dead.

"They have not been so reported thus far because of strict requirements that there be reasonably conclusive evidence of the fact before a man is reported as having died."

Defense officials said battle conditions in Korea made it impossible to recover and identify many of the killed, and no assistance in this regard was given by the Communists.

"All possible efforts are being made to obtain information as to their fate or whereabouts," the department added. "Such efforts include communication with the Communist forces and interrogation of recovered prisoners."



NEW TANK RETRIEVER AT WORK — The Army shows off its T-51 tank retriever, designed to drag disabled tanks and other heavy equipment from battlefields under fire, at the Aberdeen Proving Ground. Army Demonstrates Non-Secret Weapons

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md., Oct. 8 (AP) — The Army put on a weapons show today full of sound and fury—but no secrets—for 4,000 military and civilian ordnance experts.

Heedful of a sharp warning by Secretary of Defense Wilson about public display of secret or developmental equipment, the Army leaned over backward to avoid infraction of the order.

Even some moderately new equipment which had been given public demonstration before was missing from the annual demonstration of the American Ordnance Association today. The association is made up of officers and industry representatives.

Nevertheless, some recently invented or perfected weapons were put through paces, including the 280 millimeter atomic cannon, which in the past year has been given wide public attention.

Woman Pays $4,309,000 Tax On $6,413,000 Income

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service gave out the figures—but no other facts—today on a woman who may be America's richest: she had over two million dollars of 1950 income left after paying $4,309,000 taxes on a total of $6,413,000.

But that's all there is about the well-heeled lady—no name, indication where all that money came from, or whether she is married.

She is just a lonely figure at the end of a statistical table in the tax bureau's analysis of individual tax returns for 1950, the latest year studied.

The Revenue Service will not even say if she is the same lady whose income was $5,592,000 in 1946 and $5,032,000 in 1947, but who suffered lean years in 1948 and 1949, with income of less than five million.

At least one man, perhaps more, had a bigger income and paid more taxes in 1950 than the unnamed woman. The tax bureau got two returns from single men in 1950 reporting combined income of $16,962,000 and taxes of $10,201,000, so at least one of these was even a bigger financial asset to Uncle Sam than the mystery woman.

Their separate incomes were not given.

In 1950, the biggest year on record to that time, the Revenue Service took in 53,060,098 individual tax returns reporting adjusted gross income (income minus business expenses) of $179,874,478,000 and income taxes of $18,374,922,000, some $3,836,781,000, or 26.4 per cent, more taxes than in 1949.

There has been no later analysis of any calendar year tax payments. But in fiscal year 1953 (July 1, 1952 to June 30, 1953) the Revenue Bureau received 58,550,000 tax returns from individuals with net income taxes of about 33¼ billion nearly twice the take in 1950.

German Mine Halts Suez Canal Traffic

PORT SAID, Egypt, Oct. 8 (AP)—A World War II German mine was found in the Suez Canal today and all traffic has been halted until it is removed.

A dredging crew spotted the mine 15 miles from the southern end of the 101-mile canal. The canal company asked British headquarters at Fayid to send experts to deal with it.

Wheat Props Disclosed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced today that it will support grower prices of the 1954 wheat crop at a national average of not less than $2.20 a bushel—or one cent less than the average rate for this year's crop.

Russia And Non-Aggression

Outcries from some Republican senators, including Majority Leader Knowland (Calif.), can be expected if the U. S. State Department should initiate any move toward a non-aggression pact with Soviet Russia. Knowland declared on October 5 that a prerequisite to any such agreement should be free elections in the Soviet satellite states, in which category he included the Baltic states of Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania.

But the State Department on October 2 had confirmed the report of Adlai E. Stevenson made the previous day, after a conference with President Eisenhower, that the administration was carefully considering such a move. Similar proposals had been broached by Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain as long ago as May 11, and later by Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany. And in a speech before the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. on May 8, Premier Malenkov had made specific reference to the pre-World War II non-aggression — or mutual assistance — pact still in effect between the Soviet Union and France.

Those who would oppose overtures to Russia for a non-aggression treaty at this time, like Senator Knowland, can argue that any such agreement would be only as good as the good faith of its signatories. They could point out, also, that the Soviets in the past have been inclined to tear up treaties the moment these proved inconvenient. In the period between 1926 and 1933 the Soviet Government concluded a series of non-aggression treaties with neighboring governments. And after the downfall of Czechoslovakia, the Soviet government on August 24, 1939, signed a non-aggression treaty with Hitler's Germany.

Yet in 1939 Russia invaded Poland and Finland and in 1940 seized Bessarabia from Romania. After the fall of Paris in 1940, Soviet forces hastily overran the Baltic states in violation of existing treaties. And after the surrender of Germany in 1945, Soviet forces invaded Japanese-held territory despite a Soviet-Japanese non-aggression treaty.

But when non-aggression treaties are signed in good faith — and particularly when multi-lateral treaties are signed in good faith, as was the Locarno Treaty of 1925—they can prove effective in maintaining peace at least temporarily. The Locarno pact, which guaranteed the inviolability of Germany's western frontier, paved the way for the entry of Germany into the League of Nations. It was effective for more than a decade, until Hitler violated the treaty by remilitarizing the Rhineland in 1936.

Even more effective might have been the "eastern Locarno" proposed by Franco and Soviet Russia in the early 1930's. This would have solidified the east border of Germany, also would have brought Russia into the guarantee of the west border of Germany. At the same time it would have alleviated Soviet fears that the treaty of 1925 was an invitation to a rebuilt Germany of the future to expand to the east. Germany, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, the Baltic states would have joined in the Eastern Locarno, but Hitler refused to commit Germany to the agreement.

Proponents of a "new Locarno" or a similar treaty fixing the status quo in Europe argue that Sovet Russia's reaction to negotiations would demonstrate to world public opinion Russia's inclination toward peace or war. Also that the proposal would deprive Russia of its claim to be armed only for "defense" against the "aggressive" West.

Hard Drink

In the Arctic a man has to adapt himself or else. If he is wise he doesn't temporize with the outrageous climate. But sometimes he can lick it by joining it.

There is the example of the Coast Guard cutter West Wind and the balky supply of fresh water. The West Wind is a big ice breaker, thoroughly Arctic wise and seasoned. As usual, it spent the summer playing lead dog for military ship convoys which were feverishly supplying U. S. Arctic bases before the great white cold settled down in the fall.

After furrowing endless miles of ice fields for convoys, the West Wind started doing odds and ends of errands for various isolated bases. At Eureka, for example, the Canadian-American weather station was looking vainly for its winter water supply. This is not obtainable from municipal mains or by drilling. The customary procedure is to tap a handy iceberg, melt it up, and there you are.

The trouble was a lack of available icebergs. Well, the resourceful skipper of the West Wind spotted one nearby, a medium sized berg, but all the same many times the size of the West Wind. The skipper saw it was drifting away from the station on shore, so he put the West Wind's armored prow against the seaward side of the floe and rang up all ahead full.

The West Wind has tremendous forward thrust, and in no time the wayward berg was headed back for the station, where the prospects of a winters supply of hard drink made the outlook a little more cheerful.

Unfortunately, this story doesn't have a happy ending. A berg floats around with three-fourths of its bulk submerged. Apparent this hidden part was entirely smooth, for the icebreaker, try as it might, couldn't shove it sufficiently high on the beach to ground it. Everyone stood sadly by as thousands of shaves, showers and gallons of coffee floated off with the current.

This story can be appreciated by those who have ever had a well run dry, or have been marooned in a lifeboat, or have neglected to pay their water bill for an inordinate length of time.

Simple Inventions

Every so often someone comes up with an idea that is so simple and desirable that the only amazement it generates is why it was not thought of sooner. Take that new quiet outboard motor announced by a manufacturer. What makes it quiet is soundproof mooring to the craft.

It seems that a boat hull responds in much the same manner as the broad hollow of a violin. It picks up the noise, amplifies it, and sends it winging along to ear drums far and near.

By cushioning the outboard motor so that vibrations cannot reach the boat, the whole assembly becomes so quiet in operation "the slap of the waves is audible over the purr of the motor."

The idea sounds so simple and sensible it arouses curiosity as to why the first manufacturer of the first outboard motor didn't think of it. But this applies to many mechanical advances that are constantly being incorporated in manufactured products.

How To Keep Well

Accidents That Damage The Head

Head injuries are becoming so common that every one should be familiar with a few first aid measures to be used while awaiting the arrival of the ambulance or physician. Many of these victims are in need of immediate help because they are dazed or unconscious. The least that can be done is to prevent further damage by keeping them flat and warm.

The head must be kept still because movement may affect the centers that govern breathing or deepen or hasten coma. If there is bleeding from a scalp laceration, gentle pressure may be applied with the fingers on the edge of the wound. In some instances it may be necessary to apply a clean handkerchief or cloth over the bleeding site in an effort to bring hemorrhage under control. In transporting the individual he should be placed on one side or the other, with the face down, to prevent the tongue from falling back into the throat. Vomiting is a frequent sequel to head injury and the risk of aspirating the vomited material into the lungs is lessened by lying on the side. The head should be higher than the body, otherwise bleeding on the scalp and in the brain will be aggravated.

In this age of fast automobile travel it is difficult to avoid crashing through the windshield or being knocked against the dashboard when a car going 50 miles an hour stops suddenly. Skull fractures and disfiguring facial injuries are the usual aftermath. The automobile is not the only culprit; children continue to fall off fences and out of trees or second story windows and a certain proportion are bound to hurt the head. During the recent heat wave, 12 to 18 children admitted to Cook County hospital in Chicago with skull fracture, fell out of an open window. Parents ought to see to it that windows are guarded. Skull fractures also occur to the oldster who slips in the bathroom, the sandlotter who is hit with a baseball bat, and the occasional big leaguer who is too slow for the beanball. It is surprising the head is not injured more often, considering the opportunities for trouble along this line.

The soft, doughy, sponge-like brain changes its shape temporarily when the head is injured. When a blow makes the brain change its shape abruptly, the force pulls the tissue apart, leading to hemorrhage. If the blow causes the skull to rotate quickly the brain may lag behind momentarily, which in turn shears some of the veins as they make their exit from the brain. This occurs because the brain is not attached to the skull and is separated from the bone by cerebrospinal fluid. The latter cushions the effect of an ordinary mishap but not of hard blows or the rotating type of accident.

Severe head injuries usually are followed by a period of unconsciousness varying from a few minutes to several hours, or longer. The length of time the individual is "out" is a good index to the severity of the condition. In ordinary concussion the period of unconsciousness may be momentary whereas those who have been in a serious auto mishap may not come to for several days. Damage to the brain also is followed by swelling which in turn affects breathing, pulse rate, and the various reflexes throughout the body. Here skull fracture may prove lifesaving because it permits some of the spinal fluid to escape, thereby relieving internal pressure.

PROLONGING THE CHANGE?

Mrs. J. writes: Does taking medicine for the menopause tend to make the condition drag on?

REPLY

Hormone injections may prolong the change but they make it more bearable in many instances.

VEGETABLES AND STONES

F. R. writes: Is it harmful for a person with kidney stones to eat vegetables?

REPLY

This depends upon the type of kidney stone present. If the person has a tendency to form oxalic acid stones, for example, he should omit from his diet vegetables like spinach, string beans, cabbage, beets, and celery.

OFF RHYTHM

H. M. M. writes: What is a fibrillating heart?

REPLY

This is a disturbance of the rhythm of the heart in which the auricles beat furiously whereas the ventricles proceed at a slower pace, in an irregular fashion.

TEMPORARY HAIR LOSS

M. J. writes: Is it possible to start losing hair after an attack of hepatitis? If so, will the hair regrow?

REPLY

Loss of hair and its regrowth have been reported after any type of infection.

X-RAY AND HAIR LOSS

Mrs. F. writes: Will the hair fall out after X-ray of the skull?

REPLY

No, because the amount of X-ray required to remove hair is many times greater than that used to make films of the skull.

Hoover Has Prima Donna Troubles In Reorganizing Government; Senator Ferguson Of Michigan Wants To Be Hoover's Vice Chairman

WASHINGTON — Ex-President Herbert Hoover, who stepped out of the White House just 21 years ago, came back to the room where he once held cabinet sessions and was sworn in the other day as a member of the new Commission on Government Reorganization.

After Justice Harold Burton finished giving the oath, Hoover suggested that the first order of business was the election of a chairman and was promptly and unanimously elected to that post. He then said:

"I had expected that we would proceed to elect a vice chairman at this time, but some difficulties have arisen, and if there is no objection I suggest that we let this go over until the next meeting."

There was no dissent.

Hoover did not explain what the difficulties were over the vice chairmanship, but they threaten to upset the otherwise peaceful calm of his commission. Here is the inside story of what has happened.

Hoover had planned to propose Joseph P. Kennedy, ex-ambassador to England, as vice chairman. The vice chairmanship, he felt, should go to a Democrat and he considered Kennedy a good, safe, anti-Stevenson Democrat. But at the last minute, Sen. Homer Ferguson, Michigan Republican, came to him and said that he wanted to be vice chairman.

Ferguson faces a tough political race in Michigan, probably from Democratic Gov. "Soapy" Williams, and he indicated that the vice chairmanship of the Hoover Commission would give him prestige in his re-election race.

Republican Rivalry

Hoover was not too happy about this because he wanted a Democrat to be vice chairman. And he was even more unhappy when he learned that if a Republican was to be vice chairman several commission members felt it should be hard-working congressman Clarence Brown of Ohio, the man who actually wrote the reorganization legislation.

Brown made it evident during the swearing-in ceremony that he has no great love for his GOP colleague from Michigan.

"Look at him bootlicking those fellows as if he knew all about reorganization," the Ohio congressman remarked as Ferguson posed for photographers with Herbert Hoover and Justice Burton. "He wants that photo to help him in his campaign.

"Yet that fellow," continued Congressman Brown, "didn't even read the reorganization bill before he tossed it in the hopper."

Brown referred to the fact that he personally had written the government reorganization bill and given it to Ferguson to introduce in the Senate. Tossing a bill into the hopper refers to placing it into the legislative basket or hopper in front of the presiding officer's desk in the House or the Senate.

So Mr. Hoover is unhappily trying to unravel the question of who becomes his vice chairman before his next meeting on November 16.

NOTE—Actually, there probably would have been no reorganization commission without Congressman Brown. Inside fact is that Eisenhower didn't want one, had appointed his brother, Arthur Flemming and Nelson Rockefeller as his own committee to reorganize the government. But Brown came to the White House and reminded Ike he would have to get his reorganization through Congress; therefore he had better let Congress participate. Ike yielded.

Waterfront Scandal Suppressed

Last week in New Jersey a federal grand jury quietly indicted Dade Brothers, a packing an stevedoring firm which loaded Army supplies at the Army's Claremont Terminal on the Jersey waterfront. This climaxed a Washington Merry-Go-Round column of January 26, 1953, revealing graft and gangsterism right under the Army's nose.

It also climaxed an amazing situation in which Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, now Democratic leader of the Senate, suppressed a report on this scandal prepared for him by his investigators.

The two investigators, Downey Rice and George Martin, then working for Johnson's committee on waste in the armed services, had submitted a devastating report on crime and corruption at the Army's Claremont pier, and urged further action by Johnson in May 1952—more than a year ago. But he bottled up the report, later even fired the two investigators.

Reason for Johnson's suppression has never been made clear. He himself explained it was because the waterfront was under New York-New Jersey jurisdiction.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Joe Fay's Friends

I was talking to a furrier about his union. It is a Communist-dominated union, but this particular furrier is a decent citizen, devoutly religious, living quietly with his family and minding his own business.

So I asked him why he and people like him tolerate the Red leadership in his union.

"Read the papers and you will understand everything," he replied.

"All right," I said, "so I'll read the papers and what do they show me? They show me that your union bosses are under indictment for conspiracy against our country, they are being deported . . ."

He interrupted:

"That ain't what I'm talking about. I'm talking about Joe Fay and Joe Ryan and labor leaders like that who rob the worker, who take kickbacks, who are themselves capitalists, owning businesses for which we have to work. They tie up with the politicians. And this I want to tell you, Joe Fay ain't no exception. There are plenty of Joe Fays and only he is in prison.

"Maybe the Reds let us take home our pay-checks and don't steal from the welfare fund because they want us to keep our mouths shut when they pass resolutions denying that the Rosenbergs were spies. So I don't complain no matter what I think because these union bosses don't steal my wages."

I thought a good deal about this conversation, which I assure you is authentic. The combination of labor racketeers and politicians has done the labor movement great harm and has helped the Communists. It took the American Federation of Labor two decades to get rid of Joe Ryan's longshoremen's union in New York, a union which has been wrecking this metropolis. It became a sanctuary for criminals and ex-jailbirds and the officers of the American Federation of Labor knew it.

There never was any secret about the combination that Ryan operated: it consisted of murderers, thieves, labor leaders, politicians and certain businessmen engaged in shipping who found it better business to pay off than to keep the port clean. Pilferage became a right, exercised by the union bosses. Investigations disclosed the facts; newspapermen won prizes disclosing the truth; but Ryan held his job and the American Federation of Labor avoided interfering in the internal affairs of a union.

Now that Joe Ryan and his union have been expelled from the American Federation of Labor, a strike has been called; the President has invoked the Taft-Hartley law and the attorney general got an injunction; Governor Dewey appealed to the shippers not to sign a new contract with Ryan; and the great fear is that if an election were held, he might win and his union would be certified by the National Labor Relations Board.

These crooked labor leaders always complain about the Taft-Hartley law and want Congress to abolish it because while the Taft-Hartley law has not driven them out of business, it has put limitations upon them which could be used by the government and in the case of the Ryan union have only been resorted to after scandals have been made public by the newspapers. The same goes for Joe Fay.

What gives these crooked men so much power? The answer is, money. They control enormous treasuries, running into the millions of dollars and while nowadays they do generally give some kind of financial report, they can cover their contributions to politicians as "educational expenses" or "contingency funds," which they can keep secret under existing laws. Their argument for secrecy is that were they to make such information public, the enemies of labor would have an advantage.

In these lean years of high income taxes, politicians, needing campaign money, especially what is called "under-the-table" money, paid in cash and never reported no matter what the law requires, have discovered in the unions a reservoir of cash which can be tapped for favors promised and performed.

After all, David Dubinsky, who is a good labor leader, owns a political party in New York City which his union supports out of its treasury. He is running his own candidate for mayor of New York City and, according to his press agent, has given Harry Truman a going-over because the ex-President spoke favorably of another candidate.

Not every labor leader can own a political party but he can own distinguished political leaders.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The government of Great Britain and the press of that country might well ponder the text of the petition which has just been sponsored by seven prominent Americans, who are saying to President Eisenhower that "The Chinese Communists are not entitled to and should not be recognized to represent China in the United Nations." That's because up to now the British newspapers and officials seem to think only a fragment of American opinion and the press is against the admission of Red China to the U. N.

But the petition is signed by Senator Sparkman of Alabama, who was the vice presidential nominee of the Democratic party in 1952, and Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, leader of the Democratic party in the House of Representatives at the last session and now the No. 2 man in the House on the Democratic side. It is signed by formed Governor Edison of New Jersey, who was in the cabinet of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and by Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan and at one time undersecretary of State in the Democratic administration. It is sponsored also by former President Hoover, Senator H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey and Representative Walter H. Judd of Minnesota—all Republicans.

Franco Government Denounced

Many British newspapers and officials have frequently expressed themselves on the subject of recognizing Red China's government, arguing that it is related solely to whether a government is in military control of the country in question. But in the last few days the British Labor party and various British newspapers have again denounced the Franco government in Spain — which is in complete control of that country — and argued against its admission into either the U. N. or NATO.

So the argument which bases recognition of a government solely on its military control of a country is plainly specious. The American attitude, on the other hand, primarily is relayed to the lack of morality in the Red China government.

The new petition gives these reason for opposing the admission of Red China to the U. N.:

"1. This admission would destroy the purposes, betray the letter, and violate the spirit of the law of the United Nations whose charter dedicates the organization to insure peace by promoting freedom and respect of human rights, and subordinates the admission of new states to the organization to their ability and willingness, in the judgement of the member nations, to carry out the obligations to the charter as defined above. The so-called Chinese People's Republic is constitutionally unable to do so since it officially declares itself to be a 'dictatorship' based on 'democratic centralism,' (Articles I and II of the organic law of the Central Government of the Chinese People's Republic). This is the basic principle of Communist totalitarianism and excludes freedom of discussion or criticism of government; that is, it excludes freedom and democracy altogether.

"2. Even if the so-called Chinese People's Republic were eligible for admission under the charter the fact still remains that the duly constituted government of China exists and functions, not only as the rightful government of China but as a charter member of the United Nations. In order to give membership to the usurpers the legitimate government of China would have to be expelled. Such action would be an unthinkable outrage against human decency and international justice.

"3. The so-called Chinese People's Republic has shown its unwillingness to carry out the obligations of the charter by systematically disregarding every human right and violating every freedom.

Discouraging To Free World

"4. By aiding in aggression upon South Korea and making war on the United Nations it has proved itself an aggressor state.

"5. Its admission would destroy the prestige and the position of the United States and of the free world in Asia. The countries of that continent which still resist Communist aggression or infiltration would be discouraged by the cynical surrender of the free world to expediency and appeasement and the betrayal of the ideals of the United Nations. The Asian nations, in turn, would then make fatal compromises with the Communist bloc.

"6. The so-called Chinese People's Republic violated the most elemental laws of war in mistreating, torturing, and murdering United Nations soldiers who were prisoners of war, in an unlawful war which they waged against the very organization in which their supporters now claim membership for them.

"7. At a time when Communist dictatorship seems to be badly shaken inside the USSR and in its satellite empire, the admission of the so-called Chinese People's Republic to the United Nations would restore the prestige and authority of the Soviet government. It would help to destroy the hope of the enslaved peoples for ultimate freedom. This hope is one of the chief deterrents which has retrained the Kremlin from risking a world-wide conflict.

"8. The admission of the so-called Chinese People's Republic to the United Nations would encourage subversive totalitarian movements in the free nations of the world in the expectation that their success would be sanctioned by the free nations which survive. Thus the danger of a new war would be vastly increased by the rewards offered to aggressors.

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

Confusion Compounded

WASHINGTON

A serious minded citizen these days can hardly be blamed for feeling a little like one of those laboratory rats which, exposed to conflicting stimuli, is reduced to a condition of quivering rodential neurosis. For American citizens in recent days have been subjected to an avalanche of wildly conflicting statements about the Soviet air-atomic threat, all emanating from supposedly well-informed officials. "Operation Candor" looks like becoming "Operation Confusion."

The confusion has been compounded, moreover, but the nature of Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson's arguments against any really major effort to strengthen the continental defense against nuclear attack. Secretary Wilson has said that he proposes to spend no more than an additional half billion or so for air defense, as against the very much larger effort recommended in the Lincoln Project report, the Kelly Committee report, the Bull Committee report, and a host of other special expert studies.

In support of his decision, Wilson says that "it will be perhaps three years before they (the Russians) have a reasonable number of bombs and airplanes that could deliver them." This statement is subject to argument. Secretary Wilson apparently refers only to hydrogen bombs, for example, conveniently overlooking the fact that for more than four years the Soviets have been stockpiling atomic bombs. A mere half dozen or so big atomic bombs could destroy the larger cities in this country.

Conflicting Opinions

Again, Secretary Wilson remarked in support of his decision that "panicky" persons were giving the Russians credit for "some bombers they don't have." Presumably one of these panicky persons is Wilson's chief of Air Staff, Gen. Nathan Twining. Twining said some months ago that the Russian "long range bomber force is now so big" that the Soviets no longer need to "increase its size" but only to improve the quality of the plane.

But let this pass. Assume that Secretary Wilson is perfectly correct in estimating that it will be three years before the Soviet Air Force can devastate the United States. By any reasonable test, this estimate is the best possible argument for going all out immediately on a major continental defense effort. Under any circumstances, it will take a long time to build a fully mature early warning net, and above all the weapons to respond effectively to the warning. But if we do indeed have three years grace, the job can still be done, according to the best experts in the field, if not a minute is wasted in the meantime.

The other arguments advanced by Secretary Wilson against a major air defense effort, which are echoed by high Pentagon sources, are equally confusing and conflicting. At his press conference on Wednesday, for example, Wilson intimated that no more than the half billion additional he proposes could be spent, even if much more money is available.

On the very same day, Gen. Benjamin Chidlaw, chief of the Air Defense Command, also had something to say. He remarked sadly that is was impossible to provide even "adequate" protection under present money and other limits. "I feel confident," he added, "that when it becomes fully apparent to our national leaders that an adequate degree of protection cannot be provided within the limits imposed, the present restrictions will somehow be relaxed." The conflict with Wilson's statement needs no underlining.

Complicated Subject

Another argument is that nothing more can be done under the present manpower ceiling. Actually, a study of precisely this problem, under Air Force sponsorship, known by the code name "Operation Corrode," has concluded that a deep area defense can be manned with available manpower. Even if this conclusion is overoptimistic, it is surely a little odd to argue that a nation of 160,000,000 people cannot provide the men to prevent its own destruction.

A final argument is that it is no use making a big investment in air defense, since Soviet perfection of new devises like the intercontinental ballistic missile will render such a defense obsolete. This flies straight in the face of the reassuring estimates of Soviet capabilities cited above. What is more, it is precisely like saying that it is no use going to a doctor, since everyone must die in the end anyway.

This is a complicated subject, full of thorny technicalities. It is possible that Secretary Wilson and those who agree with him are right, and that for some undisclosed technical or other reasons the great number of experts who have studied the subject are wrong. It is possible that these reasons have nothing to do with the desire to lower taxes and balance the budget, or with the congenital affection of the military for the utterly outdated "balanced force" or three-way-split concept.

They could point out, also, that the Soviets in the past have been inclined to tear up treaties the moment these proved inconvenient. In the period between 1926 and 1933 the Soviet Government concluded a series of non-aggression treaties with neighboring governments. And after the downfall of Czechoslovakia, the Soviet government on August 24, 1939, signed a non-aggression treaty with Hitler's Germany.

Yet in 1939 Russia invaded Poland and Finland and in 1940 seized Bessarabia from Romania. After the fall of Paris in 1940, Soviet forces hastily overran the Baltic states in violation of existing treaties. And after the surrender of Germany in 1945, Soviet forces invaded Japanese-held territory despite a Soviet-Japanese non-aggression treaty.

But when non-aggression treaties are signed in good faith — and particularly when multi-lateral treaties are signed in good faith, as was the Locarno Treaty of 1925—they can prove effective in maintaining peace at least temporarily. The Locarno pact, which guaranteed the inviolability of Germany's western frontier, paved the way for the entry of Germany into the League of Nations. It was effective for more than a decade, until Hitler violated the treaty by remilitarizing the Rhineland in 1936.

Even more effective might have been the "eastern Locarno" proposed by Franco and Soviet Russia in the early 1930's. This would have solidified the east border of Germany, also would have brought Russia into the guarantee of the west border of Germany. At the same time it would have alleviated Soviet fears that the treaty of 1925 was an invitation to a rebuilt Germany of the future to expand to the east. Germany, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, the Baltic states would have joined in the Eastern Locarno, but Hitler refused to commit Germany to the agreement.

Proponents of a "new Locarno" or a similar treaty fixing the status quo in Europe argue that Sovet Russia's reaction to negotiations would demonstrate to world public opinion Russia's inclination toward peace or war. Also that the proposal would deprive Russia of its claim to be armed only for "defense" against the "aggressive" West.

Hard Drink

In the Arctic a man has to adapt himself or else. If he is wise he doesn't temporize with the outrageous climate. But sometimes he can lick it by joining it.

There is the example of the Coast Guard cutter West Wind and the balky supply of fresh water. The West Wind is a big ice breaker, thoroughly Arctic wise and seasoned. As usual, it spent the summer playing lead dog for military ship convoys which were feverishly supplying U. S. Arctic bases before the great white cold settled down in the fall.

After furrowing endless miles of ice fields for convoys, the West Wind started doing odds and ends of errands for various isolated bases. At Eureka, for example, the Canadian-American weather station was looking vainly for its winter water supply. This is not obtainable from municipal mains or by drilling. The customary procedure is to tap a handy iceberg, melt it up, and there you are.

The trouble was a lack of available icebergs. Well, the resourceful skipper of the West Wind spotted one nearby, a medium sized berg, but all the same many times the size of the West Wind. The skipper saw it was drifting away from the station on shore, so he put the West Wind's armored prow against the seaward side of the floe and rang up all ahead full.

The West Wind has tremendous forward thrust, and in no time the wayward berg was headed back for the station, where the prospects of a winters supply of hard drink made the outlook a little more cheerful.

Unfortunately, this story doesn't have a happy ending. A berg floats around with three-fourths of its bulk submerged. Apparent this hidden part was entirely smooth, for the icebreaker, try as it might, couldn't shove it sufficiently high on the beach to ground it. Everyone stood sadly by as thousands of shaves, showers and gallons of coffee floated off with the current.

This story can be appreciated by those who have ever had a well run dry, or have been marooned in a lifeboat, or have neglected to pay their water bill for an inordinate length of time.

Simple Inventions

Every so often someone comes up with an idea that is so simple and desirable that the only amazement it generates is why it was not thought of sooner. Take that new quiet outboard motor announced by a manufacturer. What makes it quiet is soundproof mooring to the craft.

It seems that a boat hull responds in much the same manner as the broad hollow of a violin. It picks up the noise, amplifies it, and sends it winging along to ear drums far and near.

By cushioning the outboard motor so that vibrations cannot reach the boat, the whole assembly becomes so quiet in operation "the slap of the waves is audible over the purr of the motor."

The idea sounds so simple and sensible it arouses curiosity as to why the first manufacturer of the first outboard motor didn't think of it. But this applies to many mechanical advances that are constantly being incorporated in manufactured products.

How To Keep Well

Accidents That Damage The Head

Head injuries are becoming so common that every one should be familiar with a few first aid measures to be used while awaiting the arrival of the ambulance or physician. Many of these victims are in need of immediate help because they are dazed or unconscious. The least that can be done is to prevent further damage by keeping them flat and warm.

The head must be kept still because movement may affect the centers that govern breathing or deepen or hasten coma. If there is bleeding from a scalp laceration, gentle pressure may be applied with the fingers on the edge of the wound. In some instances it may be necessary to apply a clean handkerchief or cloth over the bleeding site in an effort to bring hemorrhage under control. In transporting the individual he should be placed on one side or the other, with the face down, to prevent the tongue from falling back into the throat. Vomiting is a frequent sequel to head injury and the risk of aspirating the vomited material into the lungs is lessened by lying on the side. The head should be higher than the body, otherwise bleeding on the scalp and in the brain will be aggravated.

In this age of fast automobile travel it is difficult to avoid crashing through the windshield or being knocked against the dashboard when a car going 50 miles an hour stops suddenly. Skull fractures and disfiguring facial injuries are the usual aftermath. The automobile is not the only culprit; children continue to fall off fences and out of trees or second story windows and a certain proportion are bound to hurt the head. During the recent heat wave, 12 to 18 children admitted to Cook County hospital in Chicago with skull fracture, fell out of an open window. Parents ought to see to it that windows are guarded. Skull fractures also occur to the oldster who slips in the bathroom, the sandlotter who is hit with a baseball bat, and the occasional big leaguer who is too slow for the beanball. It is surprising the head is not injured more often, considering the opportunities for trouble along this line.

The soft, doughy, sponge-like brain changes its shape temporarily when the head is injured. When a blow makes the brain change its shape abruptly, the force pulls the tissue apart, leading to hemorrhage. If the blow causes the skull to rotate quickly the brain may lag behind momentarily, which in turn shears some of the veins as they make their exit from the brain. This occurs because the brain is not attached to the skull and is separated from the bone by cerebrospinal fluid. The latter cushions the effect of an ordinary mishap but not of hard blows or the rotating type of accident.

Severe head injuries usually are followed by a period of unconsciousness varying from a few minutes to several hours, or longer. The length of time the individual is "out" is a good index to the severity of the condition. In ordinary concussion the period of unconsciousness may be momentary whereas those who have been in a serious auto mishap may not come to for several days. Damage to the brain also is followed by swelling which in turn affects breathing, pulse rate, and the various reflexes throughout the body. Here skull fracture may prove lifesaving because it permits some of the spinal fluid to escape, thereby relieving internal pressure.

PROLONGING THE CHANGE?

Mrs. J. writes: Does taking medicine for the menopause tend to make the condition drag on?

REPLY

Hormone injections may prolong the change but they make it more bearable in many instances.

VEGETABLES AND STONES

F. R. writes: Is it harmful for a person with kidney stones to eat vegetables?

REPLY

This depends upon the type of kidney stone present. If the person has a tendency to form oxalic acid stones, for example, he should omit from his diet vegetables like spinach, string beans, cabbage, beets, and celery.

OFF RHYTHM

H. M. M. writes: What is a fibrillating heart?

REPLY

This is a disturbance of the rhythm of the heart in which the auricles beat furiously whereas the ventricles proceed at a slower pace, in an irregular fashion.

TEMPORARY HAIR LOSS

M. J. writes: Is it possible to start losing hair after an attack of hepatitis? If so, will the hair regrow?

REPLY

Loss of hair and its regrowth have been reported after any type of infection.

X-RAY AND HAIR LOSS

Mrs. F. writes: Will the hair fall out after X-ray of the skull?

REPLY

No, because the amount of X-ray required to remove hair is many times greater than that used to make films of the skull.

Hoover Has Prima Donna Troubles In Reorganizing Government; Senator Ferguson Of Michigan Wants To Be Hoover's Vice Chairman

WASHINGTON — Ex-President Herbert Hoover, who stepped out of the White House just 21 years ago, came back to the room where he once held cabinet sessions and was sworn in the other day as a member of the new Commission on Government Reorganization.

After Justice Harold Burton finished giving the oath, Hoover suggested that the first order of business was the election of a chairman and was promptly and unanimously elected to that post. He then said:

"I had expected that we would proceed to elect a vice chairman at this time, but some difficulties have arisen, and if there is no objection I suggest that we let this go over until the next meeting."

There was no dissent.

Hoover did not explain what the difficulties were over the vice chairmanship, but they threaten to upset the otherwise peaceful calm of his commission. Here is the inside story of what has happened.

Hoover had planned to propose Joseph P. Kennedy, ex-ambassador to England, as vice chairman. The vice chairmanship, he felt, should go to a Democrat and he considered Kennedy a good, safe, anti-Stevenson Democrat. But at the last minute, Sen. Homer Ferguson, Michigan Republican, came to him and said that he wanted to be vice chairman.

Ferguson faces a tough political race in Michigan, probably from Democratic Gov. "Soapy" Williams, and he indicated that the vice chairmanship of the Hoover Commission would give him prestige in his re-election race.

Republican Rivalry

Hoover was not too happy about this because he wanted a Democrat to be vice chairman. And he was even more unhappy when he learned that if a Republican was to be vice chairman several commission members felt it should be hard-working congressman Clarence Brown of Ohio, the man who actually wrote the reorganization legislation.

Brown made it evident during the swearing-in ceremony that he has no great love for his GOP colleague from Michigan.

"Look at him bootlicking those fellows as if he knew all about reorganization," the Ohio congressman remarked as Ferguson posed for photographers with Herbert Hoover and Justice Burton. "He wants that photo to help him in his campaign.

"Yet that fellow," continued Congressman Brown, "didn't even read the reorganization bill before he tossed it in the hopper."

Brown referred to the fact that he personally had written the government reorganization bill and given it to Ferguson to introduce in the Senate. Tossing a bill into the hopper refers to placing it into the legislative basket or hopper in front of the presiding officer's desk in the House or the Senate.

So Mr. Hoover is unhappily trying to unravel the question of who becomes his vice chairman before his next meeting on November 16.

NOTE—Actually, there probably would have been no reorganization commission without Congressman Brown. Inside fact is that Eisenhower didn't want one, had appointed his brother, Arthur Flemming and Nelson Rockefeller as his own committee to reorganize the government. But Brown came to the White House and reminded Ike he would have to get his reorganization through Congress; therefore he had better let Congress participate. Ike yielded.

Waterfront Scandal Suppressed

Last week in New Jersey a federal grand jury quietly indicted Dade Brothers, a packing an stevedoring firm which loaded Army supplies at the Army's Claremont Terminal on the Jersey waterfront. This climaxed a Washington Merry-Go-Round column of January 26, 1953, revealing graft and gangsterism right under the Army's nose.

It also climaxed an amazing situation in which Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, now Democratic leader of the Senate, suppressed a report on this scandal prepared for him by his investigators.

The two investigators, Downey Rice and George Martin, then working for Johnson's committee on waste in the armed services, had submitted a devastating report on crime and corruption at the Army's Claremont pier, and urged further action by Johnson in May 1952—more than a year ago. But he bottled up the report, later even fired the two investigators.

Reason for Johnson's suppression has never been made clear. He himself explained it was because the waterfront was under New York-New Jersey jurisdiction.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Joe Fay's Friends

I was talking to a furrier about his union. It is a Communist-dominated union, but this particular furrier is a decent citizen, devoutly religious, living quietly with his family and minding his own business.

So I asked him why he and people like him tolerate the Red leadership in his union.

"Read the papers and you will understand everything," he replied.

"All right," I said, "so I'll read the papers and what do they show me? They show me that your union bosses are under indictment for conspiracy against our country, they are being deported . . ."

He interrupted:

"That ain't what I'm talking about. I'm talking about Joe Fay and Joe Ryan and labor leaders like that who rob the worker, who take kickbacks, who are themselves capitalists, owning businesses for which we have to work. They tie up with the politicians. And this I want to tell you, Joe Fay ain't no exception. There are plenty of Joe Fays and only he is in prison.

"Maybe the Reds let us take home our pay-checks and don't steal from the welfare fund because they want us to keep our mouths shut when they pass resolutions denying that the Rosenbergs were spies. So I don't complain no matter what I think because these union bosses don't steal my wages."

I thought a good deal about this conversation, which I assure you is authentic. The combination of labor racketeers and politicians has done the labor movement great harm and has helped the Communists. It took the American Federation of Labor two decades to get rid of Joe Ryan's longshoremen's union in New York, a union which has been wrecking this metropolis. It became a sanctuary for criminals and ex-jailbirds and the officers of the American Federation of Labor knew it.

There never was any secret about the combination that Ryan operated: it consisted of murderers, thieves, labor leaders, politicians and certain businessmen engaged in shipping who found it better business to pay off than to keep the port clean. Pilferage became a right, exercised by the union bosses. Investigations disclosed the facts; newspapermen won prizes disclosing the truth; but Ryan held his job and the American Federation of Labor avoided interfering in the internal affairs of a union.

Now that Joe Ryan and his union have been expelled from the American Federation of Labor, a strike has been called; the President has invoked the Taft-Hartley law and the attorney general got an injunction; Governor Dewey appealed to the shippers not to sign a new contract with Ryan; and the great fear is that if an election were held, he might win and his union would be certified by the National Labor Relations Board.

These crooked labor leaders always complain about the Taft-Hartley law and want Congress to abolish it because while the Taft-Hartley law has not driven them out of business, it has put limitations upon them which could be used by the government and in the case of the Ryan union have only been resorted to after scandals have been made public by the newspapers. The same goes for Joe Fay.

What gives these crooked men so much power? The answer is, money. They control enormous treasuries, running into the millions of dollars and while nowadays they do generally give some kind of financial report, they can cover their contributions to politicians as "educational expenses" or "contingency funds," which they can keep secret under existing laws. Their argument for secrecy is that were they to make such information public, the enemies of labor would have an advantage.

In these lean years of high income taxes, politicians, needing campaign money, especially what is called "under-the-table" money, paid in cash and never reported no matter what the law requires, have discovered in the unions a reservoir of cash which can be tapped for favors promised and performed.

After all, David Dubinsky, who is a good labor leader, owns a political party in New York City which his union supports out of its treasury. He is running his own candidate for mayor of New York City and, according to his press agent, has given Harry Truman a going-over because the ex-President spoke favorably of another candidate.

Not every labor leader can own a political party but he can own distinguished political leaders.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The government of Great Britain and the press of that country might well ponder the text of the petition which has just been sponsored by seven prominent Americans, who are saying to President Eisenhower that "The Chinese Communists are not entitled to and should not be recognized to represent China in the United Nations." That's because up to now the British newspapers and officials seem to think only a fragment of American opinion and the press is against the admission of Red China to the U. N.

But the petition is signed by Senator Sparkman of Alabama, who was the vice presidential nominee of the Democratic party in 1952, and Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, leader of the Democratic party in the House of Representatives at the last session and now the No. 2 man in the House on the Democratic side. It is signed by formed Governor Edison of New Jersey, who was in the cabinet of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and by Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan and at one time undersecretary of State in the Democratic administration. It is sponsored also by former President Hoover, Senator H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey and Representative Walter H. Judd of Minnesota—all Republicans.

Franco Government Denounced

Many British newspapers and officials have frequently expressed themselves on the subject of recognizing Red China's government, arguing that it is related solely to whether a government is in military control of the country in question. But in the last few days the British Labor party and various British newspapers have again denounced the Franco government in Spain — which is in complete control of that country — and argued against its admission into either the U. N. or NATO.

So the argument which bases recognition of a government solely on its military control of a country is plainly specious. The American attitude, on the other hand, primarily is relayed to the lack of morality in the Red China government.

The new petition gives these reason for opposing the admission of Red China to the U. N.:

"1. This admission would destroy the purposes, betray the letter, and violate the spirit of the law of the United Nations whose charter dedicates the organization to insure peace by promoting freedom and respect of human rights, and subordinates the admission of new states to the organization to their ability and willingness, in the judgement of the member nations, to carry out the obligations to the charter as defined above. The so-called Chinese People's Republic is constitutionally unable to do so since it officially declares itself to be a 'dictatorship' based on 'democratic centralism,' (Articles I and II of the organic law of the Central Government of the Chinese People's Republic). This is the basic principle of Communist totalitarianism and excludes freedom of discussion or criticism of government; that is, it excludes freedom and democracy altogether.

"2. Even if the so-called Chinese People's Republic were eligible for admission under the charter the fact still remains that the duly constituted government of China exists and functions, not only as the rightful government of China but as a charter member of the United Nations. In order to give membership to the usurpers the legitimate government of China would have to be expelled. Such action would be an unthinkable outrage against human decency and international justice.

"3. The so-called Chinese People's Republic has shown its unwillingness to carry out the obligations of the charter by systematically disregarding every human right and violating every freedom.

Discouraging To Free World

"4. By aiding in aggression upon South Korea and making war on the United Nations it has proved itself an aggressor state.

"5. Its admission would destroy the prestige and the position of the United States and of the free world in Asia. The countries of that continent which still resist Communist aggression or infiltration would be discouraged by the cynical surrender of the free world to expediency and appeasement and the betrayal of the ideals of the United Nations. The Asian nations, in turn, would then make fatal compromises with the Communist bloc.

"6. The so-called Chinese People's Republic violated the most elemental laws of war in mistreating, torturing, and murdering United Nations soldiers who were prisoners of war, in an unlawful war which they waged against the very organization in which their supporters now claim membership for them.

"7. At a time when Communist dictatorship seems to be badly shaken inside the USSR and in its satellite empire, the admission of the so-called Chinese People's Republic to the United Nations would restore the prestige and authority of the Soviet government. It would help to destroy the hope of the enslaved peoples for ultimate freedom. This hope is one of the chief deterrents which has retrained the Kremlin from risking a world-wide conflict.

"8. The admission of the so-called Chinese People's Republic to the United Nations would encourage subversive totalitarian movements in the free nations of the world in the expectation that their success would be sanctioned by the free nations which [illegible] survive. Thus the danger of a new war would be vastly increased by the rewards offered to aggressors.

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

Confusion Compounded

WASHINGTON

A serious minded citizen these days can hardly be blamed for feeling a little like one of those laboratory rats which, exposed to conflicting stimuli, is reduced to a condition of quivering rodential neurosis. For American citizens in recent days have been subjected to an avalanche of wildly conflicting statements about the Soviet air-atomic threat, all emanating from supposedly well-informed officials. "Operation Candor" looks like becoming "Operation Confusion."

The confusion has been compounded, moreover, but the nature of Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson's arguments against any really major effort to strengthen the continental defense against nuclear attack. Secretary Wilson has said that he proposes to spend no more than an additional half billion or so for air defense, as against the very much larger effort recommended in the Lincoln Project report, the Kelly Committee report, the Bull Committee report, and a host of other special expert studies.

In support of his decision, Wilson says that "it will be perhaps three years before they (the Russians) have a reasonable number of bombs and airplanes that could deliver them." This statement is subject to argument. Secretary Wilson apparently refers only to hydrogen bombs, for example, conveniently overlooking the fact that for more than four years the Soviets have been stockpiling atomic bombs. A mere half dozen or so big atomic bombs could destroy the larger cities in this country.

Conflicting Opinions

Again, Secretary Wilson remarked in support of his decision that "panicky" persons were giving the Russians credit for "some bombers they don't have." Presumably one of these panicky persons is Wilson's chief of Air Staff, Gen. Nathan Twining. Twining said some months ago that the Russian "long range bomber force is now so big" that the Soviets no longer need to "increase its size" but only to improve the quality of the plane.

But let this pass. Assume that Secretary Wilson is perfectly correct in estimating that it will be three years before the Soviet Air Force can devastate the United States. By any reasonable test, this estimate is the best possible argument for going all out immediately on a major continental defense effort. Under any circumstances, it will take a long time to build a fully mature early warning net, and above all the weapons to respond effectively to the warning. But if we do indeed have three years grace, the job can still be done, according to the best experts in the field, if not a minute is wasted in the meantime.

The other arguments advanced by Secretary Wilson against a major air defense effort, which are echoed by high Pentagon sources, are equally confusing and conflicting. At his press conference on Wednesday, for example, Wilson intimated that no more than the half billion additional he proposes could be spent, even if much more money is available.

On the very same day, Gen. Benjamin Chidlaw, chief of the Air Defense Command, also had something to say. He remarked sadly that is was impossible to provide even "adequate" protection under present money and other limits. "I feel confident," he added, "that when it becomes fully apparent to our national leaders that an adequate degree of protection cannot be provided within the limits imposed, the present restrictions will somehow be relaxed." The conflict with Wilson's statement needs no underlining.

Complicated Subject

Another argument is that nothing more can be done under the present manpower ceiling. Actually, a study of precisely this problem, under Air Force sponsorship, known by the code name "Operation Corrode," has concluded that a deep area defense can be manned with available manpower. Even if this conclusion is overoptimistic, it is surely a little odd to argue that a nation of 160,000,000 people cannot provide the men to prevent its own destruction.

A final argument is that it is no use making a big investment in air defense, since Soviet perfection of new devises like the intercontinental ballistic missile will render such a defense obsolete. This flies straight in the face of the reassuring estimates of Soviet capabilities cited above. What is more, it is precisely like saying that it is no use going to a doctor, since everyone must die in the end anyway.

This is a complicated subject, full of thorny technicalities. It is possible that Secretary Wilson and those who agree with him are right, and that for some undisclosed technical or other reasons the great number of experts who have studied the subject are wrong. It is possible that these reasons have nothing to do with the desire to lower taxes and balance the budget, or with the congenital affection of the military for the utterly outdated "balanced force" or three-way-split concept.

Sunday School Enrollments Gain But Space And Teachers Needed

By CHARLES W. MERCER

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—The nation's Sunday school leaders are taking stock of a challenging problem:

U. S. Sunday school enrollments are at an all-time high—well above the 32 million mark.

Yet 27 million other American children and youths receive little or no church school training.

And, of the one million children who each year get into trouble with the law, the vast majority have no record of regular religious instruction.

As in the public schools, Sunday church schools in many cases are overcrowded and handicapped by a lack of teachers.

With these facts in mind, churches throughout the nation last week observed Christian Education Week with strong drives for new Sunday school members — and teachers. It was sponsored by the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., with 40 denominations cooperating.

"As a Christian nation, we cannot afford to let a single child go without his spiritual heritage," said Dr. Gerald E. Knoff, executive secretary of the National Council's Division of Christian Education. "All children need God, and it is the task of parents and churches alike to give them every opportunity to weave spiritual and religious values into the fabric of their lives."

Citing the latest surveys of Sunday school attendance, Dr. Knoff pointed to a 6½ per cent gain in Sunday school enrollments in the last year.

Many clergymen in individual churches, however, emphasize two needs, if their Sunday schools are to work effectively: adequately trained teachers and proper space.

Among the heroes and heroines of Christian effort few are less praised than the volunteer Sunday school workers. Today they number almost 2,600,000. They are the early risers ever Sunday. Most work under imperfect conditions: too small quarters, too large classes, too short time, too little cooperation from parents.

To teach a child faith in God often is a difficult assignment under any conditions. To teach, for example, in a crowded cloak room where junior is easily bemused by the idea of hitting a hat with a spitball does not make the assignment any easier.

But religious education leaders emphasize that placing a child in a spacious and well-equipped room will not automatically give him a greater understanding of spiritual values.

In other words, the great responsibility falls on the teachers themselves—on their understanding of children and youths as well as on an understanding of their subject.

Mindful of juvenile delinquents' lack of religious training, the 10 million members of the United Church Women of the National Council are joining with the Children's Bureau of the Social Security Administration in studying the problem in their own communities.

Another effort to bring religious education to a wider audience of children has been launched by the Division of home Missions of the National Council. It is administering Protestant work in industrial defense communities at Savannah River, Ga., and South Carolina, at Paducah, Ky., and in the Chillicothe-Portsmouth area of southern Ohio. Nearly 100,000 persons have been drawn into each of these areas where the Atomic Energy Commission has plants under construction.

Trained religious workers have brought in trailer chapels, established mothers' clubs and undertaken story hours and church school programs for the children.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.—Adv.

California Files Brief In Water Battle With Ariz.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—That long Supreme Court battle between California and Arizona over Colorado River water rights reached the point today where California filed a legal paper called a "Rejoinder of defendants to complainant's reply to defendants' answer."

That's one of those things the newspaper reporters simply call a brief.

In this one, California denied an Arizona claim that drafters of the Colorado River Compact back in 1922 intended for Arizona to use all of an extra million acre feet of water assigned to lower basin states.

U.S. Straight Pin Industry, Stuck By Foreign Competition, Asks Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The U. S. straight pin industry has an SOS out today.

It says so many foreign-made pins are being stuck in this country that the domestic business is being ruined. And, in a brief filed with the Tariff Commission, it said it wants to limit imports to 100,000 pounds of pins a year.

The commission has agreed to study the pin problem.

Funny thing about pins. You use them all the time, and never give them a second thought. Yet the pin people have some interesting facts scattered through the brief they filed with the commission.

For instance: the pin is one of the oldest articles used by man. The Paleolithic man had the idea when he fastened his tunic with a thorn. There has been no basic change in this principle in 150,000 years.

The word itself is a tipoff on its background. It comes from the Latin, "spina," meaning a thorn.

The first pin-making machine was a Yankee invention, and the first pin factory in this country was the Howe Mfg. Co., set up in Darby, Conn., in 1835.

Connecticut, given this head start, appears to have things well in hand to this day.

Eight companies make almost all the pins in the United States, and five of these are in Connecticut. The others are in Chicago, New York and Philadelphia. About 1,500 persons are employed as pinmakers.

The industry contends its troubles began when the duty on pins was lowered after the last war from 35 to 20 per cent for most of the world. It says pins began rolling in from the United Kingdom, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Australia, Canada, Germany, Spain and Japan.

Unlike, say, television sets, the pin people say there's no way to whoop it up and get more pins used. The market stays steady at 2½ to 3 million pounds, come what may. And foreign-made pins are coming at the rate of 246,734 pounds a year.

Sunday School Enrollments Gain But Space And Teachers Needed

By CHARLES W. MERCER

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—The nation's Sunday school leaders are taking stock of a challenging problem:

U. S. Sunday school enrollments are at an all-time high—well above the 32 million mark.

Yet 27 million other American children and youths receive little or no church school training.

And, of the one million children who each year get into trouble with the law, the vast majority have no record of regular religious instruction.

As in the public schools, Sunday church schools in many cases are overcrowded and handicapped by a lack of teachers.

With these facts in mind, churches throughout the nation last week observed Christian Education Week with strong drives for new Sunday school members — and teachers. It was sponsored by the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., with 40 denominations cooperating.

"As a Christian nation, we cannot afford to let a single child go without his spiritual heritage," said Dr. Gerald E. Knoff, executive secretary of the National Council's Division of Christian Education. "All children need God, and it is the task of parents and churches alike to give them every opportunity to weave spiritual and religious values into the fabric of their lives."

Citing the latest surveys of Sunday school attendance, Dr. Knoff pointed to a 6½ per cent gain in Sunday school enrollments in the last year.

Many clergymen in individual churches, however, emphasize two needs, if their Sunday schools are to work effectively: adequately trained teachers and proper space.

Among the heroes and heroines of Christian effort few are less praised than the volunteer Sunday school workers. Today they number almost 2,600,000. They are the early risers ever Sunday. Most work under imperfect conditions: too small quarters, too large classes, too short time, too little cooperation from parents.

To teach a child faith in God often is a difficult assignment under any conditions. To teach, for example, in a crowded cloak room where junior is easily bemused by the idea of hitting a hat with a spitball does not make the assignment any easier.

But religious education leaders emphasize that placing a child in a spacious and well-equipped room will not automatically give him a greater understanding of spiritual values.

In other words, the great responsibility falls on the teachers themselves—on their understanding of children and youths as well as on an understanding of their subject.

Mindful of juvenile delinquents' lack of religious training, the 10 million members of the United Church Women of the National Council are joining with the Children's Bureau of the Social Security Administration in studying the problem in their own communities.

Another effort to bring religious education to a wider audience of children has been launched by the Division of home Missions of the National Council. It is administering Protestant work in industrial defense communities at Savannah River, Ga., and South Carolina, at Paducah, Ky., and in the Chillicothe-Portsmouth area of southern Ohio. Nearly 100,000 persons have been drawn into each of these areas where the Atomic Energy Commission has plants under construction.

Trained religious workers have brought in trailer chapels, established mothers' clubs and undertaken story hours and church school programs for the children.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.—Adv.

California Files Brief In Water Battle With Ariz.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—That long Supreme Court battle between California and Arizona over Colorado River water rights reached the point today where California filed a legal paper called a "Rejoinder of defendants to complainant's reply to defendants' answer."

That's one of those things the newspaper reporters simply call a brief.

In this one, California denied an Arizona claim that drafters of the Colorado River Compact back in 1922 intended for Arizona to use all of an extra million acre feet of water assigned to lower basin states.

U.S. Straight Pin Industry, Stuck By Foreign Competition, Asks Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The U. S. straight pin industry has an SOS out today.

It says so many foreign-made pins are being stuck in this country that the domestic business is being ruined. And, in a brief filed with the Tariff Commission, it said it wants to limit imports to 100,000 pounds of pins a year.

The commission has agreed to study the pin problem.

Funny thing about pins. You use them all the time, and never give them a second thought. Yet the pin people have some interesting facts scattered through the brief they filed with the commission.

For instance: the pin is one of the oldest articles used by man. The Paleolithic man had the idea when he fastened his tunic with a thorn. There has been no basic change in this principle in 150,000 years.

The word itself is a tipoff on its background. It comes from the Latin, "spina," meaning a thorn.

The first pin-making machine was a Yankee invention, and the first pin factory in this country was the Howe Mfg. Co., set up in Darby, Conn., in 1835.

Connecticut, given this head start, appears to have things well in hand to this day.

Eight companies make almost all the pins in the United States, and five of these are in Connecticut. The others are in Chicago, New York and Philadelphia. About 1,500 persons are employed as pinmakers.

French Cabinet Still Undecided On Big 5 Meeting

PARIS, Oct. 8 (AP)—Foreign Minister Georges Bidault said tonight Premier Joseph Laniel's cabinet has discussed whether France should urge a meeting of the Big Four with Communist China, but it has taken no decision.

Some newspapers reported today that the Cabinet meeting yesterday produced an agreement that France would press the United States and Britain to agree to Russia's proposal of a five-power meeting with the proviso that it be limited to discussion of Far East issues. A communique from the Foreign Ministry said:

"The minister of foreign affairs denies reports that the Council of Ministers (cabinet) on Oct. 7 had taken a decision to propose a five-power conference.

"The minister of foreign affairs states specifically that the Council had only an exchange of views on the diplomatic situation arising from the Soviet response to the invitation to a conference (of the Big Four) at Lugano.

"While it is true, on the other hand, that restoration of peace in Indochina remains a constant preoccupation of the government, no decision nor any linking of these two problems has been arrived at by the Council."

Bidault concluded his communique deploring what he implied was a deliberately twisted leak resulting in "journalists of good faith" being used to spread a biased report.

The last atatement indicated there is a split among the ministers over the five-power meeting proposal.

Reliable informants said it appeared that Deputy Premier Paul Reynaud was the chief advocate of a conference of the Western Powers with Russia and Red China as providing a possibility of halting the war in Indochina. They said it was understood that Reynaud was supported by Finance Minister Edgar Faure and Defense Minister Rene Pleven in the cabinet debate.

Bidault is leader of the opposition to any big-five meeting, both on the ground that it would be unlikely to produce any good results and because he believed the United States would not receive kindly a proposal for such a meeting coming from France.

College Prexy Hits Congress Hunt For Reds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — Assailing congressional hunts for Communists in the nation's colleges, an educator said today: "We rightfully fear concentration of power in any man."

Hollis F. Price, president of LeMoyne College, Memphis, Tenn., made this statement in an address prepared for a panel discussion at the 36th Annual Convention of the American Council on Education. He did not mention any names.

Price said:

"Under the American system of government, we have a separation of powers for good and sufficient reasons. I believe this is due to our faith in man and our lack of complete faith in any man....

"In matters of investigation of communism it would appear that legislative committees have assumed judicial functions. It may also be asked whether congressmen who must be coming up for election don't sometimes mistake the voice of majority opinion for the voice of God."

The panel discussion, one of the high spots of the convention, followed a greeting from President Eisenhower, who said it is the work of the nation's educators to strive for world understanding that will allow "people to live together without intermittent blazing into conflict."

And, the President said:

"We can talk about all the diplomacy we can bring to bear, all the security of arms, but we are not going to make any real progress unless educational people and groups of all countries see these problems and get into it to help."

Margaret Clapp, president of Wellesley College, and other speakers cautioned that colleges must prepare now for the avalanche of new students that will hit the campuses in the next 10 years as the result of the greatly increased birth rate during World War II.

The name of the state of Utah comes from a Spanish word meaning "snow clad."

Eastern Shore Crops Suffer Damage As Frost Hits State

[By The Associated Press]

Eastern Shore farmers frowned and Western Maryland orchardists smiled last night in the wake of the first frost of the season which sent the mercury tumbling to record October lows.

On the Shore, an estimated 350 acres of unpicked beans was under survey for damage. Richard Carey, Fruitland produce buyer, estimated half of the crop may have been ruined.

William Cathell of the John H. Dulany & Son canning firm at Salisbury said the killing frost early yesterday has ended string bean processing for the season.

The late beans would have been picked within the next two weeks.

Sweet potato vines were nipped by chilly temperatures, too, but farmers do not expect the vine damage will seriously affect the yield. Harvesting of sweet potatoes is expected to continue for the next several weeks.

The picture was different in Central and western Maryland. Orchardists said the frost will probably give color to late apples which have been in sore need of moisture.

In Baltimore, the cold snap was indirectly responsible for at least four fires reported as a result of householders starting up their winter heating systems.

A mass of polar air which swept into the state brought on the cold weather.

The record temperature reported for Wednesday night or early Thursday was a reading of 22½ at the University of Maryland fruit laboratory at Hancock. The mark was the lowest recorded in 50 years of record keeping for the first half of October in Washington County.

Other temperatures in western and central Maryland were 32 at Frederick, 25 at Unionville, 17 at Oakland, 22 at Frostburg and 31 in Cumberland.

Ice formed throughout the area in bird baths and other water containers for the first time this season.

The State Police barracks at Salisbury on the Shore reported a reading of 26. Readings at other barrack's included 31 at Benson in Harford County, 32 at Waterloo in Howard County and 34 at Pikesville in Baltimore County.

In Baltimore city, the low was 40, only two degrees higher than the all-time Oct. 8 record set in 1876.

Baltimore Woman In Congress Race

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP)—A Baltimore bonnet was first officially in the ring today for the 1954 congressional elections.

Mrs. Myrtle (Pat) Shipley, administrative employe of the city's Board of Election Supervisors, filed her certificate and paid her $100 fee as a Republican candidate in the 4th District.

Rep. George H. Fallon, a Democrat, now represents the district and has since 1945. It lies in the central part of the city.

Mrs. Shipley, a divorcee, was named chief clerk of the Baltimore Supervisor of Elections office in 1951. She supported McKeldin for governor in 1950.

W.Va. Sales Tax 'Take' Increases

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 8 (AP) — Receipts from West Virginia's biggest source of revenue, the gross sales tax, showed an increase the first three months of the current fiscal year, while income from two other taxes dropped.

A report from the office of Tax Commissioner Milton J. Ferguson listed gross sales tax receipts from the three months ended Sept. 30 at $9,258,404, an increase of $331,680 over the comparable period a year ago.

Cigarette tax collections the first three months of fiscal 1953-54 totaled $1,590,681, down $148,094 from the same period of 1952-53.

Income from the soft drinks tax amounted to $1,000,208. The drop from the first three months of the previous year was a relatively small one of $10,416.

Production of natural resources, the biggest single category of gross sales tax revenues, accounted for $2,512,221 of the three-month total from that levy. The figure compared with $2,446,722 last year.

Within the natural resources category, receipts from coal production totaled $1,973,996, down slightly from $1,986,131 a year ago.

It is estimated that women own 40 per cent of the 30 million homes in the United States.

Red Conspirator's Disbarment Sought

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Bar Association of Baltimore today moved to secure the disbarment of Maurice Braverman, Baltimore attorney now serving a federal prison sentence for being a Communist conspirator.

The association's petition for disciplinary action was filed in Circuit Court. Chief Judge W. Conwell Smith ordered the petition served on Braverman by Nov. 9 and gave him until Dec. 9 to answer.

Braverman now is serving a three-year sentence in the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa. He also was fined $1,000 after a federal court jury convicted him of conspiring with five other defendants who had been Communist Party functionaries in Maryland and the District of Columbia.

NORWEGIAN LANDSLIDE — Overturned vehicles lie alongside a shattered concrete highway after a landslide near Oslo, Norway, Wednesday. A section of railway track, torn loose in the downpour, hangs suspended over the embankment. Two persons, reportedly passengers aboard a bus caught in the slide, were missing after the rain of earth and rocks.

Swanson "Not Available" For Presidency Of U. Of Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 8 (AP)—Neil H. Swanson, executive editor of the Baltimore Sunpapers, said here today he is "not available" for the presidency of the University of Maryland.

He gave interviewers the statement after delivering a lecture to a sophomore journalism class in which he complimented student editors for resisting efforts to keep stories out of the campus paper, the Diamondback.

"I think the Diamondback did exactly right," Swanson said.

Soon after the university started casting about several weeks ago for a new president rumors popped up Swanson was being considered.

Earlier this week he had written Elin Lake, editor of the Diamondback, that he doubted he was being considered and did not want the job "under any circumstances." She printed parts of the letter in the Diamondback.

Swanson's reference to news suppression tied in with a controversy which developed on the campus when Miss Lake disclosed university authorities rounded up copies of the Sept. 25 edition of the Diamondback.

Dean Geary Eppley said he had ordered the papers disposed of because two pictures in the edition gave an unfair portrayal of conditions and showed a warped sense of news judgment.

Miss Lake said either faculty officials or officers of the student government association had tried to block publication of five items in the Sept. 25 edition.

Eastern Shore Crops Suffer Damage As Frost Hits State

[By The Associated Press]

Eastern Shore farmers frowned and Western Maryland orchardists smiled last night in the wake of the first frost of the season which sent the mercury tumbling to record October lows.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—Yale's center of alcohol studies has been conducting a kind of kidney Kinsey since 1949, peering into the drinking habits of the American undergrad. Now it has come up with a statistic-bristling tome entitled "Drinking In College," by Professors Robert Straus, now of the College of Medicine, Syracuse, N. Y., and Selden D. Bacon, who is director of the Yale experiment.

The survey touched 17,000 students in 27 U. S. colleges. The announced purpose: To examine an age group in which U. S. drinking habits tend to take firm root. Many warning signs of problem drinkers are found in students.

Some of the findings:

Nine out of ten who drink say both their parents drink, one frequently to excess. About 75 per cent of our college students drink. Of these a little under half prefer beer, 42 per cent spirits and 11 per cent wines. Only 21 per cent of the men and 10 per cent of the women drink oftener than once a week.

The researchers found that a majority first tasted alcohol before the age of 11, and a much bigger majority is in favor of drinking, in moderation.

There is more drinking among college students than in non-college groups of similar age, but this is laid to the influence of the households which send their children on to higher education. Conclusion: More people now drink but they drink less than did the Americans of the past, and the caricature of the "drunken collegian" is false.

The "Booze Kinsey" is published by Yale University Press.

Apropos of National Newspaper Week, Harry Storms, of New York's press-minded "Press Box" restaurant, sends me a bit of information about a little explored phase of American life: The Confederate papers during the Civil War. It is an item about the recent receipt by the editor of the Port Jervis (N. Y.) Union Gazette of a framed copy of the Vicksburg (Miss.) Daily Citizen, printed during the celebrated siege.

The editor of the Daily Citizen maintained as thin a waist line and as stout a heart as any defender of the city. When he ran out of newsprint he unearthed a supply of wallpaper and used the undecorated side as paper for his hungry presses.

As the Union armies pressed closer in the heat of summer, 1863, the Daily Citizen commented in its decorative journal:

". . . The great Ulysses—the Yankee generlisomo, surnamed Grant—has expressed his intention of dining in Vicksburg on Saturday next, and celebrating the 4th of July by a grand dinner and so forth. When asked if he would invite Gen. Jo Johnston to join, he said, 'No! For fear there will be a row at the table'. Ulysses must get into the city before he dines in it. The way to cook a rabbit is 'first catch the rabbit'."

The Civil War was a photographer's war — Brady's — not a reporter's. Or have I missed the standard work on this fabled period?

Headline: Russia cannot wage H-war until 1956—Secretary Wilson.

That will be a pretty terrible way of breaking up the New York Yankees after what will then be their eighth consecutive pennant and series title.

The supercarrier USS Forrestal will be the last word in electronic marvels and it is possible it may be propelled by atomic power. But a rather homey throwback to the buggy-whip and side-wheeler days will be added. Its jet and rocket planes will be launched from its deck by catapults operated by steam.

Banks To Be Open On Columbus Day

Monday is Columbus Day, a legal holiday in Maryland, but local banks will remain open.

At the last session of the General Assembly a law was passed making it optional for banking institutions to do business or close on such "minor" holidays as Armistice Day, Old Defenders Day, Washington and Lincoln's birthdays and other days.

A spokesman said the banks will close on "major" holidays such as Christmas, New Year's Day and Good Friday.

Progress Noted On District Road Work

Progress on the modernization of the Winchester Road from U. S. Route 40 to Cresaptown is being made by the Hazelwood Construction Company and the project is ahead of schedule, according to G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission.

Most of the work under way is of a grading and drainage nature. There are seven small bridges which will be rebuilt and this part of the work is expected to start soon.

Cost of the job is $787,000 and when completed will provide a 24-foot wide highway with 10-foot earthen shoulders, except in places where it will be narrowed to cut down on property damage.

In progress for several weeks, the project includes the widening, surfacing and general improvement of the highway. It is a widely traveled road and is used daily by workers in the Georges Creek area who are employed at the Amcelle Plant of the Celanese Corporation.

Chaires said the project also includes the widening and resurfacing of what is known as the Warrior Run Road. This is a cutoff highway used by traffic in the Cresaptown area enroute from the McMullen Highway to the Winchester Road.

The Winchester Road project will probably be ready by next spring for surfacing with bituminous concrete. Chaires said the work being done is engineered so as not to impede the flow of traffic during the coming winter months.

Chaires also announced that the State Roads Commission is asking bids for resurfacing and widening of State Route 55 from Miller to Midland. The 1.16 mile distance is all that remains to be modernized in order to have a completely new road from Clarysville to Midland.

Bids have also been asked on a bridge to carry traffic over the B & O Railroad tracks west of Ridgeville in Frederick County for the new Baltimore National Pike.

This is one of a half dozen projects that must be completed to extend the new dual highway 13 miles from its present terminus near Ridgeville to the Monocacy River Bridge just east of Frederick.

It will take two three-span bridges to carry the dual highway over the tracks.

Bids will be opened at Commission headquarters in Baltimore on October 27.

Rail Traffic For October Is Expected To Be Normal

Traffic on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was about normal during September and indications are the October business will be at the usual seasonal volume.

However, although the freight haulage last month was normal it was considerably below September of last year when the company took care of a big accumulation of business in the wake of a two-month steel strike.

The company reported 266,493 carloads handled in September as compared with 279,769 a year earlier and 276,070 last August

This traffic showing would indicate that gross operating revenues for September will not equal the $40,107,738 figure for the same month in 1952 which was the best September in the company's experience. The road's net income also is expected to be well below that of $3,627,206 reported for the corresponding 1952 month.

Net income of the B&O for last month will reflect a smaller dividend received on its holdings of 167,127 shares of Western Maryland Railway's first preferred stock.

Because of its pending recapitalization, Western Maryland paid only $2.50 a share on its first preferred last month. This brought in only about $418,000 to the B&O as against $1,170,000 received from that source in the same month last year when a $7 dividend was paid by Western Maryland.

However, the inference is that Western Maryland senior stock has been put on a quarterly basis, so another $2.50 dividend is looked for in December.

The B&O also is eligible to receive a cash distribution of $10 a share on the Western Maryland first preferred issue, if the recapitalization plan is authorized. In the event that the plan gets the green light before the end of the year, this would put B&O in position to get a total of $15 a share as compared with $14 a share received on the Western Maryland holding in 1952 when two $7 dividends were paid, one in September and the other in December.

Dairymen Elect Mason President

John T. Mason, of Cresaptown, was re-elected president of the Allegany County Artificial Breeders Association Wednesday night at the Court House.

Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, was named secretary.

Elected to the board of directors are Granville Shumaker, of Rawlings; Clarence Miller, of Midland; George Barton, of Pinto and Chelsie A. Liller, of Cresaptown.

Harry Miller, technician employed by the group, gave a report on dairy cows bred during the past year. He said that a 12 per cent increase in the number of cows inseminated was reported as against a state increase of only nine per cent. There were 1,303 dairy cows bred by artificial insemination in the county last year.

Sisterhood Convention Opens Here Tomorrow

County's Farm Tax Increases

Allegany County farmers have had only a seven cents per acre tax increase since the 1940-1941 fiscal year, according to a report issued by the University of Maryland.

The tax rate per acre in Allegany County was 55 cents in 1940-41. It went up to 59 cents in 1945-46 then dropped to 55 cents in 1948-49. The next year it jumped to 60 cents and the following year went to 62 cents where it remains today.

Garrett County's acreage tax ranged from 32 cents in 1940-41 to 47 cents currently. The top rate was in 1947-48 when the tax was 48 cents per acre.

Allegany County's acreage tax hike amounted to 13 percent during the 12-year period. Garrett County had a 47 percent increase.

Allegany County was one of three in Maryland where per capita farm assessed valuation was considerably less than the per capita non-farm assessed valuation. The other two are Calvert and Wicomico counties. The average per capita taxable basis for the three counties was $783 while the non-farm property per capita taxable basis was $1,416 or almost twice as much.

Garrett County was one of six Maryland counties which had a per capita farm assessed valuation about equal to non-farm assessed valuation. Farm property was listed at an average of $1,398 as against $1,447 for non-farm property.

For the "long torso" look, the new corselets is the best underscoring you can give your new costumes!"

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

As fashions shift and the silhouette is modified or changed, the articles a woman wears beneath her dress or suit have to change as well. In fact, ofter it is the change in underpinnings that makes the new line of fashion most most important in accenting any style. Whenever a new fashion is born, the garment manufacturers design new underpinnings for every type to mold the feminine figure into fashionable line.

When you are fitted this year for a new girdle or corselet, you will find a distinct difference between this year's and those of last.

While the little waist keynoted last year's style, the "long-torso" look is now of greatest importance. It gives the bosom a higher look and the legs and thighs a longer, smoother, lovelier line.

Since this cannot be accomplished merely by indenting the waist, corselets have a greater importance this year than ever before. They are most effective in accenting the bosom while trimming the area starting immediately beneath the bust and extending over the hips and thighs in one smooth, elongated line. Slender shapeliness, a long willowy figure, is the goal most admirably accomplished by the new corselets.

Not only in line, but in comfort as well, the new corselet has little relation to old models. It is lighter in weight, designed without complicated or bulky closures, yet by virtue of improved construction, it gives you more effective control than ever before.

Although boneless, superb control is accomplished through biascut panels of double and triple thickness, reinforcement and ingenious sectioning with leno elastic or power net to give you figure molding along with greatest comfort.

There is no economy in spending too large a portion of your clothes budget on just what the eye can see and then skimping on what is necessary to underscore your styles fashionably. If you wish to wear the new narrower silhouette, see your favorite corsetiere immediately and be properly fitted to make the most of your figure's lines. Remember, there's a corselet for every figure and every fashion so take your time in your selection — enough time to make sure that both your figure and your fashions get just the corselet they need!

Keyser Firemen Will Sponsor Halloween Event

Mummers' Parade To Be Featured

KEYSER—The Keyser Volunteer Fire Company, with the help of local merchants and organizations, is completing plans for the observance of Halloween.

Feature of the Halloween Night program will be a mummers' parade, with prizes to be awarded the participants at the fire hall after the parade.

There will be prizes in each of three age groups for the best-appearing costumed individual, most comical and most original.

After the outside program is completed there will be dancing in the large auditorium of the fire hall.

The firemen with the aid of merchants, held a program a year ago at Halloween time, providing entertainment for all age groups. There was less vandalism in Keyser and it is believed the program this year will cut down on the rougher types of celebration.

"Treats, not Tricks" is the motto of the firemen this year. In the children's groups, all who are costumed for the occasion will have a place in the parade, which will form at the high school campus. All age groups are welcome to participate, wearing costumes of their choice. The parade will move from the high school to North Main Street, to Armstrong Street, thence to North Mineral and around to Center Street, where it will disband in front of the fire hall.

Judging of individual costumes will be done in front of the fire hall, the street being blocked off for the evening against traffic. Special contests will be held on the first floor of the fire hall for the children, where parade prizes will be presented to the various groups that will include three prizes in each group, as follows:

Best dressed child, ugliest, most comical (1 to 6 years). Best appearing, most original and most comical, 6 to 10 years, 10 to 14 years and 14 years and up.

Refreshments will be sold by the Ladies Auxiliary of the fire company during the evening.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service announces its week of prayer service for the evening of the 25th and following this the study of the Book of Jeremiah each Sunday evening.

The Quilting Club is continuing its activity on Wednesday, 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. on Friday evening. The Men's and Women's Bible Classes have increased in membership with plans for the coming season. The church is now engaged in the Conference-Wide Crusade to raise $800,000 for church extension.

Bridge Is Declared Safe For Mineral School Buses

Three Other Spans To Be Reinspected

KEYSER — The fear that sometime a loaded school bus would cause the collapse of bridges over streams which had to be traversed by the buses in moving students to school, has apparently been checked, at least in some minds.

Since school started early in September, buses have been stopping at the approach to certain bridges, and the students have had to get out and walk across the bridges, and then board them on the opposite side before continuing on their way.

The county school officers have been in telephonic conversation with Charleston about the situation, and the governor promised to take action.

Yesterday information was received by L. A. Huffman, superintendent of county school buses, from the State Road Commission, saying that the road engineers have declared one of the bridges over New Creek near the Blue Jay Tavern near the town of New Creek, as safe, declaring that the bridge is safe with any load under 13 tons.

Three other bridges in the county that were previously declared unsafe, are to be inspected again by the county road engineers to determine the maximum load that can be carried. These bridges cross Patterson's Creek at Barksville and Reese's Mill, and at Oakmont in Elk District.

Halloween Party Is Planned By Piedmont Church

PIEDMONT—The Wesleyan Service Guild will sponsor a Halloween party Friday, October 30, in the recreation hall of Trinity Methodist Church, for the children of the Tri-Towns. The affair will be held immediately after the annual street parade.

Plans were made and committees appointed at the regular meeting of the Guild recently at the home of Miss Mary Lou Parker. Miss Patsy Francis and Miss Anna Lee Withrow were co-hostesses.

The committees selected include Mrs. Alma Price, prizes; Miss Anna Lee Withrow, Miss Lois Shreve, Mrs. Marguerite Pence, Mrs. Norma Kohne, Mrs. Mildred Eisler and Mrs. Vernon Frye, decorations; Mrs. Henrietta Kazlo and Miss Patsy Francis, games; Miss Pauline Whiteman, Miss Marie Clark, Miss Esther Michael, Miss Phyllis Adams and Mrs. Raymond Reeves, refreshments.

Mrs. Marjorie Ahlfeld and Miss Betty Jo Plybon, invitations; Mrs. Violet Daddysman, judge.

The decorations will be done the evening before the affair and all members are requested to help.

Reports at the meeting were given by Miss Mary Lou Parker, who represented the Guild recently in Morgantown and Miss Betty Jo Plybon, who was in charge of the purchase and installation of the rug for the church nursery.

"Faith of Our Fathers" was used as the theme for the worship program. Seventeen persons attended.

W.Va. DeMolay Will Hold 1954 Meet In Keyser

300 Members Are Expected To Attend

KEYSER — Keyser Chapter, Order of DeMolay, the youth organization sponsored by Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, in West Virginia, will be host chapter for the annual conclave June 14-16, next year.

Keyser was selected as the host city for the meeting at a session of the fall conference of DeMolay in Clarksburg recently.

Wheeling and Clarksburg have been hosts to the DeMolay annual conclaves in the past, and the selection of Keyser for the next meeting is considered a compliment to the local chapter, of which Harry O. Rogers is advisor, representing the Masonic bodies.

Wheeling sought the meeting for next summer but the conference selected Keyser for its location in the eastern part of the state because it has a very active unit.

The next summer meeting, known as the Mountaineer Conclave, DeMolay of West Virginia, is the third that has been held in the state since the chapters have grown to the point where it has reached maturity in the state.

All business sessions and social affairs will be held in the buildings on Potomac State College campus, which was offered to the DeMolay for the conclave, by Dr. E. E. Church, president of the college. The buildings, grounds, athletic field, tennis courts, banquet hall, and other college equipment will be used for various parts of the three-day program. All meals will be served at the college.

Rogers said he expects close to 300 members of the youth body as well as a large number of Masonic members, including high state officials in the order.

Keyser Firemen Will Sponsor Halloween Event

Mummers' Parade To Be Featured

KEYSER—The Keyser Volunteer Fire Company, with the help of local merchants and organizations, is completing plans for the observance of Halloween.

Feature of the Halloween Night program will be a mummers' parade, with prizes to be awarded the participants at the fire hall after the parade.

There will be prizes in each of three age groups for the best-appearing costumed individual, most comical and most original.

After the outside program is completed there will be dancing in the large auditorium of the fire hall.

The firemen with the aid of merchants, held a program a year ago at Halloween time, providing entertainment for all age groups. There was less vandalism in Keyser and it is believed the program this year will cut down on the rougher types of celebration.

"Treats, not Tricks" is the motto of the firemen this year. In the children's groups, all who are costumed for the occasion will have a place in the parade, which will form at the high school campus. All age groups are welcome to participate, wearing costumes of their choice. The parade will move from the high school to North Main Street, to Armstrong Street, thence to North Mineral and around to Center Street, where it will disband in front of the fire hall.

Judging of individual costumes will be done in front of the fire hall, the street being blocked off for the evening against traffic. Special contests will be held on the first floor of the fire hall for the children, where parade prizes will be presented to the various groups that will include three prizes in each group, as follows:

Best dressed child, ugliest, most comical (1 to 6 years). Best appearing, most original and most comical, 6 to 10 years, 10 to 14 years and 14 years and up.

Refreshments will be sold by the Ladies Auxiliary of the fire company during the evening.

Bridge Is Declared Safe For Mineral School Buses

Three Other Spans To Be Reinspected

KEYSER — The fear that sometime a loaded school bus would cause the collapse of bridges over streams which had to be traversed by the buses in moving students to school, has apparently been checked, at least in some minds.

Since school started early in September, buses have been stopping at the approach to certain bridges, and the students have had to get out and walk across the bridges, and then board them on the opposite side before continuing on their way.

The county school officers have been in telephonic conversation with Charleston about the situation, and the governor promised to take action.

Yesterday information was received by L. A. Huffman, superintendent of county school buses, from the State Road Commission, saying that the road engineers have declared one of the bridges over New Creek near the Blue Jay Tavern near the town of New Creek, as safe, declaring that the bridge is safe with any load under 13 tons.

Three other bridges in the county that were previously declared unsafe, are to be inspected again by the county road engineers to determine the maximum load that can be carried. These bridges cross Patterson's Creek at Barksville and Reese's Mill, and at Oakmont in Elk District.

Halloween Party Is Planned By Piedmont Church

PIEDMONT—The Wesleyan Service Guild will sponsor a Halloween party Friday, October 30, in the recreation hall of Trinity Methodist Church, for the children of the Tri-Towns. The affair will be held immediately after the annual street parade.

Plans were made and committees appointed at the regular meeting of the Guild recently at the home of Miss Mary Lou Parker. Miss Patsy Francis and Miss Anna Lee Withrow were co-hostesses.

The committees selected include Mrs. Alma Price, prizes; Miss Anna Lee Withrow, Miss Lois Shreve, Mrs. Marguerite Pence, Mrs. Norma Kohne, Mrs. Mildred Eisler and Mrs. Vernon Frye, decorations; Mrs. Henrietta Kazlo and Miss Patsy Francis, games; Miss Pauline Whiteman, Miss Marie Clark, Miss Esther Michael, Miss Phyllis Adams and Mrs. Raymond Reeves, refreshments.

Mrs. Marjorie Ahlfeld and Miss Betty Jo Plybon, invitations; Mrs. Violet Daddysman, judge.

The decorations will be done the evening before the affair and all members are requested to help.

Reports at the meeting were given by Miss Mary Lou Parker, who represented the Guild recently in Morgantown and Miss Betty Jo Plybon, who was in charge of the purchase and installation of the rug for the church nursery.

"Faith of Our Fathers" was used as the theme for the worship program. Seventeen persons attended.

300 Members Are Expected To Attend

KEYSER — Keyser Chapter, Order of DeMolay, the youth organization sponsored by Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, in West Virginia, will be host chapter for the annual conclave June 14-16, next year.

Keyser was selected as the host city for the meeting at a session of the fall conference of DeMolay in Clarksburg recently.

Wheeling and Clarksburg have been hosts to the DeMolay annual conclaves in the past, and the selection of Keyser for the next meeting is considered a compliment to the local chapter, of which Harry O. Rogers is advisor, representing the Masonic bodies.

Wheeling sought the meeting for next summer but the conference selected Keyser for its location in the eastern part of the state because it has a very active unit.

The next summer meeting, known as the Mountaineer Conclave, DeMolay of West Virginia, is the third that has been held in the state since the chapters have grown to the point where it has reached maturity in the state.

All business sessions and social affairs will be held in the buildings on Potomac State College campus, which was offered to the DeMolay for the conclave, by Dr. E. E. Church, president of the college. The buildings, grounds, athletic field, tennis courts, banquet hall, and other college equipment will be used for various parts of the three-day program. All meals will be served at the college.

Rogers said he expects close to 300 members of the youth body as well as a large number of Masonic members, including high state officials in the order.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Stock Market advanced moderately today in quiet trading.

Among late prices:

Southern Railway up ⅛ at 41⅝, Standard Oil (NJ) up ⅜ at 69½, American Telephone unchanged at 154⅝, Du Pont up 1 at 102, General Electric up ¼ at 75¾, American Tobacco up 1⅛ at 75⅝, Bethlehem Steel up ⅜ at 47⅛, General Motors up ⅛ at 57¼, and Radio Corp. ¼ at 24.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 10 cents at $103.80, a rise of $4.30 from the year's low but $12.50 from the year's high reached early in January.

The industrial and utility components of the average each were up 10 cents while the railroads were down 20 cents.

The list was composed of 1,079 individual issues of which 504 advanced and 269 declined with 8 new highs and 15 new lows for the year recorded during the day. Low volume of 960,000 shares was an indication of the lack of interest in today's market. That compares with yesterday's 1,010,000 shares.

Trading Quiet But Market Scores Moderate Advance

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Stock Market advanced moderately today in quiet trading.

Among late prices:

Southern Railway up ⅛ at 41⅝, Standard Oil (NJ) up ⅜ at 69½, American Telephone unchanged at 154⅝, Du Pont up 1 at 102, General Electric up ¼ at 75¾, American Tobacco up 1⅛ at 75⅝, Bethlehem Steel up ⅜ at 47⅛, General Motors up ⅛ at 57¼, and Radio Corp. ¼ at 24.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 10 cents at $103.80, a rise of $4.30 from the year's low but $12.50 from the year's high reached early in January.

The industrial and utility components of the average each were up 10 cents while the railroads were down 20 cents.

The list was composed of 1,079 individual issues of which 504 advanced and 269 declined with 8 new highs and 15 new lows for the year recorded during the day. Low volume of 960,000 shares was an indication of the lack of interest in today's market. That compares with yesterday's 1,010,000 shares.

Unusual Pot Roasts Utilize Beef's Bounty

Beef cuts are making a steady appearance on the dinner table these days.

Beef supplies continue abundant, with large amounts of lean, economy beef coming to market. This is grass-fed beef which comes directly to market from the ranges of the West and has had no corn feeding.

Such cuts as beef chuck, round, rump, Boston (or English) cut, and sirloin butt make excellent pot roasts. Proper cooking with imaginative touches can turn these attractive beef buys into gourmet dishes of which even a French chef would be proud.

Here's an interesting way to prepare pot roast. Slow braising in a pungent, sweet-sour sauce gives it an intriguingly different flavor. Spices and raisins compliment the beef's fine flavor in this streamlined version of that age-old favorite, sauerbraten.

Quick Sauerbraten With Raisins

3 to 4 pounds chuck pot roast
Salt, lard
2 medium onions
1 bay leaf
¼ cup water
¼ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon brown sugar
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon allspice
⅛ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup raisins

Sprinkle roast with salt; brown in 2 tablespoons hot lard in a Dutch oven or other large, heavy utensil. Top with sliced onions and bay leaf. Combine water and vinegar and in this dissolve sugar; add seasonings and pour over meat. Cover and cook over low heat until almost tender, about 2 hours, adding more water as needed. Turn meat and top with raisins. Cover and continue cooking until meat is tender, 30 to 60 minutes. Remove roast to a serving platter. Spoon off most of fat, dilute liquid with water, if necessary, and thicken with a flour and water paste. Season to taste.

If you have the time and inclination to prepare sauerbraten by the centuries old method, here's such a recipe. For this epicurean treat, the meat is marinated for several days in a spicy liquid, then cooked in the same liquid.

In this old German dish, gingersnaps are used to thicken the liquid. The combination of gingersnaps with meat may seem strange. However, after you've tasted the results, you'll agree that the gingersnap-beef team is delicious.

4 to 5 pounds beef pot roast
2 cups vinegar
2 cups water
3 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons white or brown sugar
2 medium onions
1 clove garlic
6 whole cloves
2 bay leaves
3 or 4 celery tops
12 gingersnaps

Place meat in a large earthenware or glass bowl. Heat vinegar and water and dissolve salt, pepper and sugar in it. Top meat with sliced onions and pour vinegar over and around meat. Add remaining ingredients, except gingersnaps, cover and refrigerate for 3 or 4 days, turning meat daily. Remove meat and drain well. Strain liquid and save. Dredge meat with flour and brown in hot lard in a heavy utensil. Add ½ cup of the solution, cover and cook over low heat until meat is tender, 3 to 4 hours. Add more liquid as needed. To make gravy, remove meat to a hot platter, dilute liquid to strength desired, add crumbled gingersnaps and stir until smooth. Season to taste.

Sauerbraten With Raisins

Beef pot roasts are one of today's best meat buys. The lean, economy beef now on the market offers especially good buys in this favorite meat. Here pot roast is cooked in a sweet sour sauce (see recipe preceding page) which gives it a flavor resembling old fashioned sauerbraten.

Individual Pot-Roasts

How would you like to serve individual pot-roasts? That's what you would have when you purchase cross-cut beef shanks. Just as their name implies, they are small pieces of beef made by cutting across the shank bone. Here they're temptingly teamed with a vegetable gravy.

Beef Shank Pot-Roasts—Vegetable Gravy

3 pounds cross-cut beef shanks; ½ cup flour; 3 teaspoons salt; ½ lard or drippings; 1 onion, finely chopped; 1 cup water; 2 cups chopped carrots; 1 green pepper, chopped; 1 cup chopped celery.

Dredge meat in seasoned flour and brown on all sides in lard or drippings. Add onion and water. Cover closely and simmer 3 to 4 hours or until tender. Add vegetables and make gravy from liquid in which meat and vegetables have cooked. 6 servings.

For wise meal planning, know the wide variety of beef cuts available and learn the proper cookery method for each cut. There are over 30 retail beef cuts from which the homemaker can choose and, regardless of the cut, all are high in nutritive value and will be equally tender and appetizing if properly prepared.

How would you like to serve individual pot-roasts? That's what you would have when you purchase cross-cut beef shanks. Just as their name implies, they are small pieces of beef made by cutting across the shank bone. Here they're temptingly teamed with a vegetable gravy.

Beef Shank Pot-Roasts—Vegetable Gravy

3 pounds cross-cut beef shanks; ½ cup flour; 3 teaspoons salt; ½ lard or drippings; 1 onion, finely chopped; 1 cup water; 2 cups chopped carrots; 1 green pepper, chopped; 1 cup chopped celery.

Dredge meat in seasoned flour and brown on all sides in lard or drippings. Add onion and water. Cover closely and simmer 3 to 4 hours or until tender. Add vegetables and make gravy from liquid in which meat and vegetables have cooked. 6 servings.

For wise meal planning, know the wide variety of beef cuts available and learn the proper cookery method for each cut. There are over 30 retail beef cuts from which the homemaker can choose and, regardless of the cut, all are high in nutritive value and will be equally tender and appetizing if properly prepared.

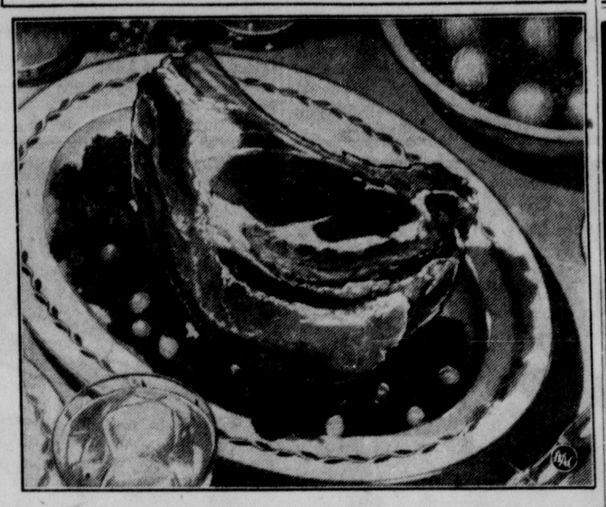
Sauerkraut, Pork And Apples Make Delicious Dishes

Although modern methods of processing have introduced a wide variety of foods into the American menu there are certain tried and true food favorites of which we never seem to tire. Sauerkraut, pork and apples are just as popular today as they were many years ago and improved production has made them plentiful and low in price. Fall is the perfect time for featuring these three fine foods, so set aside October 1st to November 15th as your Kraut, Pork 'n' Apple Dinner Season and serve dishes combining sauerkraut, pork and apples for every type of dinner.

Beef is one of the richest sources of the B vitamins, thiamin, riboflavin and liacin, all of which are necessary for growth and health, for normal functioning of the body organs, and for other vaulable uses of the body. Beef liver also ranks high in Vitamin A.

Beef At Lower Prices Cheers Budget Cook



THERE couldn't be a greater kindness to the cook than the price of roast beef at the market nowadays. Standing ribs of beef are priced substantially lower than last year, making this cut of beef a budget buy. Lean beef fed on the lush grasses of the plains and prairies of the West is an even more economical buy. It is just as nutritious although it has less fat, and is best cooked by braising in a covered pan. For perfect roast beef cookery and for braising lean beef, see elsewhere on this page.

Economy Beef

From the lush grasses of the Western plains comes a beef bonanza to brighten meat shopping these days. This lean, budget-saving, economy beef is from cattle which has had no grain-feeding. Because it usually costs less to produce, it can be offered as a thrifty buy.

Economy beef lacks the heavier fat covering and extensive marbling found in grain-finished beef. For this reason, all cuts should be cooked in liquid (braised or stewed), and cooked a little longer time than similar cuts of higher-grade beef. (Incidentally, economy beef is every bit as nutricious as higher-grade beef.)

If you have a pressure cooker, you'll find it's just the thing for cooking lean beef to complete tenderness in record time.

The secret of preparing a perfect, juicy beef rib roast is to always roast the meat at a low temperature, to the desired degree of doneness, rare, medium or well done. Meat that is overcooked has greater shrinkage, is less palatable, less attractive and more difficult to carve. Roast the beef fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. This eliminates basting, covering, or adding water. Season with salt and pepper before, during, or after cooking. For best results, use a roast meat thermometer to determine doneness.

Beef ranks high as a source of phosphorus. This food nutrient is needed by the cells of the body, in building strong bones and teeth and for regulating the body processes.

The art of meat carving is easy to master, the primary rule being to always carve roasts across the grain for most attractive servings. Thick beef steaks are the only cut carved with the grain.

Shiny new aluminum package keeps GOOD LUCK fresher than any other margarine!

Only GOOD LUCK is double-wrapped in Reynolds Wrap, which keeps it so fresh you can't tell it from "you-know-what"!

YOU LIKE your food real fresh, don't you? Things like eggs, strawberries, bread—and the spread you put on your bread!

Tell you what: you don't know how fresh a spread can taste till you've sampled today's GOOD LUCK margarine in its shiny new aluminum package!

How Reynolds Aluminum Keeps GOOD LUCK Fresh

No other spread was ever packed this way before. First we wrap each quarter-pound print of GOOD LUCK in pure Reynolds Aluminum Foil. Then we put the quarter pounds in a waxed carton for extra protection. And finally, we seal the whole carton in shiny aluminum foil, to keep GOOD LUCK's fine flavor and freshness in, and keep any foreign odors out. But even that's not all.

Keep GOOD LUCK in your refrigerator

We also take great care to see that GOOD LUCK is kept refrigerated until the instant you buy it in the store. Margarine of this fine quality is perishable—just like eggs! So if you want to enjoy GOOD LUCK at its delicious best, always keep it in your refrigerator. GOOD LUCK stays smooth and spreads easily when you serve it at the table.

The result of this new wrap and refrigeration: GOOD LUCK now stays fresher than any other margarine!

Saves You Up to 40¢ a Pound

GOOD LUCK in its new aluminum package, still costs no more than other quality margarines, still saves you up to 40¢ a pound over the high-priced spread. Look for GOOD LUCK wrapped in sparkling Reynolds Aluminum Foil—it's guaranteed by Lever Brothers, N. Y.

1 LB. FAMILY STYLE ROLL SAVES TIME—AND MONEY!

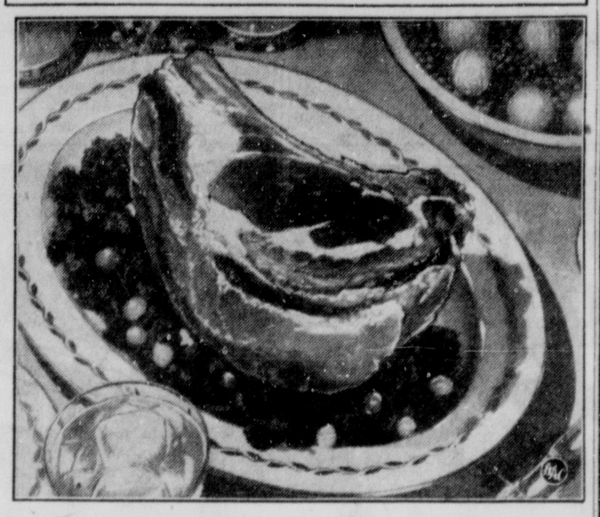
GOOD LUCK's Family-Style Roll is now wrapped in Reynolds Aluminum Foil. It's easy to unwrap, handy for cooking, or serving at the table. It's the same quality margarine—yet saves you 2¢ more than the individually wrapped quarters!

Sauerkraut, Pork And Apples Make Delicious Dishes

Although modern methods of processing have introduced a wide variety of foods into the American menu there are certain tried and true food favorites of which we never seem to tire. Sauerkraut, pork and apples are just as popular today as they were many years ago and improved production has made them plentiful and low in price. Fall is the perfect time for featuring these three fine foods, so set aside October 1st to November 15th as your Kraut, Pork 'n' Apple Dinner Season and serve dishes combining sauerkraut, pork and apples for every type of dinner.

Beef is one of the richest sources of the B vitamins, thiamin, riboflavin and liacin, all of which are necessary for growth and health, for normal functioning of the body organs, and for other vaulable uses of the body. Beef liver also ranks high in Vitamin A.

Beef At Lower Prices Cheers Budget Cook



THERE couldn't be a greater kindness to the cook than the price of roast beef at the market nowadays. Standing ribs of beef are priced substantially lower than last year, making this cut of beef a budget buy. Lean beef fed on the lush grasses of the plains and prairies of the West is an even more economical buy. It is just as nutritious although it has less fat, and is best cooked by braising in a covered pan. For perfect roast beef cookery and for braising lean beef, see elsewhere on this page.

Economy Beef

From the lush grasses of the Western plains comes a beef bonanza to brighten meat shopping these days. This lean, budget-saving, economy beef is from cattle which has had no grain-feeding. Because it usually costs less to produce, it can be offered as a thrifty buy.

Economy beef lacks the heavier fat covering and extensive marbling found in grain-finished beef. For this reason, all cuts should be cooked in liquid (braised or stewed), and cooked a little longer time than similar cuts of higher-grade beef. (Incidentally, economy beef is every bit as nutricious as higher-grade beef.)

If you have a pressure cooker, you'll find it's just the thing for cooking lean beef to complete tenderness in record time.

The secret of preparing a perfect, juicy beef rib roast is to always roast the meat at a low temperature, to the desired degree of doneness, rare, medium or well done. Meat that is overcooked has greater shrinkage, is less palatable, less attractive and more difficult to carve. Roast the beef fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. This eliminates basting, covering, or adding water. Season with salt and pepper before, during, or after cooking. For best results, use a roast meat thermometer to determine doneness.

Beef ranks high as a source of phosphorus. This food nutrient is needed by the cells of the body, in building strong bones and teeth and for regulating the body processes.

The art of meat carving is easy to master, the primary rule being to always carve roasts across the grain for most attractive servings. Thick beef steaks are the only cut carved with the grain.

Pack remaining meat mixture over eggs. Bake in a slow oven (300°F.) until done, about 1½ hours. Serve hot or cold. 8 servings.

Mannish Favorite

Beef is playing an extended engagement at your meat counter. All beef cuts are selling at welcome prices and many economy buys are real budget-savers.

Beef Brisket with Horseradish Sauce

Versatile Ground Beef In Three Tasty Dishes

Here's a meat counter quiz: 1. Which meat now is in most plentiful supply, with many cuts real economy buys? The answer is BEEF. 2. What meat buy—one of the thriftiest—is so versatile that it can be featured in hundreds of dishes, each one different? The answer is GROUND BEEF.

There's no prize for getting the correct answer to these questions—but here are recipes for three prize-winning dishes using versatile, economical ground beef.

There's lots of lean, economy beef on the market these days, making ground beef a better-than-ever meat buy).

Family Ground Beef Casserole

1 pound ground beef
¾ cup uncooked rice
1 medium onion
2½ cups canned tomatoes (No. 2 can)
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon onion salt
3 tablespoons soy sauce
Dash pepper
3 strips bacon

Wash rice and cook in boiling, salted water until tender. Finely chop onion and cook until lightly browned in 1 tablespoon hot fat. Add ground beef and brown. Mixed with cooked rice, seasonings and tomatoes. Pour into 1½ quart casserole; top with bacon and bake at 375 degrees F. until bacon is crisp, about 30 minutes. 4-6 servings.

The second ground beef favorite is a hamburger patty which is seasoned with catsup and thyme. Letting the seasoned mixture stand an hour or so in the refrigerator improves the flavor.

Hamburger Favorite

1 pound ground beef
¼ cup minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon powdered thyme
2 tablespoons catsup

Combine all ingredients and let stand in the refrigerator for 1 hour. Shape into four patties and pan-fry or broil.

The third ground beef dish hits the jackpot because it's thrifty, easy to prepare and a filling family main dish. It's a one-dish meal of layered ground beef, potatoes, celery, tomatoes and green pepper.

Layered Beef And Vegetable Casserole

1 pound ground beef
1 cup chopped celery
2 cups thinly sliced potatoes
¾ cup sliced onions
¾ cup chopped green pepper
1 cup well drained canned tomatoes
Salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, dry mustard

Lightly brown ground beef in skillet in a little fat. Break up tomatoes with a fork and combine with 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce. Combine 2 teaspoons dry mustard, 2 teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. In a 1½ quart casserole, place layers of beef, celery, potatoes, onions, green pepper and tomatoes; sprinkle each layer with seasonings. Cover and bake at 350 degrees F. for 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. 4 servings.

Louisiana Yams In Simple Supper

You will agree Louisiana Yams, pineapple and ham make a flavorful trio once you have tasted Yam Triple Deckers. It is a complete tasty supper menu when tossed green salad and crusty French bread are added. During October when fresh yams from Louisiana are plentiful, this recipe is especially timely and will be enjoyed by the entire family.

Yam Triple Deckers
(Makes 4 servings)

2 cups ground cooked ham; ¼ cup dry bread crumbs; 3 tablespoons pineapple juice; Dash ground cloves; 4 slices canned pineapple; 2 cups mashed cooked Louisiana Yams; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 egg yolk; ¾ cup dry bread crumbs; 1 tablespoon pineapple juice.

In a bowl, combine ham, ¼ cup bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons pineapple juice and cloves; mixe well. Shape into four patties. Place patties in greased shallow baking pan; top each patty with a pineapple slice. In another bowl, combine yams, salt, egg yolk, ¾ cup bread crumbs and 1 tablespoon pineapple juice; mix well. Shape into four patties and place 1 yam patty over each pineapple slice. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 30 minutes. Serve piping hot.

A beef stew becomes a beef pie merely with the addition of a topping This may be a flaky pastry crust, tender biscuits, mashed potatoes, or fluffy rice. Individual meat pies are popular for buffet serving and are easily prepared by braising one to two-inch beef cubes in a small amount of liquid and seasoning well with salt, pepper, herbs or spices. When the cubes are tender, arrange in individual casseroles and cover with your favorite "crust." Place in a hot oven long enough for the meat pies to be heated through and the topping browned.

Yams Are Special Treat

Lamb crown roast stuffed with Louisiana yams is a company dinner treat. Bright red apple bits and chopped pecans combine with fluffy mashed yams to make the delectable filling. Spiced crabapples are a colorful garnish. Mixed vegetables are a good selection to serve with the roast.

Yam Stuffed Lamb Crown Roast
(Makes 8 servings)

1 4½-5 pound crown roast of lamb
Salt and pepper
3 cups mashed cooked Louisiana yams
1 medium-sized apple, cored and diced
½ cup chopped pecans
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Sprinkle the roast with salt and pepper; wrap exposed part of rib bone with aluminum foil to prevent charring. Place on a rack in roasting pan. Bake in moderate oven (325°) 1½ hours. Combine yams, apple, pecans and butter or margarine; mix well. Remove roast from oven and fill center with yam mixture. Continue baking 1 hour.

Yams With Fruit

Louisiana yams in flavor and texture combine well with fruit in salads and desserts. Here are two easy-to-prepare recipes in which Louisiana yams are teamed with fruit.

Chilled Yam Ambrosia
(Makes 6 servings)

2 cups diced cooked Louisiana Yams
1 No. 2 can fruit cocktail
1 cup orange sections
1 cup diced bananas
½ cup shredded coconut
Dash nutmeg

In a large bowl, combine all ingredients; mix lightly. Chill thoroughly before serving.

Yam Fruit Salad
(Makes 4 servings)

2 large Louisiana Yams, cooked, peeled and diced
1 cup well-drained pineapple chunks
1 cup diced bananas
1 cup unpeeled, diced apple
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
3 tablespoons orange juice
Lettuce

In a large bowl, combine yams and fruit; sprinkle with lemon juice. Chill thoroughly. Soften cream cheese; add orange juice and mix until well blended. Pour over chilled yam-fruit mixture. Toss lightly. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Pineapple chunks and fluted banana slices may be used as a garnish if desired.

Louisiana Yam Beef Roll
(Makes 6 servings)

1½ pounds ground beef chuck
1 egg slightly beaten
¾ cup soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon horse-radish
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1¼ cups mashed cooked Louisiana Yams
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped onion
3 slices lean bacon

In a bowl, combine beef, egg, bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, salt, pepper, horse-radish and mustard; mix well. Spread meat mixture on a piece of waxed paper to make rectangle about 8x10 inches. In another bowl, combine yams, parsley, 2 tablespoons chopped onion; mix well. Spread yam mixture evenly over meat. Roll up jelly-roll fashion. Place in shallow baking pan and top with bacon slices. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 45 minutes-1 hour. Serve with tomato sauce, if desired.

Beef Roast Round-Up

As the days get nippier, you'll be welcoming such stick-to-the-ribs main dishes as hearty beef roasts served with oven-browned or baked potatoes. You'll welcome, too, the fact that many beef cuts continue to sell at attractive prices.

Here's a round-up of beef roasting pointers:

You can roast beef, rolled rib or top quality rump roasts. (Remember that lower quality rump roasts should be cooked with added liquid —pot roasted.) Here's how to roast to perfection the beef roast of your choice:

Sprinkle meat with salt and pepper and place rolled rib or rump roasts, fat side up, on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. (Rib roast needs no rack.) Do not add water, do not cover and do not baste while roasting. Roast in a 325°F. oven to the desired degree of doneness.

If you are using a meat thermometer, insert it into the center of the thickest muscle so that it does not rest on bone or fat. When the thermometer registers 140°F., the meat is rare; at 160°F., it is medium; at 170°F., it is well-done.

Roast standing rib roast 22 to 26 minutes per pound for rare, 26 to 30 minutes per pound for medium and 33 to 35 minutes per pound for well-done. For rolled roasts, all 5 to 10 minutes per pound.

Cater To Masculine Tastes

For that something down right good to eat, many folks will agree there's nothing quite like braised beef steak. Purchase either arm or round steak for braising. To lend a new touch to your dish, cook fresh or canned button mushrooms along with the steak.

Braised Steak with Mushrooms

1 beef arm or round steak, cut ¾ inch thick; ¼ cup flour; 1 teaspoon salt; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; 4 tablespoons lard or drippings; flour; 1½ cups milk; 1 pound fresh mushrooms or 1 can button mushrooms.

Cut steak into 4 or 5 individual servings. Add salt and pepper to ¼ cup flour and pound into steaks. Brown steaks in lard or drippings, cover and cook slowly about 1 hour. Add mushrooms, cover and continue cooking for 30 minutes or until meat is tender. Add enough flour to seasoned flour to make 3 tablespoons. Remove steaks, stir flour into drippings, add milk, stirring constantly until gravy is thickened. 4 to 6 servings.

Beef cubes offer many opportunities for thrifty and hearty meals. With beef in abundance, you'll want to serve these meat cubes often braised with mushrooms, barbecued over rice, or combined with your favorite vegetables in a savory stew. When purchasing beef cubes, ask for cuts from the shank, neck, flank or chuck or the beef cubes your meat dealer features.

Team Beef-Biscuits

Since both beef and biscuits are top food favorites this recipe teams the pair. Seasoned ground beef is rolled up (jelly-roll fashion) in a biscuit dough, baked and served with a creamy mushroom sauce.

Ground Beef Rolls

1½ pounds ground beef; 1 cup chopped onion; 1 tablespoon lard, 1 cup mashed potatoes; 2 tablespoons milk; 1 egg; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 cup sifted enriched flour; salt; ¼ teapsoon pepper; 1 cup sifted enriched flour; 1 teaspoon baking powder; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 tablespoon lard; 1 egg; 1 tablespoon water.

Brown meat and onion in lard. Mix with potatoes, milk, egg, salt and pepper. Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in lard and add egg and water. Roll out to one-eighth inch thickness. Spread filling on pastry and roll. Slice in 2-inch pieces. Bake on greased pan in moderately hot oven (400°F.) for 30 minutes or until done. Serve with mushroom sauce. 6 to 8 servings.

Mushroom Sauce

2 tablespoons butter or margarine; 2 tablespoons flour; 1 cup milk; 1 teaspoon salt; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; 1 small can sliced mushrooms.

Melt butter or margarine and add flour, mixing well. Add milk and seasonings and cook until thick. Add mushrooms to cream sauce.

A SAVORY MEAT-AND-VEGETABLE CASSEROLE
. . . prize dish for an autumn meal

You combine flavory canned apple sauce, hearty little chunks of tender pink ham and egg plant for this wonderful-to-eat, easy-to-make casserols. These three are simple every day foods, each delicious in its own right. What's new is combining them...and what you get as a result is a dish t hat's different—but not too different! You taste the apple sauce, the eggplant and the ham all separately and yet mingled together, too, in a fine relishing flavor.

You can prepare this casserole early in the morning and then forget it until close to meal time. Popped into the oven for a quick bake, it emerges all savory aroma and appetizing heartiness. You just couldn't give your family a better tasting dish!

For luncheon or supper you might serve with it raw carrots and celery sticks and radishes... and a tall glass of chilled apple juice. For dinner you'll enjoy it accompanied by a hot vegetable and for dessert, a hearty pudding or cake, and coffee.

Vary your meals with ground beef. Meat loaves, for instance, take on a brand new appearance when baked in a ring mold and served with the center filed with garden vegetables. Or. try stuffing the meat loaf with a savory sage stuffing or hard-cooked eggs, laid end-to-end through the center of the meat loaf mixture. Individual meat loaves baked in muffin tins or in individual ring molds also rate the family's approval.

Handed down through generations is the story of the knighting of the loin by an English king. King Charles II was said to have been exceedingly pleased with a platter of beef which was served him at a banquet, in his honor. Drawing his sword above the roast, he is quoted as saying, "A noble joint, it shall have a title. Loin, I dub thee knight . . . henceforth, thou shalt be Sir Loin."

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Trouble Can Pay

WNEW, the impudent little independent radio station in New York, is having a lot of fun taking pokes at television in a series of spot commercials, each of which begins "You'll never hear this on WNEW." For instance, you'll hear a fanfare of music and then an announcer, in that tone of unbridled idiocy:

John Crosby

"Trouble can pay! Program with real people in trouble for your entertainment. Now here's our first guest . . ."

Then a pitiable voice: "You think you got troubles. Boy, I really got trouble. That's all I ever have is trouble."

Comes the announcer: "Hold it! Hold it! We've just received a wire from the Gilt Edge Yacht Company. They are going to give you a yacht complete with crew. Your troubles are over on 'Trouble Can Pay.' "

Well, as satire goes, it's a little weak, but it just goes to show what television is letting itself wide open for. Not long ago, Henry L. McCarthy, New York State commissioner of welfare, raised an exceedingly angry voice against what he called "sob story giveaway programs." Whole families, he said, trek clear across the country to let loose their piteous cries over national networks and win — or try to win — a year's supply of mouth wash.

The trouble is that they don't all get on the air and then New York State's Welfare Department has to send them home. The Welfare Department is professionally in the business of getting people out of difficulties and, Mr. McCarthy points out, a year's supply of mouth wash or even a Gilt Edge yacht are hardly the right solutions to very real problems. Mr. McCarthy also has some pretty strong words concerning children whose families expose them "to the public gaze as the object of beggarly solicitation," a practice, he thinks, that "could scar them for life."

How did we ever get into this mess, anyhow? Giveaway shows, alas, have been with us a long time, but the sob angle is relatively new. Time was when just plain John Doe who had a wife and two children and a home in Brooklyn and a good job could get on a giveaway show, make with the answers to the silly questions and bring home the year's supply of bacon.

Now, to get anywhere near the stage, poor John has to be crippled with arthritis, the wife abed with pneumonia and the kids in rags. And he'd stand a better chance if the house in Brooklyn burned down. In one week on "Glamour Girl," the winners were the wife of a returning prisoner of war, a woman whose husband was threatening to hire a pretty secretary, a former invalid, a cleaning woman whose only contact with glamour were the orchids discarded by hotel guests, and a former alcoholic. This is entertainment?

If you can't get enough agony on "Glamour Girl," you can always try "On Your Account," a fairly new afternoon show on five times a week 4:30 p. m. EST NBC-TV. On this one Win Elliott, posing as "your friendly banker," passes out cash to people with terrible troubles. Typical cases: 16-year-old Emma Grossi of Paterson, N. J., a multiple sclerosis victim in a wheelchair. Without hesitation, she told Mr. Elliott that Lake Michigan touched Chicago, that William F. Cody was known as Buffalo Bill and that the term "love" is used in tennis and was rewarded, for this omniscience, with $180.

The eagerness of the emcee to give away the dough is sometimes pretty funny. On ABC's "Turn to a Friend," another real sob show, a lady was trying to earn a wheelchair for her father. (The sob program is the greatest boon the wheelchair industry ever had.) Emcee Dennis James asked her who wrote "The Good Earth." Girl obviously didn't know so James pulled out a dollar bill and waved it frantically.

There are 24,000,000 downtown Koreans against 8,000,000 uphill boys. Their national song is, "If a body meets a body coming through the Rhee.

All of these sections could be developed by the last of December. The speed of development and the exact order will depend upon additional interest shown.

Drop us a card or call in your name and address. The rates for Bowling Green and LaVale will necessarily be higher due to the extra installation costs and maintenance. These rates have not as yet been determined.

by John Crosby

Trouble Can Pay

WNEW, the impudent little independent radio station in New York, is having a lot of fun taking pokes at television in a series of spot commercials, each of which begins "You'll never hear this on WNEW." For instance, you'll hear a fanfare of music and then an announcer, in that tone of unbridled idiocy:

John Crosby

"Trouble can pay! Program with real peopie in trouble for your entertainment. Now here's our first guest . . ."

Then a pitiable voice: "You think you got troubles. Boy, I really got trouble. That's all I ever have is trouble."

Comes the announcer: "Hold it! Hold it! We've just received a wire from the Gilt Edge Yacht Company. They are going to give you a yacht complete with crew. Your troubles are over on 'Trouble Can Pay.' "

Well, as satire goes, it's a little weak, but it just goes to show what television is letting itself wide open for. Not long ago, Henry L. McCarthy, New York State commissioner of welfare, raised an exceedingly angry voice against what he called "sob story giveaway programs." Whole families, he said, trek clear across the country to let loose their piteous cries over national networks and win — or try to win — a year's supply of mouth wash.

The trouble is that they don't all get on the air and then New York State's Welfare Department has to send them home. The Welfare Department is professionally in the business of getting people out of difficulties and, Mr. McCarthy points out, a year's supply of mouth wash or even a Gilt Edge yacht are hardly the right solutions to very real problems. Mr. McCarthy also has some pretty strong words concerning children whose families expose them "to the public gaze as the object of beggarly solicitation," a practice, he thinks, that "could scar them for life."

How did we ever get into this mess, anyhow? Giveaway shows, alas, have been with us a long time, but the sob angle is relatively new. Time was when just plain John Doe who had a wife and two children and a home in Brooklyn and a good job could get on a giveaway show, make with the answers to the silly questions and bring home the year's supply of bacon.

Now, to get anywhere near the stage, poor John has to be crippled with arthritis, the wife abed with pneumonia and the kids in rags. And he'd stand a better chance if the house in Brooklyn burned down. In one week on "Glamour Girl," the winners were the wife of a returning prisoner of war, a woman whose husband was threatening to hire a pretty secretary, a former invalid, a cleaning woman whose only contact with glamour were the orchids discarded by hotel guests, and a former alcoholic. This is entertainment?

If you can't get enough agony on "Glamour Girl," you can always try "On Your Account," a fairly new afternoon show on five times a week 4:30 p. m. EST NBC-TV. On this one Win Elliott, posing as "your friendly banker," passes out cash to people with terrible troubles. Typical cases: 16-year-old Emma Grossi of Paterson, N. J., a multiple sclerosis victim in a wheelchair. Without hesitation, she told Mr. Elliott that Lake Michigan touched Chicago, that William F. Cody was known as Buffalo Bill and that the term "love" is used in tennis and was rewarded, for this omniscience, with $180.

The eagerness of the emcee to give away the dough is sometimes pretty funny. On ABC's "Turn to a Friend," another real sob show, a lady was trying to earn a wheelchair for her father. (The sob program is the greatest boon the wheelchair industry ever had.) Emcee Dennis James asked her who wrote "The Good Earth." Girl obviously didn't know so James pulled out a dollar bill and waved it frantically.

"Dollar," shouted the lady happily.

Korean hassel is the old jerrymandering of the upstate Democrats against the Tidewater Republicans. Or twice as versa.

There are 24,000,000 downtown Koreans against 8,000,000 uphill boys. Their national song is, "If a body meets a body coming through the Rhee.

The hill-billickers run the waterworks and the power pagodas. That's why President Rhee sings a song of Syngman pence.

He doesn't want to keep snapping bon-bons across the thirty-eighth parallel with the overland Commies. He signed a non-aggression pact with America.

Allegany High's Campers, seeking their third straight win following their opening 12-6 loss to Patterson Park, will host a powerful Keyser High Tornado eleven at Fort Hill stadium tonight. Game time is 8 p. m.

Coach Roy Lester's charges, working without the services of Fullback Freddie Wartzack who has been sidelined because of illness, will be facing the Potomac Valley Conference champions who have captured three of four starts this year.

Rank, Puhalla At Full

Keyser opened with impressive wins over Charles Town, 27-13, and Beall, 14-0, before losing 19-6 to LaSalle's Explorers. Last week Coach Fred Clark's aggregation bounced back to hand Ridgeley's Blackhawks their first defeat, 42-0.

Allegany has defeated Beall 28-0 and Hagerstown 20-6 in its last two starts since dropping their first game. But the Campers will be switching their backfield somewhat to replace Wartzack.

Coach Lester said last night the Alco eleven will field Dick Rank or Don Puhalla at fullback with Donald "Bucky" Rice, slender scatback, taking over the left half slot. Rice has looked very good in recent assignments, scoring twice against Hagerstown. Mason Sisk and George Reynolds will captain the Camper crew.

This will mark the 33rd time the two teams have met, with Allegany on the long end of 23 of the scores with one game ending in a 13-13 tie in 1947. Keyser's last victory over the Campers came in 1946 when the Tornado dumped the Alcomen 19-13. Since 1947's deadlock Allegany has won five straight —33-6 in 1948; 13-7 in 1949; 54-19 in 1950; 37-18 in 1951 and 24-0 last year.

Courrier Leads Scorers

Keyser, in racking up its three triumphs, has produced the district's leading scorer in Fullback Ernie Courrier, six-foot, 190-pound line plunger. Courrier has chalked up six touchdowns and eight extra points for 44 tallies in Keyser's four games.

Officials for the contest will be Bobby Cavanaugh, Johnny Blough, Hubert Feeney and Jim Fahey. A large crowd is anticipated for the game.

PEN-MAR LEAGUE CHAMPIONS — The Keyser Ridge Bucks captured both the regular season pennant and the championship playoffs in the Pen Mar Baseball League in the season just completed. James E. George piloted the victors and Danny Cullen, former Beall High ace hurler, won the final series victory over Wellersburg to clinch the title. Players are (front row, left to right) Carl Kamp, Pete McKenzie, Jack Mort, Harry Keister, Gerald Rafferty, Bob Keister. Back row (same order) George Richards, Paul Stewart (scorekeeper), Tom Dunn, Mike Cunningham, Ozzie Nelson, Danny Cullen, Don Connors, Jack Brodie, Bob Jenkins and Manager George. In front is the bat boy, Chuck Edmiston. Andrew Brodie and Eddie Davis are missing from picture.

Bobcat Booters Play Salisbury

FROSTBURG, Oct. 8 — The Frostburg State Teachers College soccer team will travel to Towson tomorrow to meet the Salisbury Teachers.

The game will be the third of the season for the unbeaten Bobcats who will be seeking their second win. An opening game scoreless tie with Towson is the only blemish on the Cats' record.

Frostburg holds a 3-0 triumph over an Alumni team.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves, who set a National League attendance record this year, will sell only 12,900 season tickets for 1954, General Manager John Quinn said today.

All-Star Tilt Off

BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 8 (AP) — A police official today said Jackie Robinson's All-Stars won't be permitted to play in Birmingham if they use a mixed team of whites and Negroes.

Police Commissioner Eugene Conner first said the team's game with a Negro league outfit here Oct. 18 would be banned, but later explained an all-Negro contest would be all right.

Moore To Sub In Troy Bout

Sandy's Illness Gives Terry Break

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Terry Moore, who once subbed for a sub and scored an upset, moves back into the domestic fight picture tomorrow night in a familiar role —as a sub.

The stocky, 24-year old Baltimore Negro replaces lanky Randy Sandy against rock-throwing Willie Troy of Washington, D. C., in the feature ten rounder at St. Nicholas Arena. Starting at 10 p.m., EST, the tussle will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) coast to coast.

Sandy's illness provided Terry with his break and the traveling middleweight hopes to make the most of his opportunity.

Just back from a European tour in which he won three bouts and drew in two others, Moore has been established as an 8 to 5 underdog in the betting. The odds may drop by fight time. Each will weigh about 158.

Two years ago Moore was called on 24 hours notice to replace Ray Barnes, who had been signed to sub for Dick Wagner against Chuck Hunter at the same St. Nicholas Arena. Moore, a 9 to 5 underdog, won a split decision over Hunter.

Panthers Host Explorers At Homecoming

Queen To Be Crowned At Halftime; Game Starts At 2:45 P. M.

PARSONS, W. Va., Oct. 8 — Parsons High's Panthers will host the LaSalle Explorers eleven here tomorrow afternoon in the sixth annual Parsons Homecoming Game being sponsored by the student council. Game time will be 2:45 p. m.

Highlights of the halftime ceremonies commemorating Homecoming Day will be the crowning of Miss Katie Swisher, Parsons senior, as Queen Katie VI by the Rev. James Callihan, pastor of Parsons First Baptist Church.

Game To Be Broadcast

Coronation music will be provided by the Parsons High School band which will also play the National Anthem prior to the start of the football game. The game will be broadcast from the Parsons field by a Cumberland radio station, marking the first time a Parsons game ever has been aired.

The registration of alumni of the school will begin at 2:30 at the school under the direction of the student council.

Coach Robert Sullivan's Panther's have won two in a row by decisive scores after dropping their first two games. Parsons lost to Shinnston 27-7 and Fort Hill 46-6 before defeating Kingwood 26-7 and Belington 32-6. This will be the Panthers second meeting with an Cumberland eleven, having lost to Fort Hill in the Cumberland stadium September 18.

Coach Norman Geatz' LaSalle gridders will make the trip here by private automobiles, leaving Cumberland at 9:30 in the morning. The Explorers also will be seeking their third straight victory, having defeated Keyser 19-6 and Petersburg 27-0 in their last two outings since bowing to Fort Hill 7-0 in their opener. The Geatzmen were idle last week. This will be the first meeting of the two teams in several years.

Two PVC Tilts Listed

In two Potomac Valley Conference contests listed Friday Coach Bob Hartman's Franklin Panthers will host Jesse Riggleman's Petersburg Vikings and Moorefield will be at Ridgeley. Petersburg has been idle since its scoreless tie with Moorefield September 25 while Franklin has won three of four starts this year. Petersburg copped its opener 13-7 over Thomas before losing to LaSalle and tying Moorefield.

In the Moorefield-Ridgeley clash on the Mineral County school's field, Coach Chet Payne's Blackhawks will attempt to bounce back from their 42-0 loss last week to Keyser. The Hawks sport a 3-1 record. Moorefield lost to Romney October 2 13-0, played a scoreless tie with Petersburg, defeated Thomas 25-7 and deadlocked Green Bank 12-12.

Other district Friday games pit Roaring Spring at Bedford, Rockville at Frederick, Md., Montgomery Blair of Silver Spring at Hagerstown, Md., Martinsburg at Charles Town and Salem College at Potomac State in Keyser.

Navy Is Ready

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP) — Navy trained down today for its Saturday football meeting with Cornell in Baltimore's expanding Municipal Stadium.

Expectations were for one of the largest home-game crowds in late years for the first of the Middies' two Baltimore appearances this season. Opening of the first completed sections in the stadium's new upper deck and a portion of the stands underneath will raise the capacity to 29,144.

Coach Johnny Meyer's Knights have won two in a row in the five-team circuit with 3-1 triumph over Mt. Savage and a 2-0 decision over the defending champion Bruce eleven. Flintstone High, coached by Orville Jackson, won its only league start 4-0 over Beall.

Cumberland K-C Shufflers Win

Margin Over Stadium Inn Is Two Games

Cumberland Knights of Columbus shufflers kept their record unblemished last night with a 3-0 win over Cas Taylor's in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League.

Meanwhile second-place Stadium Inn defeated Goodfellowship 2-1 to drop two games behind the unbeaten league-leaders. Terp Students Tie Up Traffic

Rally For Gridders Blocks Highway

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 8 (AP) — Hundreds of University of Maryland students, whooping it up for Saturday's football game against Georgia here, swarmed over busy U. S. Route 1 tonight defying motorists to crash their blockade.

Traffic was reported stopped for 10 to 15 minutes until the crowd, estimated at 700 to 800 students, was broken up by a student leader riding in a sound truck and urging them to leave the highway.

One student said the purpose was to get motorists to blow their horns and add to the noise of the rally. A prize was being given to the organization which could raise the biggest ruckus at a pep rally held earlier on a vacant lot off U. S. 1 near the Maryland campus.

"I guess the mob spirit got them," said a bystander.

A Prince George's County police patrol car arrived as the crowd was breaking up and traffic began moving again. No injuries nor damages were reported.

Lane To Stay With Chisox

Owners Refuse Trade To Baltimore Club

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP) — Frank Lane, high-pressure baseball salesman who traded the once lowly White Sox into pennant contention, today failed to swing his hottest trade yet—himself to the Baltimore Orioles.

General Manager Lane announced that:

"After some deliberation a decision has been reached that I should not enter into any discussion with the Baltimore club in regard to that club's general managership in view of the fact my contract with the White Sox has two more years to run."

This ended two days of mysterious negotiations during which it was reliably reported Lane's eagerness to take over operation of the new Baltimore entry in the American League was firmly squelched by his present employers.

Although Baltimore never publicly announced an offer to Lane, it was learned Lane was promised a fat salary and a chance to own Oriole stock if he could wrangle a release from the White Sox.

I was a poor mixed-up MANHATTAN 'til I switched to Calvert!

"My story is a stirring one. Strain as I did — friends gave me a sip — and then the slip. At cocktail parties I was always in a glass by myself. Then I switched to Calvert Reserve. TEST WHISKIES BEFORE... and enjoy drinks more!

Your Manhattan—or any whiskey drink—can taste only as good as the whiskey you use. That's why we suggest you compare Calvert with your present brand to see which you really like better. Here's how:

SNIFF ¼-oz. samples of each whiskey to compare aroma. TASTE Calvert and the other brands critically to judge smoothness and freedom from bite. CHOOSE the whiskey that suits your own taste better.

We're betting you'll pick smoother, mellower Calvert. But you be the judge. Fair enough?

Allegany High's Campers, seeking their third straight win following their opening 12-6 loss to Patterson Park, will host a powerful Keyser High Tornado eleven at Fort Hill stadium tonight. Game time is 8 p. m.

Coach Roy Lester's charges, working without the services of Fullback Freddie Wartzack who has been sidelined because of illness, will be facing the Potomac Valley Conference champions who have captured three of four starts this year.

Rank, Puhalla At Full

Keyser opened with impressive wins over Charles Town, 27-13, and Beall, 14-0, before losing 19-6 to LaSalle's Explorers. Last week Coach Fred Clark's aggregation bounced back to hand Ridgeley's Blackhawks their first defeat, 42-0.

Allegany has defeated Beall 28-0 and Hagerstown 20-6 in its last two starts since dropping their first game. But the Campers will be switching their backfield somewhat to replace Wartzack.

Coach Lester said last night the Alco eleven will field Dick Rank or Don Puhalla at fullback with Donald "Bucky" Rice, slender scatback, taking over the left half slot. Rice has looked very good in recent assignments, scoring twice against Hagerstown. Mason Sisk and George Reynolds will captain the Camper crew.

This will mark the 33rd time the two teams have met, with Allegany on the long end of 23 of the scores with one game ending in a 13-13 tie in 1947. Keyser's last victory over the Campers came in 1946 when the Tornado dumped the Alcomen 19-13. Since 1947's deadlock Allegany has won five straight —33-6 in 1948; 13-7 in 1949; 54-19 in 1950; 37-18 in 1951 and 24-0 last year.

Courrier Leads Scorers

Keyser, in racking up its three triumphs, has produced the district's leading scorer in Fullback Ernie Courrier, six-foot, 190-pound line plunger. Courrier has chalked up six touchdowns and eight extra points for 44 tallies in Keyser's four games.

Officials for the contest will be Bobby Cavanaugh, Johnny Blough, Hubert Feeney and Jim Fahey. A large crowd is anticipated for the game.

Bobcat Booters Play Salisbury

FROSTBURG, Oct. 8 — The Frostburg State Teachers College soccer team will travel to Towson tomorrow to meet the Salisbury Teachers.

The game will be the third of the season for the unbeaten Bobcats who will be seeking their second win. An opening game scoreless tie with Towson is the only blemish on the Cats' record.

Frostburg holds a 3-0 triumph over an Alumni team.

All-Star Tilt Off

BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 8 (AP) — A police official today said Jackie Robinson's All-Stars won't be permitted to play in Birmingham if they use a mixed team of whites and Negroes.

Police Commissioner Eugene Conner first said the team's game with a Negro league outfit here Oct. 18 would be banned, but later explained an all-Negro contest would be all right.

Moore To Sub In Troy Bout

Sandy's Illness Gives Terry Break

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Terry Moore, who once subbed for a sub and scored an upset, moves back into the domestic fight picture tomorrow night in a familiar role —as a sub.

The stocky, 24-year old Baltimore Negro replaces lanky Randy Sandy against rock-throwing Willie Troy of Washington, D. C., in the feature ten rounder at St. Nicholas Arena. Starting at 10 p.m., EST, the tussle will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) coast to coast.

Sandy's illness provided Terry with his break and the traveling middleweight hopes to make the most of his opportunity.

Just back from a European tour in which he won three bouts and drew in two others, Moore has been established as an 8 to 5 underdog in the betting. The odds may drop by fight time. Each will weigh about 158.

Two years ago Moore was called on 24 hours notice to replace Ray Barnes, who had been signed to sub for Dick Wagner against Chuck Hunter at the same St. Nicholas Arena. Moore, a 9 to 5 underdog, won a split decision over Hunter.

Snider, Rosen Top Sluggers In The Majors

Duke Leads Mathews By .0002 For Title

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Duke Snider, 27-year-old outfielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers, won the National League's slugging title for 1953 by a fraction of a percentage point over Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews.

Snider slugged for a mark of .6271 to .6269 for the sophomore Braves' third baseman—a difference of .0002. Duke hit for 370 total bases in 590 times at bat and Mathews had 363-for-579, Associated Press statistics show.

Al Rosen of the Cleveland Indians took American League honors with a .613 average. The third sacker accounted for 367 total bases in 599 at bats. He led the junior circuit in home runs with 43, plus 27 doubles and five triples among his 201 safeties.

Actually, it was a home run off Bob Miller of the Philadelphia Phillies Sept. 25, two days before the season's end, which gave Snider the championship. The blow was Duke's 42nd of the year to go along with 38 doubles and four triples. He had 198 hits all told.

Mathews, who paced the league in home runs with 47, failed to hit for an extra-base in his last four games. He had 175 hits, which also included 31 doubles and eight triples, in 579 trips.

Brooklyn's Roy Campanella, who slugged .609, was third. He compiled 316 bases on 162 hits, in triples and 41 homers.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals finished fourth with .607. Musial, holder of the National League's lifetime slugging standard for ten-year men, upped his record figure from .579 to .582. In 11 years, Stan has collected 3,745 total bases. He had 360 this year.

Gus Zernial, who finished second to Rosen in home runs with 42, also was runner-up in the American League slugging derby. The Philadelphia A's outfielder cracked out 310 total bases in 555 at bats for a .559 mark.

Yogi Berra of the Yankees was third with .523 followed by Washington's Mickey Vernon, the league's batting champion, at .518 and Ray Boone of the Detroit Tigers, with .517.

Ted Williams, who rejoined the Boston Red Sox in August, slugged at a .901 pace in 37 games. He had 82 total bases, including six doubles and 13 home runs, in 91 trips.

Rosen Inks 1954 Contract For Raise

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8 (AP)—Third baseman Al Rosen, who led the American League in home runs and runs-batted-in this year, signed his sixth contract today with the Cleveland Indians.

Although the Indians followed their usual custom of not disclosing salaries, General Manager Hank Greenberg indicated Rosen got a substantial pay raise. It is believed Rosen's new salary will be around $40,000.

Rosen set a new Cleveland record for homers with 43, one more than Hal Trosky hit in 1936.

Snider, Rosen Top Sluggers In The Majors

Duke Leads Mathews By .0002 For Title

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Duke Snider, 27-year-old outfielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers, won the National League's slugging title for 1953 by a fraction of a percentage point over Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews.

Snider slugged for a mark of .6271 to .6269 for the sophomore Braves' third baseman—a difference of .0002. Duke hit for 370 total bases in 590 times at bat and Mathews had 363-for-579, Associated Press statistics show.

Al Rosen of the Cleveland Indians took American League honors with a .613 average. The third sacker accounted for 367 total bases in 599 at bats. He led the junior circuit in home runs with 43, plus 27 doubles and five triples among his 201 safeties.

Actually, it was a home run off Bob Miller of the Philadelphia Phillies Sept. 25, two days before the season's end, which gave Snider the championship. The blow was Duke's 42nd of the year to go along with 38 doubles and four triples. He had 198 hits all told.

Mathews, who paced the league in home runs with 47, failed to hit for an extra-base in his last four games. He had 175 hits, which also included 31 doubles and eight triples, in 579 trips.

Brooklyn's Roy Campanella, who slugged .609, was third. He compiled 316 bases on 162 hits, intriples and 41 homers.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals finished fourth with .607. Musial, holder of the National League's lifetime slugging standard for ten-year men, upped his record figure from .579 to .582. In 11 years, Stan has collected 3,745 total bases. He had 360 this year.

Gus Zernial, who finished second to Rosen in home runs with 42, also was runner-up in the American League slugging derby. The Philadelphia A's outfielder cracked out 310 total bases in 555 at bats for a .559 mark.

Yogi Berra of the Yankees was third with .523 followed by Washington's Mickey Vernon, the league's batting champion, at .518 and Ray Boone of the Detroit Tigers, with .517.

Ted Williams, who rejoined the Boston Red Sox in August, slugged at a .901 pace in 37 games. He had 82 total bases, including six doubles and 13 home runs, in 91 trips.

Rosen Inks 1954 Contract For Raise

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8 (AP)—Third baseman Al Rosen, who led the American League in home runs and runs-batted-in this year, signed his sixth contract today with the Cleveland Indians.

Although the Indians followed their usual custom of not disclosing salaries, General Manager Hank Greenberg indicated Rosen got a substantial pay raise. It is believed Rosen's new salary will be around $40,000.

Rosen set a new Cleveland record for homers with 43, one more than Hal Trosky hit in 1936.

B & O Conducts Safety Campaign

Thirty special safety meetings have been set up this month on the Cumberland Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Robert B. Kimble, safety director for the B & O on the Cumberland, Monongah and Wheeling divisions, said the month of October has been set aside by the B & O for a special safety campaign.

Principal speakers at the meetings, which began here Monday morning, were A. W. Conley, division superintendent, and Kimble.

Society May

They saw service in virtually all of the great battles of the Revolutionary War. Effective in almost any scrap, they were famous for their skill in picking off the enemy's officers, depriving British troops of their leaders.

An account of Cresap's Riflemen was printed in the August 16, 1775, Pennsylvania Gazette, by an eyewitness who said:

"I have had the happiness of seeing Captain Michael Cresap marching at the head of a company of upwards to 130 men from the mountains and backwoods, painted like Indians, armed with tomahawks and rifles, dressed in hunting shirts and moccasins, and though some of them traveled near 800 miles from the banks of the Ohio, they seemed to walk light and easy . . ."

"Yesterday the Company was supplied with a small quantity of powder, which wanted airing, and was not in order for rifles. In the evening, however, they were drawn out to show the gentlemen of the town their dexterity at shooting . . ."

"A clapboard with a mark the size of a silver dollar was put up; they began to fire off-hand, and the by-standers were surprised, few shots being made that were not close to or in the paper."

The climax of the demonstration was described thus:

"But will you believe me when I tell you that one of the men took the board and placing it between his legs, stood with his back to a tree, while another drove the center!"

Capt. Cresap was the youngest of five children of Col. Thomas Cresap, Western Maryland patriot, pathfinder, pioneer and the founder of Oldtown.

Born June 29, 1742, Michael was educated in Baltimore — not too willingly, for he ran away and returned to his home in Oldtown. He resumed his schooling after, historians said, his dad gave him a "terrible whipping."

A short time later, he married Miss Mary Whitehead in Philadelphia. They settled in Oldtown, where Michael became a merchant.

This venture did not succeed, nor did his plans for a real estate development in the Oldtown area, and in order to regain his fortunes, he went in 1774 to the Ohio wilderness, founding a colony near Wheeling, W. Va.

When hostile acts of Indians forced him to abandon his work of establishing a settlement, he took an active part in Dunmore's War which followed.

After the war ended with the treaty at Chillicothe, he returned to Oldtown.

Early in the spring of 1775, he hired a number of young men as helpers and returned to the Ohio to resume his settlement project.

Then the flames of the Revolution fanned across the country and Congress asked Frederick County to raise two rifle companies for the Continental Army.

Cresap and Thomas Price were named to head the units, and a messenger was dispatched to notify Cresap of his appointment as captain of the first company.

The courrier met Cresap as he was on his way home to Oldtown because of ill health.

In spite of his physical condition, Cresap accepted the appointment, recruited his company and marched out of Frederick on July 18, 1775. They reached Cambridge, Mass., on August 9, and after a brief rest, went on to join Washington's armies at Boston.

After serving in the Boston area for several months, Capt. Cresap was forced, by continued illness,

Willison and Roy Drumm, inspectors employed by the Board of License Commissioners, and Mrs. Elinor M. Westerfeld, director of the Allegany County Welfare Department.

Associate Judge George Henderson, who received the report, thanked the 23 citizens for their service on the Grand Jury and excused them with a reminder that they might be called back if some emergency develops between now and the first Monday in January when the new Grand Jury meets. He commented that he did not think Allegany County had any organized rackets. He expressed a conviction that crimes here are conducted on an individual basis and are not directed by racketeers.

Young Local Woman Given Parole In Shooting Case

Miss Teresa Frances Hamburg, 22-year-old Virginia Avenue woman who entered a guilty plea to a charge of assault with intent to kill Edwin J. Bognar, 812 Camden Avenue, yesterday received a suspended sentence and was placed on parole for five years by Associate Judge George Henderson.

The young woman had been employed in the Bognar home as a domestic. Testimony at a hearing last week showed that the Hamburg woman disliked Bognar but was on friendly terms with his wife.

Judge Henderson cited the testimony in the case which showed that the Bognars had had some marital difficulties.

Caught In Middle

"The reason I am suspending sentence, or paroling you, is due to the fact that due to the situation in the Bognar household you were caught in the middle," Judge Henderson stated.

The jurist said that although what she did was absolutely inexcusable, he felt that placing her under strict probation for five years was the best thing to do under the circumstances.

Miss Hamburg was warned to pay strict attention to the parole conditions and to stay away from the Bognars entirely, even if one of them should request otherwise.

Miss Hamburg was brought into Circuit Court on criminal information presented by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher.

Dismissed By Letter

The young woman had testified that she had been working in the Bognar home with the understanding that she absent herself in the evenings when he was home. A week earlier Bognar had written her a letter dismissing her from the job.

On the evening of the assault the Hamburg woman was working late. Bognar came home from a business trip and drove his car into a garage in the rear of the residence.

When she saw him in the driveway, the Hamburg woman obtained a .32 caliber revolver and fired a shot at him from a distance of four or five feet when he entered a cellar door from the garage.

Bognar fled when the shot missed.

The young woman could give no definite reason why she shot at her employer. William H. Geppert, attorney for the young woman, told the court his client had never been in trouble before and that a new place of employment had been obtained for her.

An account of Cresap's Riflemen was printed in the August 16, 1775, Pennsylvania Gazette, by an eyewitness who said:

"I have had the happiness of seeing Captain Michael Cresap marching at the head of a company of upwards to 130 men from the mountains and backwoods, painted like Indians, armed with tomahawks and rifles, dressed in hunting shirts and moccasins, and though some of them traveled near 800 miles from the banks of the Ohio, they seemed to walk light and easy . . ."

"Yesterday the Company was supplied with a small quantity of powder, which wanted airing, and was not in order for rifles. In the evening, however, they were drawn out to show the gentlemen of the town their dexterity at shooting . . ."

"A clapboard with a mark the size of a silver dollar was put up; they began to fire off-hand, and the by-standers were surprised, few shots being made that were not close to or in the paper."

The climax of the demonstration was described thus:

"But will you believe me when I tell you that one of the men took the board and placing it between his legs, stood with his back to a tree, while another drove the center!"

Capt. Cresap was the youngest of five children of Col. Thomas Cresap, Western Maryland patriot, pathfinder, pioneer and the founder of Oldtown.

Born June 29, 1742, Michael was educated in Baltimore — not too willingly, for he ran away and returned to his home in Oldtown. He resumed his schooling after, historians said, his dad gave him a "terrible whipping."

A short time later, he married Miss Mary Whitehead in Philadelphia. They settled in Oldtown, where Michael became a merchant.

This venture did not succeed, nor did his plans for a real estate development in the Oldtown area, and in order to regain his fortunes, he went in 1774 to the Ohio wilderness, founding a colony near Wheeling, W. Va.

When hostile acts of Indians forced him to abandon his work of establishing a settlement, he took an active part in Dunmore's War which followed.

After the war ended with the treaty at Chillicothe, he returned to Oldtown.

Early in the spring of 1775, he hired a number of young men as helpers and returned to the Ohio to resume his settlement project.

Then the flames of the Revolution fanned across the country and Congress asked Frederick County to raise two rifle companies for the Continental Army.

Cresap and Thomas Price were named to head the units, and a messenger was dispatched to notify Cresap of his appointment as captain of the first company.

The courrier met Cresap as he was on his way home to Oldtown because of ill health.

In spite of his physical condition, Cresap accepted the appointment, recruited his company and marched out of Frederick on July 18, 1775. They reached Cambridge, Mass., on August 9, and after a brief rest, went on to join Washington's armies at Boston.

After serving in the Boston area for several months, Capt. Cresap was forced, by continued illness, to get a leave to return home. Finding himself too sick to proceed, he stopped in New York City, where he died of a fever.

Grand Jury

smer were cited for the manner in which they conduct Sylvan Retreat, the county hospital for the mentally ill. Also commended were Alvin Snyder, custodian of the Court House, Edward R. Willison and Roy Drumm, inspectors employed by the Board of License Commissioners, and Mrs. Elinor M. Westerfeld, director of the Allegany County Welfare Department.

Associate Judge George Henderson, who received the report, thanked the 23 citizens for their service on the Grand Jury and excused them with a reminder that they might be called back if some emergency develops between now and the first Monday in January when the new Grand Jury meets. He commented that he did not think Allegany County had any organized rackets. He expressed a conviction that crimes here are conducted on an individual basis and are not directed by racketeers.

Young Local Woman Given Parole In Shooting Case

Miss Teresa Frances Hamburg, 22-year-old Virginia Avenue woman who entered a guilty plea to a charge of assault with intent to kill Edwin J. Bognar, 812 Camden Avenue, yesterday received a suspended sentence and was placed on parole for five years by Associate Judge George Henderson.

The young woman had been employed in the Bognar home as a domestic. Testimony at a hearing last week showed that the Hamburg woman disliked Bognar but was on friendly terms with his wife.

Judge Henderson cited the testimony in the case which showed that the Bognars had had some marital difficulties.

Caught In Middle

"The reason I am suspending sentence, or paroling you, is due to the fact that due to the situation in the Bognar household you were caught in the middle," Judge Henderson stated.

The jurist said that although what she did was absolutely inexcusable, he felt that placing her under strict probation for five years was the best thing to do under the circumstances.

Miss Hamburg was warned to pay strict attention to the parole conditions and to stay away from the Bognars entirely, even if one of them should request otherwise.

Miss Hamburg was brought into Circuit Court on criminal information presented by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher.

Dismissed By Letter

The young woman had testified that she had been working in the Bognar home with the understanding that she absent herself in the evenings when he was home. A week earlier Bognar had written her a letter dismissing her from the job.

On the evening of the assault the Hamburg woman was working late. Bognar came home from a business trip and drove his car into a garage in the rear of the residence.

When she saw him in the driveway, the Hamburg woman obtained a .32 caliber revolver and fired a shot at him from a distance of four or five feet when he entered a cellar door from the garage.

Bognar fled when the shot missed.

The young woman could give no definite reason why she shot at her employer. William H. Geppert, attorney for the young woman, told the court his client had never been in trouble before and that a new place of employment had been obtained for her.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8—(INS)—Money in the bank for George Stevens is the serialization of Paul I. Wellman's "Comancheros" in the Pictorial Review, the Sunday supplement of the Hearst papers for which I also pen a piece weekly.

The reason the reprinting in Pictorial Review with its 6,000,000 readers is such a dividend for George is that he owns the screen rights to "Comancheros." It will be his next following Edna Ferber's "Giant" at Warners.

Oh, yes, by the way—just because "Giant" is being released through Warners doesn't necessarily mean that "Comancheros" will be. Stevens is listening to all attractive offers.

I'd heard that Dan Dailey had stalked out on "Susan Slept Here" at RKO and that Debbie Reynolds was rehearsing her dance routines alone.

Wow! What a reverberation from Margaret O'Brien's mother and aunt re our item that Maggie is dating George Jessel in New York.

"We've had calls from women's clubs and everything," wailed Maggie's aunt. "Margaret was on Mr. Jessel's TV show and later she and her mother went to see Eddie Fisher as his guests. Mr. Jessel just dropped by the table.

"Margaret is only 16 and not 18 years old and she's never been any place without her mother. Oh, yes—Mr. Jessel did drive Margaret and her mother to a movie premiere in New York, but Mrs. O'Brien was certainly with them."

Case closed.

Socially speaking: Two of my favorite people, Sir Robert and Lady Hadow, had a cocktail party for our British ambassador, Sir Roger Makins and Lady Makins. She is a charmer and American she told me proudly. He talked about Hollywood and about the hope that England and America will be close friends.

Neil McCarthy joined our little group and told us about the valuable horse he bought in Ireland. Never heard Neil wittier, nor his dialect funnier when he told Irish story after Irish story.

Sharman Douglas, with a young man I didn't know, told me she is still working as an office helper at CBS and likes it—quite a girl.

Maureen O'Sullivan and Johnny Farrow were among those to arrive early and they joined me later at the Carlo Ponti-Dino de Laurentiis party.

The Bo Roos Jrs., welcomed a baby girl and Grandpappy and Grandmammy Roos are already set to spoil her.

Funniest thing at the Carlo Ponti-Dino De Laurentiis cocktail party was the Americans trying out their Italian. Host Ray Stark's was the worst. Shelley Winters was pretty good—but then she has Vittorio Gassman to coach her.

Linda Christian Power and her sister, Adriane, were done up in summer clothes (all you can wear these hot days). Linda told me TV's "John Brown's Body" opening in San Francisco was a big success.

Michael Rennie said if Maggie doesn't come home soon from England with the baby he'll fly over and get her.

The co-guest of honor, De Laurentiis, is married to the lovely Silvana Mangano and they invited me to visit them in Rome.

The author of the popular "Brown Derby Cook Book," Leonard Levinson, is hotel-hopping in Los Angeles for his new book, "The 44 Finest Hotels In The U. S. A."

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

MR. GABLE MEETS MISS GARDNER
The lady is taking a shower

In this scene two of the principals of an exciting new picture called MOGAMBO come face to face for the first time. It isn't the last time they come face to face in the picture. This Technicolor film is the best of its kind—even better than "King Solomon's Mines" which, by the way, was also produced by Sam Zimbalist. Gable is Gable at his best but Ava Gardner is better than Gardner ever was. She is something—to look at and listen to.

M-G-M presents In Color by TECHNICOLOR "MOGAMBO" • starring CLARK GABLE • AVA GARDNER • with Grace Kelly • Screen Play by John Lee Mahin • Based Upon a Play by Wilson Collison • Directed by John Ford • Produced by Sam Zimbalist • A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

WORKS AGAINST EITHER

OF THE TWO basic squeeze plays, usually described by students as the "forward squeeze" and the "backward squeeze," the one less understood is twice as effective as the other and therefore should be employed oftener. The so-called forward one is that which operates only because the squeezer can select his discard after the squeezed opponent plays. The backward squeeze, however, will work against either opponent, since with it the declarer retains all the elements of the squeeze after his own discard.

	♠ K Q 10 7 6 4 ♥ Q J 9 ♦ A 5 ♣ 5 2
♠ 3 ♥ 4 2 ♦ J 10 9 8 7 3 2 ♣ 10 9 6	N W E S	♠ 9 2 ♥ K 10 6 3 ♦ K Q 6 ♣ J 8 7 3
	♠ A J 8 5 ♥ A 8 7 5 ♦ 4 ♣ A K Q 4

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	7 NT

In rubber bridge South would have bid the grand slam in spades. But this was a tournament and he was seeking the slightly higher score to top or tie those at other tables. He noted after the unreadable club 9 lead that the heart K had to be with East for anyone to score his grand slam. Furthermore, if that was the case, the spade declarers could assure success by ruffing a diamond and putting the heart 9 on a club. But even with the heart finesse working, he in No Trumps could find only twelve tricks unless a squeeze would work.

Not knowing who was being squeezed, if anybody, he planned his final position, which would bring success if the holder of the heart 10 also had four clubs. Winning the lead with the club A, he went to the spade K, led the heart Q, which East covered and he took with the A, led to the diamond A, scored the heart J and then ran all the spades. He discarded so as to retain the heart 8 and three clubs, when the last spade was led, dummy retaining one card in each side suit.

When the squeezing spade was led, East had done the best possible discarding. He had to choose then, though, between the heart 10 and a club, finally selecting the latter. Since the heart 10 did not show up on that trick, the declarer led to the club K and Q, and the 4 won the final trick. Notice that this play would have worked just as well if West had held the four clubs and heart 10, since the discard of the heart 8 on the squeezing trick would have left dummy with the 9.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

WORKS AGAINST EITHER

OF THE TWO basic squeeze plays, usually described by students as the "forward squeeze" and the "backward squeeze," the one less understood is twice as effective as the other and therefore should be employed oftener. The so-called forward one is that which operates only because the squeezer can select his discard after the squeezed opponent plays. The backward squeeze, however, will work against either opponent, since with it the declarer retains all the elements of the squeeze after his own discard.

	♠ K Q 10 7 6 4 ♥ Q J 9 ♦ A 5 ♣ 5 2
♠ 3 ♥ 4 2 ♦ J 10 9 8 7 3 2 ♣ 10 9 6	N W E S	♠ 9 2 ♥ K 10 6 3 ♦ K Q 6 ♣ J 8 7 3
	♠ A J 8 5 ♥ A 8 7 5 ♦ 4 ♣ A K Q 4

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	7 NT

In rubber bridge South would have bid the grand slam in spades. But this was a tournament and he was seeking the slightly higher score to top or tie those at other tables. He noted after the unreadable club 9 lead that the heart K had to be with East for anyone to score his grand slam. Furthermore, if that was the case, the spade declarers could assure success by ruffing a diamond and putting the heart 9 on a club. But even with the heart finesse working, he in No Trumps could find only twelve tricks unless a squeeze would work.

Not knowing who was being squeezed, if anybody, he planned his final position, which would bring success if the holder of the heart 10 also had four clubs. Winning the lead with the club A, he went to the spade K, led the heart Q, which East covered and he took with the A, led to the diamond A, scored the heart J and then ran all the spades. He discarded so as to retain the heart 8 and three clubs, when the last spade was led, dummy retaining one card in each side suit.

When the squeezing spade was led, East had done the best possible discarding. He had to choose then, though, between the heart 10 and a club, finally selecting the latter. Since the heart 10 did not show up on that trick, the declarer led to the club K and Q, and the 4 won the final trick. Notice that this play would have worked just as well if West had held the four clubs and heart 10, since the discard of the heart 8 on the squeezing trick would have left dummy with the 9.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ K Q J 8 6 4 ♥ Q J ♦ Q J 10 ♣ 10 5
♠ 9 3 ♥ K 10 6 5 ♦ 9 6 2 ♣ J 9 4 2	N W E S	♠ 10 5 ♥ 9 7 4 2 ♦ 7 5 ♣ K Q 8 6 3
	♠ A 7 2 ♥ A 8 3 ♦ A K 8 4 3 ♣ A 7

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What would you consider the best bidding on this big deal?

In Memoriam

In memory of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Stella Johnson, who passed away three years ago, Oct. 9, 1950.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just, to the end of her days;
Sincere and true, in her heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.

MEN
THIS AD IS FOR AMBITIOUS MEN ONLY
The profession of selling is a very highly paid one for ambitious men, that have a lot of interests in the finer things of life and a lot of activity to put in the job. We have the company—the product—the price—and the liberal profit sharing remuneration. If you have the interest and activity, then write P. O. Box 2101, Cumberland, Md.

MEN
THIS AD IS FOR AMBITIOUS MEN ONLY
The profession of selling is a very highly paid one for ambitious men, that have a lot of interests in the finer things of life and a lot of activity to put in the job. I do think a man who is fortunate enough to make a permanent connection with a good company that sells a nationally known product and pays their franchise dealers a very liberal profit sharing remuneration is indeed fortunate. We have the company—the product—the price—and the liberal profit sharing remuneration. If you have the interest and activity, then write P. O. Box 2101, Cumberland, Md.

SRC Asked For Details Of Crosstown Facility

Alternate Plan Forwarded To State

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission will ask Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, to furnish information on 14 details of the crosstown bridge expressway plan proposed by the SRC for Cumberland.

There are a number of details which should be made clear, the Planning Commission said, before the Mayor and Council and citizens of Cumberland can properly evaluate the plan.

The commission will ask that the points, which vitally effect the cost and feasibility of the plan, be supplied as soon as possible. The details include:

Details Requested

Information as to the way in which the traffic intersection of Willowbrook Road and the expressway will be handled.

Whether or not the State Roads plan contemplates a bridge over the expressway at Monroe Street, or what means are proposed to get traffic from the Monroe Street-Eastern Avenue section across the proposed expressway.

A description and sketch of the cloverleaf intersection proposed at the point where the expressway meets Johnson Street.

The manner in which access will be furnished to and from the Moose property on South Smallwood Street.

Sketches Asked

The manner in which access is to be provided to the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company warehouse on Water Street, and all other properties between the expressway and the Potomac River.

Whether or not a bridge is proposed to cross over the expressway at Brown Avenue.

Whether or not Gephart Drive will be closed and made a dead-end street.

The type of bridge or manner in which it is proposed to provide access to and from the Ridgedale Reservoir and the homes in the Ridgedale Avenue Section.

A sketch and explanation showing the location and scope of the proposed bridge and interchange between the expressway and U. S. 220 in the Dingle.

Copies of the letter to McCain will be supplied to the Mayor and Council and C. R. Nuzum, city engineer.

Backs Alternate Plan

The Planning Commission has gone on record as opposing the crosstown bridge expressway plan as advocated by the State Roads commission and included in the SRC's 12-year construction program.

The municipal commission is supporting an alternate plan submitted by Albert S. Paye, local engineer and a member of the commission. It includes a circumferential route and internal plan to improve local traffic conditions.

Details of the Planning Commissioner's program, as prepared by Paye, have been presented to the State Roads Commission.

As instructed by the Mayor and Council Monday, the Engineering Department presented details of the alternate plan Wednesday to A. S. Gordon, executive assistant to McCain, and George N. Lewis, director of the SRC's traffic department.

The city asked SRC officials to analyze the alternate plan, make cost estimates and report findings to the Mayor and Council.

Ask George St. Plans

The city planning group, at a meeting in City Hall yesterday, also voted to ask the city for details of its plans for extending North George Street.

The request was made by James Alfred Avirett, who pointed out that the city's present plans call for extending North George Street only to Bedford Street.

Incendiary Blamed For Three Fires

Blazes Are Reported Along Wolfe's Ridge

An incendiary was blamed for three forest fires which started almost simultaneously yesterday afternoon along the foot of Wolfe's Ridge back of Barton's Dairy at Pinto, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

The three blazes on the east side of Dan's Mountain were brought under control after they had burned a total of about one acre of young timber.

Senior Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin, Fire Guard George Brown and Forest Warden Oliver Campbell and some 10 or 12 men from the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company, with two pumpers, were responsible for bringing the fires under control.

Although the fires are still under investigation, no one has been arrested, the forester said.

Meanwhile, Johnson reported that a fire on Collier's Mountain and another in Pennsylvania just north of Mt. Savage, which started Wednesday, were still smoldering last night. They were being watched to see that high winds do not cause them to spread.

Tilden Norris, district forester for eight Eastern West Virginia counties, reported last night that his district was without a new forest fire yesterday. He expressed a belief that the public is becoming more fire conscious and people are taking greater pains to see that they do not start fires.

Training School Heads Protest Escapee Case

Say Charge Should Have Been Federal

Officials of the Maryland Training School for Boys have sent a letter of protest to Juvenile Court Magistrate Alban C. Thompson in connection with the escape this week of a 15-year-old West Side youth from the institution.

The letter stated that since the youth had escaped twice previously from the training school and had later been sent to the Maryland State Reformatory for Males at Breathedsville, the local Juvenile Court should not have sent the boy to the training school again as a result of a recent offense.

Thompson said the letter was signed by Elbert L. Fletcher, superintendent of the training school at Loch Raven.

Officials of the training school added that in the boy's last offense he had transported a stolen car across a state line, and that this was a case for the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Instead, the youth was tried in Allegany County Juvenile Court as a delinquent minor. The training school said he should have been charged with a federal violation.

The youth was sentenced to the Maryland Training School for Boys about two weeks ago for stealing an auto.

The escapee, two other boys and a 15-year-old girl were arrested September 20 in a car owned by Paul W. DeMoss, RD 3, Bedford, Pa. The car had been stolen here a few days earlier.

The quartet was nabbed on West Virginia State Route 28 at Pinto Road by Trooper W. Frank Bowley, and the four were taken to Keyser. Later they were brought to Cumberland for hearings.

One of the youths sentenced was on parole after having been connected in cases involving the theft of 12 cars. Another also was paroled several months ago in connection with a morals case.

Magistrate Thompson sentenced the four in Juvenile Court two days after their arrest. Two boys were given terms and the others were placed on probation.

Thompson said the youth who escaped Tuesday had escaped from the training school twice before and had later stolen vehicles each time.

Each time the youth was caught and returned to the institution. On his second escape, authorities sent him to the Reformatory for Males at Breathedsville, where he was paroled recently.

City Police have been asked to be on the lookout for the youth, who is expected to return to Cumberland.

Reeves Acquitted On Morals Count But State Appeals

The State's Attorney's Office yesterday prayed an appeal on a Juvenile Court not guilty decision of a Westernport man charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old Westernport girl.

Magistrate Alban C. Thompson yesterday found Paul Richard Reeves not guilty of the charge because of insufficient evidence. Attorney for the defense was Horace P. Whitworth Jr. Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty represented the state.

In July Reeves was released under $2,000 bond to await action of the Grand Jury on a charge of carnal knowledge before Magistrate William E. Meagher at Cresaptown.

Later the charge was changed by the state to one of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Couple Admits Shielding AWOL Son From FBI

King, Mrs. Reynolds Take Stand In Trial

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP)—A Cumberland restaurant cook and her common-law husband admitted today that they spirited her airman son out of the grasp of FBI agents during the summer of 1952.

But both denied knowledge of any wrongdoing. They said they were merely trying to get the boy to return to his Air Force base in Washington to clear himself of AWOL charges.

Mrs. Martha Ellen Reynolds and Oliver Guy King, an auto mechanic, went on trial in federal court today on charges of harboring a fugitive—her son James Edward Parsons, wanted by federal authorities in Fayetteville, W. Va., on auto theft charges.

Lowered On Clothesline

The government charges, and both defendants admit, that Parsons hid out in the Reynolds-King apartment (at 140 N. Mechanic St.) in Cumberland all day on Aug. 28, 1952.

While FBI agents watched the front entrance, Parsons' mother lowered him from a back porch down a 20-foot drop into Wills Creek on a plastic clothes line. Later, King met Parsons and took him in a taxi to the top of Martins Mountain with the understanding the airman was to hitch-hike back to Washington.

Both defendants contended that far from hiding him from authorities, they were making every effort to send him back to them, although not the same authorities.

Tried To Help Children

On the witness stand, Mrs. Reynolds was asked whether she was trying to hide or conceal her son from authorities.

"No sir," she replied. "I wanted him to go back to camp. I knew if the law got him he'd go to jail and his check would be cut off from his wife and kiddies."

King said he helped get Parsons out of town "for the purpose of taking care of the small children that needed help and still need it badly."

"If I done wrong I did it unintentionally," he added. "My idea was to help the small children."

Judge William C. Coleman denied a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal. Both sides completed testimony today. Arguments and probably a verdict are on schedule for tomorrow.

Drainage Studies Are Being Prepared

Plans for the city's Frederick Street improvement project are in the hands of Bureau of Public Roads officials in Baltimore.

The Bureau of Public Roads, officials said, is making drainage studies of the project and has not reported to the SRC on that phase of the work.

Police On Alert For Suspect In Kidnap-Killing

State Police from Maryland and nearby West Virginia have joined in a nation-wide search for Thomas John Marsh, the third suspect in the kidnap-killing of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City, Mo.

Authorities were notified yesterday that Marsh and a woman companion were reported seen in St. Clairsville, Ohio, headed East. Another report said that the two persons, traveling in a late-model gray Ford were seen in the Western Maryland area headed East.

The couple was reported to be in an auto bearing Missouri tags. Marsh, who has a mole or birthmark on one side of his face, was reported to have inquired the distance to West Virginia when seen in the Ohio town.

The Allegany County Agricultural Conservation Resources Committee will meet in the PMA office at 2 p. m. next Thursday to recommend 1954 agriculture conservation practices.

Members of the committee include the three PMA members, Albert O'Neal, James H. Weimer and Joseph W. Silber; County Agent Ralph F. McHenry; District Forester William H. Johnson, Kenneth M. Stone and Martin M. Gordon of the Soil Conservation Service, and the five members of the Allegany Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, R. W. Ferguson, Dale Mann, Ernest Slider, Charles Harvey and Wilbert R. Paul. Richard Carson, PMA field representative for Western Maryland, will meet with them.

Some 34 civil trials are docketed on nine different days. They are October 27, 28, 29 and 30 and November 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Corps Of Engineers Will Confer With City Officials On Flood Job

Mayor Roy W. Eves reported yesterday that Corps of Engineers officials will be here October 20 and 21 to confer with the Mayor and Council concerning the remaining stages of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Project.

The delegation will include six members of the staff of the Corps of Engineers' Washington District. They will arrive here in time for an afternoon conference on October 20 and will return to Washington the following afternoon after a morning session.

The conference, the mayor said, will concern the problems of property acquisition in Ridgeley and on the West Side of Cumberland during the remaining stages of the flood control work, and discussions of the possible costs of the properties and rights of way.

Also planned is a tour of the areas involved.

The Army Engineers have asked the city to acquire within the next year all of the land needed for the remaining phases of the work.

Under current plans, the city would have to acquire some 60 dwellings, 43 of them in Ridgeley and about 21 on the West Side in connection with the Potomac River phases.

The city could ask the Corps of Engineers to modify plans enough to save some of the properties and to reduce land costs.

At present, remaining local funds allotted to the flood project are only a bit more than is needed to pay the construction costs chargeable to the city.

SA Fund Drive Meeting Set

Campaign leaders and team captains for the Salvation Army's fund drive will meet next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Salvation Army Citadel, North Mechanic Street, to map plans for the coming campaign, according to Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the Army's Advisory Board.

Adolf Blunk, general campaign chairman, said a preliminary survey of some organizations, businesses and industries has been made and the Army has been assured of their cooperation in the fund drive.

Among those pledging their support to the Salvation Army in its fund campaign are members of the Rubber Workers Union at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, Army officials said.

They added that Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company officials and employe groups have pledged their support as well as Western Maryland Railway officials and employe groups who plan a drive for the Army.

The Salvation Army also has been assured a contribution from employe groups at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, said leaders of the campaign, pointing out that in preliminary work of the Army's drive a number of other employers and employe groups have assured their support, including many smaller businesses and employes.

Chest Meeting Today

The first report meeting of the 1953 Cumberland Community Chest Drive, which got under way Tuesday night, will be held today at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Early Hunting Costs Area Men $126

It cost three area hunters a total of $126 this week for starting the squirrel hunting season one day too early.

Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke said Albert N. Singleton and Joseph A. Czebotar, both of White Marsh, and Russell Appold, Magnolia, W. Va., were fined $40 and costs each before Magistrate Donald Steckman, Oldtown.

They were apprehended across the Potomac River from Magnolia late Sunday evening with two fox squirrels in their possession, Minke said.

Minke added that since the season opened Monday, several hunters have been issued summons and will be charged with driving the Green Ridge Forest roads with loaded guns in their cars.

Many hunters make a habit of riding the roads and shooting at sqiurrels and wild turkeys from their autos, Minke said, and added that this is not only a violation of the game laws but is extremely dangerous especially to others in the forest.

In spite of the extreme dry conditions in the woodlands, hunters thus far have been very careful and no fires have been reported, Minke said.

Local Boy Kills Wounded Fox In Charging Attack

A 16-year-old local hunter killed a charging gray fox yesterday after wounding it with a blast from his 20-gauge shotgun near his home on Baltimore Pike.

Imes felled the approximately 40-pound attacking fox a few feet in front of him with a second blast from his gun. The youth, a Fort Hill High School student, also bagged two squirrels on his hunting trip.

Football Queen's Identity Clarified

Grand Jury Asks Prompt Repairs At County Jail

Body Indicts 15, Hears 49 Witnesses

A recommendation that the Allegany County Board of Commissioners take immediate steps to eliminate or correct unsafe conditions in the County Jail was one of the features of the eight-page report submitted by the October Grand Jury in Circuit Court as it ended four days of investigations yesterday.

Mayor Arthur P. Hoffa of Barton served as foreman of the 23-member Grand Jury which included five women. The grand jurors note that they examined 49 witnesses and returned 15 indictments.

Jail Recommendations

Concerning the County Jail, the Grand Jury recommends that a separate entrance and exit be provided for the use of female prisoners who, under the present setup, are required to pass through that portion of the jail occupied by male prisoners before arriving at the quarters set aside for their confinement.

"Our body notes that on the second and third tiers, a catwalk exists, which constitutes a hazard to life or limb," the report continues.

"It would be possible for an inmate to either accidentally or purposely fall or jump and seriously and perhaps fatally injure himself. It is our recommendations that the County Commissioners of Allegany County immediately take cognizance of this hazard and make arrangements to eliminate or correct it and that the next Grand Jury for Allegany County make inquiry to determine if this particular recommendation has been carried out."

Sheriff Praised

This particular section of the report commended Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies for the excellent conditions existing at the jail when considered in connection with its age and need for modernization.

Later in their report, the grand jurors note that the Board of County Commissioners appeared before them to explain the county's four-year building improvement program. The commissioners promised wholehearted cooperation in the suggested repairs at the County Jail, the report adds.

In another section, the Grand Jury states that City Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker reported to that body that a code of safety regulations is being prepared and will be presented to the Mayor and City Council for acceptance. When accepted and adopted, it will have a penal section which will assist in enforcement of the safety regulations, the report says.

Indulging in some calculations, the Grand Jury determined that the average daily cost for care of each patient at the County Infirmary is $5.77. The total annual operating cost is $212,828.86 and $29,982.81 was paid by patients, leaving a net expenditure of $182,846.05.

"Extremely Low Cost"

"We believe this is extremely low cost per day as compared to other institutions rendering the same service and it reflects excellent management on the part of the superintendent (Earl Grim) and the County Commissioners," the report states.

A final section in the Grand Jury report commends State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, Clerk of Circuit Court Joseph E. Boden, Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis and County Investigator E. R. Lilya.

"The Grand Jury finds that the State's Attorney's Office has conducted its duties very efficiently and at all times has carried out in a diligent manner its duties to the people of this county.

"We wish to commend E. R. Lilya, county investigator, for his assistance and cooperation to the Grand Jury. We also wish to thank Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the Circuit Court, and court attaches for the assistance they rendered this Grand Jury. We wish to thank Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis for his cooperation and help to us during the time we have been in session.

"The Grand Jury wishes to commend the State's Attorney, Paul M. Fletcher, for the very efficient and noteworthy manner in which he prepared the matters from his office and presented them before the Grand Jury. This body finds that the State's Attorney has conducted his duties most diligently and all offenses brought to his attention have been handled properly by necessary investigations."

Society May Travel To New York To Honor Hero Of Revolution

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN

Col. F. E. Powell, (USA Ret.) Combridge, has suggested that the society meet in New York in October 1954.

The meeting, he added, would coincide with the 179th anniversary of the death and burial of Captain Michael Cresap in Trinity Churchyard.

He suggested that a rededication of the grave could be held and an appropriate marker erected for the occasion.

An obituary account datelined New York, October 23, 1775, gives the following account of Capt. Cresap:

"On the 12th Instant arrived here on his return from the Provincial Camp at Cambridge, and on the 18th departed this life, of a fever, in the twenty-eighth year of his age, Michael Cressop, Esq., eldest son of Col. Thomas Cressop, of Potowmack, in Virginia.

"He was a Captain of a Rifle Company now in the Continental Army before Boston.

"He served as a Captain under the command of Lord Dunmore in the late Expedition against the Indians, in which he eminently distinguished himself by his Prudence, Firmness and Intrepidity, as a brave Officer; and in the present Contest between the Parent State and the Colonies, gave Proofs of his Attachment to the Rights and Liberties of his Country.

"He has left a widow and four children to deplore the loss of a Husband and a Father; and by his Death his Country is deprived of a worthy and esteemed Citizen.

Historians point out that the account is incorrect in several points. Capt. Cresap was 33 at his death, instead of 28, was the youngest son of Col. Cresap, who lived in Maryland, not Virginia, and that Capt. Cresap left five children. The youngest, named for his father, was born a few days before Capt. Cresap died.

His gravestone bore the following inscription:

"In Memory of Michael Cresap, First Capt. of the Rifle Batalions, and Son to Col. Thomas Cresap, who Departed this Life October the 18:1775."

The original marker, a sandstone, was replaced in 1867 by the New York Historical Society and the original stone has been preserved in the Cresap Society's exhibit in New York.

The Western Maryland men who followed Capt. Cresap to join Washington's armies carried, cradled in their arms, a weapon which had the kick of an atomic bomb and they knew what do with it.

The rifles they carried were so dreaded by the Redcoats that, historians say, the British outlawed riflemen by a proclamation saying that none of them who were captured should be treated as prisoners of war.

The riflemen took care of that. They soon had taken enough prisoners, Ridpath reported, "that the British never dared to carry out the threat."

SRC Asked For Details Of Crosstown Facility

Alternate Plan Forwarded To State

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission will ask Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, to furnish information on 14 details of the crosstown bridge expressway plan proposed by the SRC for Cumberland.

There are a number of details which should be made clear, the Planning Commission said, before the Mayor and Council and citizens of Cumberland can properly evaluate the plan.

The commission will ask that the points, which vitally effect the cost and feasibility of the plan, be supplied as soon as possible. The details include:

Details Requested

Information as to the way in which the traffic intersection of Willowbrook Road and the expressway will be handled.

Whether or not the State Roads plan contemplates a bridge over the expressway at Monroe Street, or what means are proposed to get traffic from the Monroe Street-Eastern Avenue section across the proposed expressway.

A sketch and brief explanation of the manner in which the interchange at Emily Street and Maryland Avenue is to be constructed.

Information as to how close the crosstown bridge structure would come to the Queen City Hotel building of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.

A description and sketch of the proposed interchange between the crosstown bridge and Mechanic, Centre and George streets and the approaches thereto.

A description and sketch of the cloverleaf intersection proposed at the point where the expressway meets Johnson Street.

The manner in which access will be furnished to and from the Moose property on South Smallwood Street.

Sketches Asked

The manner in which access is to be provided to the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company warehouse on Water Street, and all other properties between the expressway and the Potomac River.

A sketch and explanation of the proposed interchange of the Kelly-Springfield Boulevard and the expressway.

Will Patterson Avenue be constructed over or under the proposed expressway?

Whether or not a bridge is proposed to cross over the expressway at Brown Avenue.

Whether or not Gephart Drive will be closed and made a dead-end street.

The type of bridge or manner in which it is proposed to provide access to and from the Ridgedale Reservoir and the homes in the Ridgedale Avenue Section.

A sketch and explanation showing the location and scope of the proposed bridge and interchange between the expressway and U. S. 220 in the Dingle.

Copies of the letter to McCain will be supplied to the Mayor and Council and C. R. Nuzum, city engineer.

Backs Alternate Plan

The Planning Commission has gone on record as opposing the crosstown bridge expressway plan as advocated by the State Roads commission and included in the SRC's 12-year construction program.

The municipal commission is supporting an alternate plan submitted by Albert S. Paye, local engineer and a member of the commission. It includes a circumferential route and internal plan to improve local traffic conditions.

Details of the Planning Commissioner's program, as prepared by Paye, have been presented to the State Roads Commission.

As instructed by the Mayor and Council Monday, the Engineering Department presented details of the alternate plan Wednesday to A. S. Gordon, executive assistant to McCain, and George N. Lewis, director of the SRC's traffic department.

The city asked SRC officials to analyze the alternate plan, make cost estimates and report findings to the Mayor and Council.

Ask George St. Plans

The city planning group, at a meeting in City Hall yesterday, also voted to ask the city for details of its plans for extending North George Street.

The request was made by James Alfred Avirett, who pointed out that the city's present plans call for extending North George Street only to Bedford Street.

Incendiary Blamed For Three Fires

Blazes Are Reported Along Wolfe's Ridge

An incendiary was blamed for three forest fires which started almost simultaneously yesterday afternoon along the foot of Wolfe's Ridge back of Barton's Dairy at Pinto, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

The three blazes on the east side of Dan's Mountain were brought under control after they had burned a total of about one acre of young timber.

Senior Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin, Fire Guard George Brown and Forest Warden Oliver Campbell and some 10 or 12 men from the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company, with two pumpers, were responsible for bringing the fires under control.

Although the fires are still under investigation, no one has been arrested, the forester said.

Meanwhile, Johnson reported that a fire on Collier's Mountain and another in Pennsylvania just north of Mt. Savage, which started Wednesday, were still smoldering last night. They were being watched to see that high winds do not cause them to spread.

Tilden Norris, district forester for eight Eastern West Virginia counties, reported last night that his district was without a new forest fire yesterday. He expressed a belief that the public is becoming more fire conscious and people are taking greater pains to see that they do not start fires.

Training School Heads Protest Escapee Case

Say Charge Should Have Been Federal

Officials of the Maryland Training School for Boys have sent a letter of protest to Juvenile Court Magistrate Alban C. Thompson in connection with the escape this week of a 15-year-old West Side youth from the institution.

The letter stated that since the youth had escaped twice previously from the training school and had later been sent to the Maryland State Reformatory for Males at Breathedsville, the local Juvenile Court should not have sent the boy to the training school again as a result of a recent offense.

Thompson said the letter was signed by Elbert L. Fletcher, superintendent of the training school at Loch Raven.

Officials of the training school added that in the boy's last offense he had transported a stolen car across a state line, and that this was a case for the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Instead, the youth was tried in Allegany County Juvenile Court as a delinquent minor. The training school said he should have been charged with a federal violation.

The youth was sentenced to the Maryland Training School for Boys about two weeks ago for stealing an auto.

The escapee, two other boys and a 15-year-old girl were arrested September 20 in a car owned by Paul W. DeMoss, RD 3, Bedford, Pa. The car had been stolen here a few days earlier.

The quartet was nabbed on West Virginia State Route 28 at Pinto Road by Trooper W. Frank Bowley, and the four were taken to Keyser. Later they were brought to Cumberland for hearings.

One of the youths sentenced was on parole after having been connected in cases involving the theft of 12 cars. Another also was paroled several months ago in connection with a morals case.

Magistrate Thompson sentenced the four in Juvenile Court two days after their arrest. Two boys were given terms and the others were placed on probation.

Thompson said the youth who escaped Tuesday had escaped from the training school twice before and had later stolen vehicles each time.

Each time the youth was caught and returned to the institution. On his second escape, authorities sent him to the Reformatory for Males at Breathedsville, where he was paroled recently.

City Police have been asked to be on the lookout for the youth, who is expected to return to Cumberland.

Reeves Acquitted On Morals Count But State Appeals

The State's Attorney's Office yesterday prayed an appeal on a Juvenile Court not guilty decision of a Westernport man charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old Westernport girl.

Magistrate Alban C. Thompson yesterday found Paul Richard Reeves not guilty of the charge because of insufficient evidence. Attorney for the defense was Horace P. Whitworth Jr. Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty represented the state.

In July Reeves was released under $2,000 bond to await action of the Grand Jury on a charge of carnal knowledge before Magistrate William E. Meagher at Cresaptown.

Later the charge was changed by the state to one of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Couple Admits Shielding AWOL Son From FBI

King, Mrs. Reynolds Take Stand In Trial

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP)—A Cumberland restaurant cook and her common-law husband admitted today that they spirited her airman son out of the grasp of FBI agents during the summer of 1952.

But both denied knowledge of any wrongdoing. They said they were merely trying to get the boy to return to his Air Force base in Washington to clear himself of AWOL charges.

Mrs. Martha Ellen Reynolds and Oliver Guy King, an auto mechanic, went on trial in federal court today on charges of harboring a fugitive—her son James Edward Parsons, wanted by federal authorities in Fayetteville, W. Va., on auto theft charges.

Lowered On Clothesline

The government charges, and both defendants admit, that Parsons hid out in the Reynolds-King apartment (at 140 N. Mechanic St.) in Cumberland all day on Aug. 28, 1952.

While FBI agents watched the front entrance, Parsons' mother lowered him from a back porch down a 20-foot drop into Wills Creek on a plastic clothes line. Later, King met Parsons and took him in a taxi to the top of Martins Mountain with the understanding the airman was to hitch-hike back to Washington.

Both defendants contended that far from hiding him from authorities, they were making every effort to send him back to them, although not the same authorities.

Tried To Help Children

For one thing, they wanted Parsons back in military custody so his allotment checks would resume for the support of his three young children.

On the witness stand, Mrs. Reynolds was asked whether she was trying to hide or conceal her son from authorities.

"No sir," she replied. "I wanted him to go back to camp. I knew if the law got him he'd go to jail and his check would be cut off from his wife and kiddies."

King said he helped get Parsons out of town "for the purpose of taking care of the small children that needed help and still need it badly."

"If I done wrong I did it unintentionally," he added. "My idea was to help the small children."

Judge William C. Coleman denied a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal. Both sides completed testimony today. Arguments and probably a verdict are on schedule for tomorrow.

Drainage Studies Are Being Prepared

State Police from Maryland and nearby West Virginia have joined in a nation-wide search for Thomas John Marsh, the third suspect in the kidnap-killing of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City, Mo.

Authorities were notified yesterday that Marsh and a woman companion were reported seen in St. Clairsville, Ohio, headed East. Another report said that the two persons, traveling in a late-model gray Ford were seen in the Western Maryland area headed East.

The couple was reported to be in an auto bearing Missouri tags. Marsh, who has a mole or birthmark on one side of his face, was reported to have inquired the distance to West Virginia when seen in the Ohio town.

Corps Of Engineers Will Confer With City Officials On Flood Job

Mayor Roy W. Eves reported yesterday that Corps of Engineers officials will be here October 20 and 21 to confer with the Mayor and Council concerning the remaining stages of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Project.

The delegation will include six members of the staff of the Corps of Engineers' Washington District. They will arrive here in time for an afternoon conference on October 20 and will return to Washington the following afternoon after a morning session.

The conference, the mayor said, will concern the problems of property acquisition in Ridgeley and on the West Side of Cumberland during the remaining stages of the flood control work, and discussions of the possible costs of the properties and rights of way.

Also planned is a tour of the areas involved.

The Army Engineers have asked the city to acquire within the next year all of the land needed for the remaining phases of the work.

Under current plans, the city would have to acquire some 60 dwellings, 43 of them in Ridgeley and about 21 on the West Side in connection with the Potomac River phases.

The city could ask the Corps of Engineers to modify plans enough to save some of the properties and to reduce land costs.

At present, remaining local funds allotted to the flood project are only a bit more than is needed to pay the construction costs chargeable to the city.

SA Fund Drive Meeting Set

Campaign leaders and team captains for the Salvation Army's fund drive will meet next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Salvation Army Citadel, North Mechanic Street, to map plans for the coming campaign, according to Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the Army's Advisory Board.

Adolf Blunk, general campaign chairman, said a preliminary survey of some organizations, businesses and industries has been made and the Army has been assured of their cooperation in the fund drive.

Among those pledging their support to the Salvation Army in its fund campaign are members of the Rubber Workers Union at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, Army officials said.

They added that Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company officials and employe groups have pledged their support as well as Western Maryland Railway officials and employe groups who plan a drive for the Army.

The Salvation Army also has been assured a contribution from employe groups at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, said leaders of the campaign, pointing out that in preliminary work of the Army's drive a number of other employers and employe groups have assured their support, including many smaller businesses and employes.

Chest Meeting Today

The first report meeting of the 1953 Cumberland Community Chest Drive, which got under way Tuesday night, will be held today at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Early Hunting Costs Area Men $126

It cost three area hunters a total of $126 this week for starting the squirrel hunting season one day too early.

Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke said Albert N. Singleton and Joseph A. Czebotar, both of White Marsh, and Russell Appold, Magnolia, W. Va., were fined $40 and costs each before Magistrate Donald Steckman, Oldtown.

They were apprehended across the Potomac River from Magnolia late Sunday evening with two fox squirrels in their possession, Minke said.

Minke added that since the season opened Monday, several hunters have been issued summons and will be charged with driving the Green Ridge Forest roads with loaded guns in their cars.

Many hunters make a habit of riding the roads and shooting at squirrels and wild turkeys from their autos, Minke said, and added that this is not only a violation of the game laws but is extremely dangerous especially to others in the forest.

In spite of the extreme dry conditions in the woodlands, hunters thus far have been very careful and no fires have been reported, Minke said.

Local Boy Kills Wounded Fox In Charging Attack

Richard Imes said he saw two of the animals together and fired at one of them, wounding it. The second fox fled over a ridge while the injured companion charged the young hunter.

Imes felled the approximately 40-pound attacking fox a few feet in front of him with a second blast from his gun. The youth, a Fort Hill High School student, also bagged two squirrels on his hunting trip.

Football Queen's Identity Clarified

Grand Jury Asks Prompt Repairs At County Jail

Body Indicts 15, Hears 49 Witnesses

A recommendation that the Allegany County Board of Commissioners take immediate steps to eliminate or correct unsafe conditions in the County Jail was one of the features of the eight-page report submitted by the October Grand Jury in Circuit Court as it ended four days of investigations yesterday.

Mayor Arthur P. Hoffa of Barton served as foreman of the 23-member Grand Jury which included five women. The grand jurors note that they examined 49 witnesses and returned 15 indictments.

Jail Recommendations

Concerning the County Jail, the Grand Jury recommends that a separate entrance and exit be provided for the use of female prisoners who, under the present set-up, are required to pass through that portion of the jail occupied by male prisoners before arriving at the quarters set aside for their confinement.

"Our body notes that on the second and third tiers, a catwalk exists, which constitutes a hazard to life or limb," the report continues.

"It would be possible for an inmate to either accidentally or purposely fall or jump and seriously and perhaps fatally injure himself. It is our recommendations that the County Commissioners of Allegany County immediately take cognizance of this hazard and make arrangements to eliminate or correct it and that the next Grand Jury for Allegany County make inquiry to determine if this particular recommendation has been carried out."

Sheriff Praised

This particular section of the report commended Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies for the excellent conditions existing at the jail when considered in connection with its age and need for modernization.

Later in their report, the grand jurors note that the Board of County Commissioners appeared before them to explain the county's four-year building improvement program. The commissioners promised wholehearted cooperation in the suggested repairs at the County Jail, the report adds.

In another section, the Grand Jury states that City Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker reported to that body that a code of safety regulations is being prepared and will be presented to the Mayor and City Council for acceptance. When accepted and adopted, it will have a penal section which will assist in enforcement of the safety regulations, the report says.

Indulging in some calculations, the Grand Jury determined that the average daily cost for care of each patient at the County Infirmary is $5.77. The total annual operating cost is $212,828.86 and $29,982.81 was paid by patients, leaving a net expenditure of $182,846.05.

"Extremely Low Cost"

"We believe this is extremely low cost per day as compared to other institutions rendering the same service and it reflects excellent management on the part of the superintendent (Earl Grim) and the County Commissioners," the report states.

A final section in the Grand Jury report commends State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, Clerk of Circuit Court Joseph E. Boden, Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis and County Investigator E. R. Lilya.

"The Grand Jury finds that the State's Attorney's Office has conducted its duties very efficiently and at all times has carried out in a diligent manner its duties to the people of this county.

"We wish to commend E. R. Lilya, county investigator, for his assistance and cooperation to the Grand Jury. We also wish to thank Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the Circuit Court, and court attaches for the assistance they rendered this Grand Jury. We wish to thank Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis for his cooperation and help to us during the time we have been in session.

"The Grand Jury wishes to commend the State's Attorney, Paul M. Fletcher, for the very efficient and noteworthy manner in which he prepared the matters from his office and presented them before the Grand Jury. This body finds that the State's Attorney has conducted his duties most diligently and all offenses brought to his attention have been handled properly by necessary investigations."

Employes Commended

Through the report commendations were extended to a number of other county employes. Mrs. Wilbur D. Sills, county auditor, is commended for the system she employs in keeping the receipts and disbursements and incidental records. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mes-

Society May Travel To New York To Honor Hero Of Revolution

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN

Col. F. E. Powell, (USA Ret.) Cambridge, has suggested that the society meet in New York in October 1954.

The meeting, he added, would coincide with the 179th anniversary of the death and burial of Captain Michael Cresap in Trinity Churchyard.

He suggested that a rededication of the grave could be held and an appropriate marker erected for the occasion.

An obituary account datelined New York, October 23, 1775, gives the following account of Capt. Cresap:

"On the 12th Instant arrived here on his return from the Provincial Camp at Cambridge, and on the 18th departed this life, of a fever, in the twenty-eighth year of his age, Michael Cressop, Esq., eldest son of Col. Thomas Cressop, of Potowmack, in Virginia.

"His remains were interr'd in Trinity Churchyard, with Military Honors, attended by a vast Concourse of people."

Historians point out that the account is incorrect in several points. Capt. Cresap was 33 at his death, instead of 28, was the youngest son of Col. Cresap, who lived in Maryland, not Virginia, and that Capt. Cresap left five children. The youngest, named for his father, was born a few days before Capt. Cresap died.

His gravestone bore the following inscription:

"In Memory of Michael Cresap, First Capt. of the Rifle Batalions, and Son to Col. Thomas Cresap, who Departed this Life October the 18:1775."

The original marker, a sandstone, was replaced in 1867 by the New York Historical Society and the original stone has been preserved in the Cresap Society's exhibit in New York.
